Rep. Baker Denunciates Speaker Thomas Graham

JEFFERSON, CITY, MO. AP --Representative Tom Baker (Dem.), Stoddard County, accused Representative Thomas D. Graham Wednesday of "making a mockery of our Democratic processes" in his job as Speaker of the Missouri House.

The Southeast Missouri legislator also charged that Representative Graham was "attempting to take the Missouri House down the cow path to an election-at-large for all House members which will very likely result in the entire membership of a newly organized House of Representatives being elected from the large cities of Missouri."

NEW FLOOR LEADER

Representative Baker released his statement to the press three hours before House Democrats met and elected Representative Mel Carnahan (Dem.), Phelps County, as the new majority floor leader, a post vacant since Representative H. F. Patterson died March 30.

Representative Baker said he had been encouraged to run for floor leader but would not "principally because I am not in accord with the present House leadership."

"In fact, it is well known that I am violently opposed to many of the practices, policies and customs adopted and placed into operation by the present House Speaker.

"Conditions have now reached the point in the House of the Missouri Legislature that I can no longer remain silent on matters that are intolerable and which are making a legislative mockery of our Democratic processes.

"Our House leadership is making a great cry about a governor succeeding himself the first term while this same legislator is now serving his third term as Speaker of the House.

"I specifically urge that the Missouri House create a rule whereby any member will automatically vacate the office of Speaker after two terms of the Legislature, a practice that is now followed with respect to the president pro tem of the Missouri Senate.

"Unlimited terms for House Speaker have resulted in a situation with respect to committees that is made to order for the Speaker and the lobbyists who are vitally interested in the proceedings of the lower body.

"We will always have a situation that works to the advantage of special money interests but a Speaker can create 'kill' and 'pass' committees that he can refer legislative bills to, all the while regarding this as a prerequisite of the private domain of his specially privileged office."

Rep. Baker said he was proud to report that "not a single one of the most active lobbyists, working the state capitol has encouraged me to run" for floor leader.

RAPS 'MISMANAGEMENT'

He said the "present reapportionment stalemate decreed by the Speaker" was an example of "the mismanagement of the Missouri House."

By delaying House action on the reapportioning ordered by a federal court, the Speaker is "courting legislative chaos," by his "obstinate opposal to reapportionment." The Speaker's actions could lead to an at-large election, Representative Baker declared.

He suggested that the House should create a committee on committees to take over the job of assigning bills--traditionally the Speaker's responsibility.

"It is now time for all of the people of Missouri to begin to ask their own State Representatives if they support the present House leadership," Representative Baker concluded.

"These policies and those responsible for them are definitely going to become an issue in Missouri politics. As for me, I definitely and publicly wish to disavow myself from even the slightest political association with either."

Kendall Sikes Elected Mayor

Kendall Sikes

The City Council officially canvassed and accepted the Poll Books from each ward and precinct yesterday in the last meeting of the old council.

After they had taken care of the acceptance of the official votes for the Councilmen, they adjourned and called to order the first meeting of the new Council for the swearing in of the newly-elected Councilmen, Taylor Noles and Kendall Sikes. After they were sworn in, Mayor Dudley nominated Kendall Sikes for Mayor and it was seconded by Taylor Noles.

Sikes was then nominated for Vice-Mayor by Arthur Ziegenhorn and his nomination was seconded by Kendall Sikes.

Sikes and Noles will hold these offices for one year. In his first few words as Mayor, Sikes said, "I sincerely hope that Mayor Dudley will maintain a City office, being that he has done so much for the good of the city during his term at the helm."

After the re-organization had taken place, an Ordinance was put before the Council by City Attorney, Manuel Drumm.

The Ordinance was adopted unanimously so that Councilmen, in the event that the Mayor and Vice-Mayor are not available, they can co-sign any checks with the City Clerk, John Vaughn.

They completed their Board Appointments by naming Harold Jones and Loman Garner to the Airport Advisory Board. Bill Paylor, Ernest Wilson, and Geneva Beck were appointed to the Park Board. And Loomis Mayfield and Fielding Potashnick were named to the Traffic Committee.

The Council then picked three men to be submitted to the County Court for the Scott County Special Road District, Edward C. Matthews, G. B. Greer III, and Carl Wilkinson. One of these will be selected by the County Court to replace the Joe Matthews vacancy, left open by his death.

The Council will meet, although not formally, next Thursday at a luncheon to discuss the budget for the upcoming Fiscal Year, beginning May 1, 1965.

House Goes On Vacation

The House of Representatives will go on vacation tomorrow until April 26th.

David Rolwing, Representative from Mississippi County, has announced that he will be unavailable from our area from April 19th to April 26, while going to New York as a member of Missouri Worlds Fair Commissioner Delegation.

Danny Lopp

Danny Lopp To Make Pilgrimage

Danny Lopp, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lopp, a sophomore at Sikeston High School, has been selected to make the annual Sophomore Pilgrimage to Jefferson City sponsored by the Sikeston Woman's Club.

Students for the Pilgrimage are selected from the upper quarter of their class scholastically, based on exemplification of highest standards of honor, courage, citizenship, scholarship, leadership and service.

The annual Pilgrimage will include a tour of the Capitol and a luncheon with state officials and Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes, wife of Missouri's governor.

Overweight Trucks Dominate New Madrid Court Docket

NEW MADRID: Once again overweight-on-scales violations by truckers dominated the docket of the New Madrid County Magistrate Court as only one felony charge was heard this week by Magistrate Erie Wright of Portageville.

George Barber, charged with possession of stolen property, waived his preliminary hearing before Judge Wright and was bound over for trial in the Circuit Court with his bond set at $1000.

Of the twelve truckers fined for excess poundage, three paid fines amounting to as much as $100. Jones Truck line paid the greatest amount, $215 for an overage of 215 pounds. General Dynamic Corporation paid $130 for an excess of 1850 pounds, and Black Creek Charcoal was assessed $100 for 1550 pounds overage.

Charges of disturbing the peace brought fines to two this week. H. W. Harris paid $25 for this offense, and Joe Johnson paid $21.

Careless and imprudent driving and improper operator's license charges brought a fine of $30 to Johnnie Phipps. Eulah Lee Folwer paid $16 for driving as an unlicensed operator and for improper registration of a motor vehicle. Another multiple-count charge, careless and reckless driving and driving with borrowed license, brought a $36 fine to Willie Heath.

Other violations were as follows: no operator's license — Earnest Lockhart and Carl Holland, $15 each; careless and reckless driving — William J. Logt, $35; no PSC sticker — Viking Freight Company, $15; careless and imprudent driving — Sherman Douglas Zilafro, $35, John Rivers, $15, Robert Travis Branam, $25; defective brakes — Humke Company, $15, Ed Wilson Lindley, $11; excess speed — Durwin Leroy Gjitley, $15; improper registration of a motor vehicle — Francis A. Haney and Thomas Brooke, $15 each; no PSC authority — Fred Kronke, $35; vehicle overlength — Fred Kronke, United Food, Inc., Alexander Manufacturing Company, Pace Corporation, National Rose Company, and Umthum Trucking Company, $15 each.

Twitty Speaks To Lion's Club

Lynn Twitty Speaking before the Lions Club

In an address to the Lions Club Wednesday noon, Supt. Lynn Twitty spoke on the new trade skills program now underway in this area, in comparison of a junior college for this area.

Twitty said, "two years ago the legislature set up districts over the state where certain areas could set up a Junior College district, if they chose to do so, and in one instance in Southeast Missouri made an effort to have a branch of the State College at Cape Girardeau.

"It is my personal opinion that a junior college is not the only answer to the problem, because records prove that between 40 and 60 per cent of the young men and women would not go on to college, while those who desire to go on can and should go on to college.

"Let us not forget that most of the four million unemployed are due to the fact that they have no skills, and almost 50 per cent of the youth are in this category. There is no substitute for willingness to work, and the youth work program, between the ages of 16 and 21 years is so designed to help this group find their best skills, and at the same time carry their regular school subjects.

"It is the intention of the program that a trainee become a taxpayer instead of a tax consumer. In the training schools the students will have skilled consultants in all phases of training. Let me remind you that this training is received with the best equipment which is very expensive, and therefore requires small classes. One-half of the expenses are received from the federal government.

"The new name given to the school to be completed in Sikeston is known as Southeast Missouri Trade Technical Institute, and within the next two years will have several students enrolled from all over the district, as well as many adults. At present there are over 300 adults enrolled. Our past program has been so successful that 98 per cent of them have been employed in full time work.

"This should be our answer to a junior college in this area. It is those students left behind that we are concerned with, and will give them an opportunity to raise their skills to make them a contribution to our society. There are plenty of jobs for the skilled, but none for the unskilled.

"We are now working on a factory who wants to build a building to train workers for their company for future occupations. A program that is now underway deals with both the youth, and the adults, and designed to give both new skills for a well paying job in the future world of automation."

Program chairman, W. U. Myers presented the speaker, with Capt. H. S. Matthews as a guest, and Bryce Fisher was presented as a new member. The nominating committee presented a slate of new officers.

The new are as follows: Ken Smitten (President), Bob Scott, (First Vice - President), Bill Hunt (Second Vice - President), Fred Danner (Third Vice-President), Herschel Tyer, (Secretary - Treasurer), Henry Bussey, (Tail Twister), Duke Rudd (Assistant Twister), Jack Hogan (Den Keeper), Lee Bowman, (Director), Raymond Crews (Director), Clem Beal (Ex Officio Board Member), Charles Mitchell (Ex Officio Board Member), Ed Matthews (Board Member), and George Hale Jr. (Board Member).

Carnahan New Floor Leader

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Rep. Mel Carnahan, D-Phelps County, will serve as majority floor leader in the House for the rest of the session.

He was chosen at a split Democratic caucus Wednesday to succeed the late Rep. H. F. Pat Patterson, D-Boone County, who died in the Capitol last week.

Carnahan was Speaker Thomas D. Graham's choice. He won over two other candidates, Reps. Richard Southern, D-Monroe County, and Earl Bollinger, D-Madison County.

The vote in the closed door caucus was reported as Carnahan 61, Southern 41, Bollinger 18.

Then the feuding Democrats closed ranks long enough to make it unanimous by acclamation for Carnahan.

Bollinger was chosen to succeed Carnahan as assistant floor leader.

The caucus lasted about two hours and at one point it looked as if fisticuffs might erupt.

A plan to reapportion the House by increasing the membership from 163 to 200 was described Wednesday night as the least painful method of doing the job.

Rep. Morran D. Harris, D-St. Clair County, said that would give rural counties only 15 fewer members than they have now but would comply with a federal court order to redistrict according to population.

The committee, which is hearing several proposals, took no action.

The Senate Education committee also deferred action on a bill to let junior college districts increase their levy from 10 to 20 cents on $100 assessed valuation without a vote of the people.

Stoddard County Begins Steps For For Health Plan

BLOOMFIELD -- Initial steps were taken here Tuesday night by Stoddard County residents to get up a countywide health program to be financed largely by federal funds under the Economic Opportunity Act.

About 50 county residents met with federal and state officials and members of the recently-organized Stoddard County Improvement Association to consider the proposal. James DeLay, Bell City, heads the association, a not-for-profit organization set up to initiate and plan improvement programs for the county.

Outlining a suggested health plan was Dr. James Tice, from the Office of Economic Opportunity in Jefferson City. Under the act Dr. Tice emphasized, the county residents determine what is most needed in establishing the program would include health education.

Discussing the proposed health program along with Dr. Tice were Dr. E. A. Fullgrabe, Jefferson City, State Department of Health, Wayne Thomas, Columbia, University of Missouri extension agent and Larry Baker, Poplar Bluff, representative of the state's district health office.

The components of the health program would include health education, preventive medicine, medical facilities, day - care services, training in medical services, in - home nursing care and the actual county organization to implement the program.

The problem of the potential health hazard created by the roosting of millions of birds in the county during the winter is included under the preventive medicine part of the program. Dexter Mayor Melvin Gainer outlined the proposed plans to eliminate the danger of histoplasmosis, the disease present in the bird droppings and soil of some roosting areas.

The mayor noted that plans call for skin tests to be given Monday to more than 2,500 Dexter children and adults to determine the extent of the disease there.

Financing of the health program would be on the basis of 90 per cent from federal funds and 10 per cent from the county. The county's share can be in kind, such as providing services or facilities rather than money.

Applications for funds from the federal program were prepared Tuesday and in the initial steps to begin the program were recommended to the Board of Directors of the improvement association.

Dr. Tice noted that the Stoddard County project could become a demonstration program for other counties in the state where health facilities are at a minimum.

Concert To Be Given Sunday

The Palm Sunday Concert, presented by the Sikeston Senior High School Concert Choir, will be given Sunday afternoon, April 11, in the Middle School Auditorium. The concert will begin promptly at 3 o'clock. The Concert Choir is directed by Gordon Beaver, and ably accompanied by Judy Matthews, and Marcia Mulcahy.

Because of the religious significance of the season, the Concert Choir will present two groups of sacred choral music. Sacred choral music from all periods will be represented by the Concert Choir; including "Hallelujah" from "The Mount of Olives" by Beethoven.

The third group of music that will be sung will be devoted to lighter selections of choral arrangements. Instrumental and percussion accompaniment will be provided for some of the music. Larry Bond and Russ Felker will play guitars, George Gilmore will play the banjo, and Stanley Jones will accompany with the double-bass.

Special attractions for Sunday's Concert will be the vocal ensembles from The Sikeston Senior High School Choral Department. The Girls' Trio, The Girls' Sextet, and The Mixed Quartet will sing music in the tradition of the Easter Season. These three groups of fine musicians recently received ratings of I in the District Music Festival held at Southeast Missouri State College.

Many solos will be sung with the Concert Choir during the course of the concert. Soloists appearing in this year's concert will be: Jeannie Winters, Lynda Smith, Lana Dacus, Malcolm Lee, Mark Henry, Jim Dozier, Jim Caskey, Ann Bess, and Connie Woods.

The Concert will begin promptly at 3 o'clock in The Middle School Auditorium. There will be no reserved seating and everyone is invited to attend this concert.

Water Problem To Be Viewed By Government

GARDNER, Kan. (AP)—Mayor Howard L. Lawrence warned the federal government yesterday it will have to help Gardner solve its water problem or the Navy will have to get its pipe out of Gardner's lake.

He told it to President Johnson, to Gov. William H. Avery, the two Kansas senators in Washington and Rep. Robert Ellsworth, congressman for the Kansas suburban area lying southwest of Kansas City.

"It appears by the current presidential budget to be more important to dredge the Kaw river to allow barges to haul coeds from Kansas City to Lawrence than to provide planning money to relieve a fast-diminishing water supply," he said in his letter to all of them.

Gardner is a town of 1,847. Under an agreement negotiated on March 10, 1942, in the frantic effort to expand the nation's military strength, Gardner has been supplying an average of 104 million gallons of water a year to the nearby Olathe Naval Air Station — for $1 a year. Gardner itself uses 42 million gallons a year and householders pay $1.25 for each 100 gallons. The Navy treats the water it uses.

The mayor said the city has had to turn down prospective water customers on its fringes, has had to discourage home builders and cannot attract new industry because it has run out of capacity. One dry year and it would be perilously short.

"Our first obligation is to furnish a water supply to our citizens," the mayor said.

The naval air station's only water supply comes through its pipes into Gardner's reservoir.

"If we were in Hong Kong or some place and the Chinese reds threatened to cut off my water supply, I could understand it. I can't understand something like this happening in the middle of the United States."

Congress in 1954 authorized a $14 million dam and reservoir project just south of Gardner which would provide more water for it and nearby communities.

No money has been appropriated to get it started.

"The solution," Mayor Lawrence wrote, "has been discussed with the Army Corps of Engineers, the Kansas State Board of Water Resources, the Bureau of Reclamation, the Bureau of the Budget, senators, [illegible] the governor.

After a moment's hesitation and consideration, he replied: "Lady, if your question is 'can nurses' uniforms be deducted from your tax obligation,' the answer is 'yes' ".

Rocket Engine Being Frustrated By Static

LOS ANGELES AP -- Scientists attempting to assess the performance of a tiny electric rocket engine orbited Saturday from Vandenberg Air Force Base are being frustrated by static in telemetry transmissions.

Called an ion engine, the 2.2-pound space vehicle is powered by a small nuclear reactor.

The ion engine represents an advanced propulsion concept that could operate continuously in deep space flight to provide accelerations up to 10,000 m.p.h. technicians say.

Air Force spokesmen said Wednesday that the engine went through a warmup sequence on command Sunday but that subsequent static in the telemetry system has made analysis of its performance impossible.

Two Sikeston Students Win At Science Fair

There were some eye catching exhibitions at this years Southeast Missouri Regional Science Fair, being held at Cape Girardeau.

Some of the plants had been nurtured along by the tunes of rock 'n' roll songs, and they show that they grow faster than plants that listen to jazz and symphonies.

If you don't like that one, you can look around and find a project showing which hair spray will hold the best.

There's even one to show you about dieting.

These are only a few of the many exhibits of junior and senior high school pupils that over 750 persons saw at the opening.

It was after five o'clock before all the projects had been judged.

Two students from Sikeston won first places in the Senior Division, Allen Long, and Ronald Summers. Allen's was in the Earth and Space Science Department and Ronald's was in the Mathematics Department.

Kenneth Henry took second in the Senior Division in the Chemistry Department.

Allen and Ronald, being first place winners, won scholarships.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

It was Robert Browning who exclaimed, "Oh, to be in England now that April's there," but the words might well be echoed especially this April marking the 401st anniversary of his birth.

What would the Bard think of the much ado being made over him, not only in England but around the world, as schools and colleges and dramatic groups perform his plays in greater profusion than ever before?

No doubt he would be impressed to hear his words bounced trippingly off a circling satellite -- though it was his Puck who said, "I'll put a girdle round the earth in forty minutes."

No doubt it would amaze him to learn that in the barbarous wilderness of America a magic box will carry the voice and face of the eminent Dr. Frank Baxter in 26 half-hour broadcasts devoted to him, and that one electronic performance of a play will reach millions more than all the groundlings who ever cheered a Hal or hissed an Iago at ye Globe Theatre.

He would be no less astonished at the many volumes written by generations of pundits to prove he did not write his plays at all. One suspects, however, that Will's sympathies would be with "the whining schoolboy, with his satchel and shining morning face, creeping like a snail unwillingly to school" to struggle, as countless others have before him, over Shakespeare.

As every schoolboy knows, English literature means Shakespeare. It is often overlooked, though, as writer John Greenway has pointed out, that the England of Elizabeth I, with a population half the size of metropolitan New York, most of it illiterate, produced half a dozen playwrights of the same class as Shakespeare.

But this is Shakespeare's year, and it may surprise many to learn he was not always held in such esteem. The prudish 19th century did not think him quite nice.

It was not until the latter part of the century that he was appreciated again for what he was -- a poetic genius, an amazing man of an amazing time.

We like to think that Shakespeare would be pleased to learn that we of the 20th century are perhaps spiritually closer to him than even his contemporaries were and that to us, as it was to him, "the play's the thing."

PRESS HAS PUNCH

The newspaper has a punch, it has circulation, it strikes home, it is something everyone reads. Newspaper advertising is a wise investment.

These thoughts have been expressed by many men who are in a position to know whereof they speak.

Newspaper advertising is rated by many the highest of all conventional advertising media.

Newspaper advertising brings to the consumer the item you want to sell, the one you feel you can brag about.

Some years ago, a general manager of a large New York department store in commenting on advertising media was talking about the good points and limitations of other media. He wound up by saying he found other media more limited in their effect in comparison to cost, than the newspapers.

Drivers sometimes overlook the second major reason for having headlights -- not to use for seeing, but so you can be seen by other drivers.

Illinois is the latest of several states to pass a law requiring the use of headlights at dusk, or sunset, instead of parking lights so that cars can be seen more easily and more surely once dusk comes.

Drivers have long used a system of starting with parking lights and then switching over to full headlights later, saving the headlights until it was almost completely dark. Why? Some drivers probably thought it was more economical to use the parking lights as long as possible; some probably didn't consider the problems of being seen, rather than of seeing.

These new laws lead us to consider the possibility of headlights being used full - time whenever the car is in operation. In many areas, headlights are kept on during the daytime on holiday week-ends as a safety measure. If this works on holidays, why not on weekdays? Even in full sunlight, a car is more easily seen if the headlights are on.

It may be because of this that some cars are being equipped with experimental running lights. Maybe you've seen some of the cars with a little, bright light mounted in the center of the grille? These lights are being used during day or night hours. Some safety experts like this idea, some don't, so it'll be a while before the running light idea is accepted or rejected.

In concluding this piece on using headlights, here's a safety tip that's used by truck drivers. If you're driving on a two - lane highway with a heavy stream of cars coming from the other direction, turn your headlights on -- or flash them -- if oncoming car stays in your lane too long while passing. Flashing lights can be seen for a long distance by an oncoming car, even though a horn won't be heard or noticed.

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK AP -- It is a tremulous moment when a young actress stands on the threshold of stardom.

Standing there now is Rosemary Forsyth, who is 21, freckled, doesn't wear lipstick or rouge, and looks like a tall blonde goddess.

Will Hollywood open its golden door wide for her? Universal Studio is so convinced Miss Forsyth has star quality that it has signed her to a seven-year contract and given her a year of dramatic training.

"I don't feel like a star, because I'm not one yet," said Rosemary practically. "I don't know whether I'll ever be one. I've never really thought of being a star -- just a good actress."

But after seeing the rough shots of Miss Forsyth in her first motion picture role, producer Walter Seltzer immediately gave her star billing with Charlton Heston in another forthcoming film.

"She has a wonderful face -- a little like Ingrid Bergman, and yet different, too," he said.

Rosemary also looks a little like Grace Kelly, Lee Remick and has something of the tomboy quality of the late Carole Lombard. But because of her quick success she is most often being compared with that old film circle favorite - Cinderella.

"I know some girls work 15 years and never get a break such as I've had," remarked Rosemary, "and I'm grateful for it. But I don't feel much like Cinderella."

Sturdily independent, she has earned her own way since she was 18. Born in Montreal and educated at Stockbridge, Mass., she worked as a camp counselor and file clerk before becoming a $45-an-hour fashion and television model.

"I never had much of a struggle," she said. "I have lived in some crummy apartments, but I never missed a meal in my life.

"I got an invitation to make a film test after a studio executive saw my picture in Show magazine. I hated fashion modeling, just standing still and trying to look cool and perfect. I'd rather model a potato peeler. At least then you're doing something real. When you peel a potato, you're relating to something."

Rosemary is 5 feet 9, lithely built, has long tresses and the kind of cheekbones that send cameramen into ecstasties.

Here is the kind of girl she feels she is:

"I'm outspoken, sometimes hypersensitive, terribly romantic. When I walk down the street I'm always dreaming I'll catch some strange man's eye, fall in love with him instantly, then marry him and live with him for 75 years in a big old house and have 17 children.

"But I'm a realist, too. There's always a bit of logic in my head that says, 'That's enough now. Cut out the day dreaming.'

"I don't use makeup because it bores me to stand in front of a mirror painting my face. I guess I'm just an ordinary upper middle-class young lady, which sounds dreadfully boring, too, but I don't find it so."

Prepare for the Worst

How are things in Timisoara? Well, to begin with, that happens to be in Romania and doesn't rhyme with the town in the well-known song, anyway. But to find out what's going on there or anywhere else behind the Iron Curtain, one of the best sources is Radio Free Europe.

RFE not only beams news from the West into the East and listens to broadcasts from the Soviets and satellites, but monitors their publications as well.

Not all of the information gleaned is weighty; not all of it fits readily into a picture of life behind the Curtain, but all of it is interesting and occasionally amusing.

An instance is a recent poll of high school students conducted by a Romanian newspaper which came to the attention of RFE researchers in Munich. The paper was "shocked" at some of the following revelations:

Sixty-eight per cent of the students reported that they take only one bath a week (Saturday).

Many of the youngsters don't go to bed until after midnight.

Asked the type of work they would prefer to do, only 20 per cent of them said, "Useful to society."

Asked what they consider the most important things in life, 42 per cent replied, "To have friends," 20 per cent said, "To have very good qualifications"; only 19 per cent said, "To work for the good of mankind."

On dances, out of 100 students 60 knew the Twist, 48 the Madison, 42 the waltz and tango and 15 the cha-cha-cha. Only two students knew any Romanian folk dances.

The newspaper rounded out the sorry record by noting that at one morning performance at the Bucuresti movie theater there were nearly 300 schoolboys. The film was "The Seven Year Itch" with Marilyn Monroe.

The same day at the nearby Museum of Arts of the Romanian People's Republic there were, alas, but two schoolboys.

The story is going around about a football player in a small college who was usually dumb. To the surprise of everyone, he passed all of his work, including the rather stiff chemistry course, thereby becoming eligible for the big game.

One of the instructors asked the chemistry professor how it was possible that he passed chemistry. The chemistry professor said: "I decided that I would let him pass if he answered 50 per cent of the questions correctly.

"I asked him two questions -- one he answered wrong, one he answered right. Therefore, I let him pass.

"The first question was: 'What color is blue vitriol?' He answered, 'Pink,' That time he was wrong.

"The other question was: 'How do you make sulphuric acid?' He answered that he didn't know. That time he was right."

THE MAILBAG: "I run one of the good men's fashion stores in town, and would like to be given some justified credit for having introduced many apparel ideas in the past few years. We were first with a 'denim look;' then velours in sportswear; the Henley model in sport shirts; and the 'wet look' in outerwear and beachwear. But, as has happened before, the local women's shops jumped on the ideas -- and made each of them into a big success." Well, sir, here's the credit you so justly deserve -- and also the consoling words, "Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery." Okay?

Every day for six months the businessman walked past the corner beggar and dropped 10 cents in the beggar's box. But, being a charitable fellow, the businessman never took any shoelaces out of the box. One day when he had dropped his usual dime, the businessman felt the beggar's hand on his arm. He noticed the fellow was about to say something. "Yes," said the businessman without waiting for the question, "I suppose you're wondering why I never take shoelaces after I put my dime in the box."

"No," said the beggar, "I just wanted to tell you that the price of shoelaces is going up to 15 cents next week."

So far the nation's independent business proprietors have taken no vote on the current moves to curtail U. S. foreign investments as a means of offsetting the dollar situation. But in some scattered areas there is concern expressed that this may result in further concentration of the domestic economy through mergers and acquisitions unless there is also more vigorous enforcement of the antitrust laws.

This sentiment is apparently generated by the belief that the corporations who have been investing heavily abroad are using idle speculative capital in their treasuries. The question then becomes one of how long these huge complexes can keep this type of surplus idle, and in lieu of being used abroad, will it be turned inward on the domestic economy in order to acquire more American holdings, to result in further concentrations.

It is also felt significant that in investing abroad, there have been strong tendencies for the American corporations to acquire control, or a substantial working interest, in already established foreign corporations instead of setting up new ones.

Use of these surplus funds in the United States in a similar manner would be a severe blow to freedom of enterprise. To prevent this, it will require new efforts on the part of the officials charged with enforcing antitrust laws.

In the early 1830's, a young fellow in Illinois was a partner in a grocery business that failed. There was no such thing as a small business loan or any other federal subsidy in those days, and perhaps this is the reason that he turned to politics.

In 1832, he was defeated in a race for the legislature; but he ran again in 1834 and won.

Political advancement seemed beyond his reach when he was defeated in a bid for Congress in 1843. He tried again in 1847 and was elected.

He lost popularity and did not return for a second congressional term. In disgust, he retired from politics and entered private law practice.

In 1855, his concern for mounting problems of the nation caused him to seek a Senate seat. He failed again.

His active role in that campaign, and a notable speech, made his prominent as a Vice-Presidential candidate; however, he failed to get his Party's nomination.

In 1858, he was nominated for the Senate and campaigned in one of the most hotly-contested races on record. He challenged his opponent to a series of debates, and the debates were momentous in their suggestions concerning the events shaping up on the political horizon of the nation. Both candidates became national figures as a result of this senatorial campaign. But the gentleman whose record of trial and defeat we are tracing failed again to get elected.

One would think this fellow justified in giving up, at age 49, and living a comfortable life in privacy. But Abraham Lincoln did not, and he was elected President two years later to become an immortal. HLH

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

MOSCOW — Flying from New York to Moscow you realize how close the world's two most powerful nations are to each other and how important it is for them to keep their peace machinery well lubricated.

The pretty Air India hostess in silk sarong has hardly finished serving luncheon coffee and liqueurs after leaving London before you are over the snow-rimmed airport of Moscow.

Air India, incidentally, has beat Pan American and other U.S. airlines in flying the short cut from New York to India vis Moscow, thereby saving four hours over the old Near East route, and making you realize that, in case of war, giant bombers could make the flight between England and the Soviet in less than three hours, missiles in a few minutes.

In Moscow, people who had their city devastated by the Nazi bombs of the last war are still working to rebuild it.

Moxcow is a city in a hurry. Its people walk at almost break-neck speed, along wide sidewalks and through tunnels under streets to avoid traffic jams. They are in such a hurry that you have to be alert in dodging them when you try to cross the sidewalk to reach a waiting car. In Japan the rush of pedestrian traffic almost knocks you down. In Moscow they are a little more polite.

—IMPATIENT MUSCOVITES—

Moscow is also in a hurry to push its apartment building program. Thousands of Russians wait, impatiently, in a hurry to move in. There has been great building progress since I was here in 1961. New developments have sprung up everywhere, and the intourist guide tells you with pride that every day 314 new families move into newly completed apartments.

Even so, the building program is not moving fast enough. And one of the gripes against Nikita Khrushchev was that he was sending money to Egypt to build the Aswan Dam while thousands of Russian families lived in one-room apartments.

People sit on benches in the parks in Moscow even in near-zero weather, and at first you wonder why. Then you learn that families are crowded together in two or three rooms, so that to avoid your mother-in-law you have to go out and sit in the park. Or else she sits in the park to avoid her son-in-law.

Even so, the Russians have accomplished wonders in housing. But what the average American doesn't realize is that the Russian people suffered terribly in the last war and will be building for another ten years or so before housing catches up with the demand.

This is one reason the Russians don't want another war.

—WHEAT DEFICIT—

The people I saw in Moscow seemed better dressed than in 1961, and they also have more food. No longer do you see long lines of people queuing up in the street to buy certain kinds of food. Oranges and lemons are scarce and expensive at this season of the year and so is flour. Bread is not.

But the Russians will probably have to go into the world market to buy some wheat this year — though nowhere near as much as in 1963.

Party Secretary Brezhnev has just announced a huge, five-year farm program costing $78 billion to set up fertilizer plants and improve agriculture. But there is one thing neither Communism nor capitalism can regulate — the weather.

And, regardless of fertilizer and the most modern farm methods, Russia's bitterly cold winters, short growing season in the north and arid summers in the south may mean that she will never be sure of feeding all her people. This could open the possibility of an economic partnership between the American farmer who over-produces and the Soviet which under-produces.

—EAST-WEST TRADE—

Many Russians are anxious for trade with the United States and interested in the commission appointed by President Johnson to examine East-West trade. But in the present unfavorable atmosphere created by the bombing of North Viet Nam they are skeptical.

The most outspoken and friendly Soviet leader I talked to was Madame Nina Popova, President of the Union of Soviet Friendship Societies. As a member of the Central Committee, Mme. Popova ranks high and, unlike some others, is not afraid to speak frankly.

She plans to come to the United States regardless of opposition from the anti-American faction inside the Kremlin, and also favors continued cultural exchange. Some others do not. They would shut off the students, professors, and scientists who have been traveling between the two countries.

"Our main wish is for mutual understanding," Mme. Popova told me. "This is a difficult time as we pass though. Let us speak frankly. We have been put in a very difficult position by your actions in Viet Nam.

"We would be most happy if President Johnson would strike out this problem of Viet Nam. If we can get rid of it, we can look forward to all sorts of friendly enterprises together."

So spoke one of the most frank, friendly members of the Central Committee.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Strange Case of Judge Who Decided To Lead Instead of Rule.

CHICAGO: -- If anyone is searching for the hero of a saga which could be titled the In-Corruptibles, the man can be found in this city of the untouchables.

Eight months ago this man, Maurice Perlin by name, was chief justice of the Illinois State Court of Claims. Today he is a labor leader. After almost five years on the bench he left voluntarily to become president of one of the nation's biggest local unions.

Ministers and priests have led labor, as have lawyers and matinee idols--but never before anywhere in the world has a chief justice of an important court stepped down to become a union official.

Judge "Maury" Perlin did. Thus he now is among the handful of the new breed who will some day replace the elders, who wonder where they can find the men to meet the new unionism needed for the age of space and automation.

Now 51 years old, Perlin is president of the unique and huge 30,000-member Local 1031, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Perlin gave up the security and peace of the bench for the turbulence of the labor front because he has a touch of the missionary in him. For years he had worked closely with his late predecessor Frank (Flo Ziegfeld) Darling as legal counsel and mentor of the thousands of men and women whose skills sped much of the electronic equipment to America's defense forces during the big war and the Korean conflict.

Because of the union's strategic position in the electrical field, and because it is the largest local in the Midwest, and because it could play a powerful role if ever captured by mobster or subversive forces, Darling and Perlin always were on the alert for intruders and infiltrators.

Of course, the Communists attempted to move in. The Party used its best operatives. They worked their way into membership. They would come to meetings and put on talkathons in an effort to weary the rank and file and to keep them away from future decision - making gatherings.

Darling and Perlin then hit on the stratagem of extravaganzas. They put on big-time musical shows. They got Jimmy Durante and Ethel Merman to cavort and sing at the meetings. The union soon became as newsy in Variety as in the labor press.

The membership poured out to the meetings in such numbers that sessions had to be run over two and three nights. The Communists were beaten.

But the musicals still run on. Even today Local 1031 is the only union which runs meetings on Saturday nights.

In a city where thugs machine-gunned their way into unions and would collect bribes in open umbrellas, Local 1031 remained clean and progressive--concerned over the prosperity of its members' employers as well as with its members' welfare.

When the union's 46,000 followers fell to 30,000, Darling and his lawyer, Perlin, fought the trend by battling for the inflow of government orders and against the inflow of foreign competition from Japan and West Germany.

The moment came when Perlin moved into other fields--and in 1960 he was named chief justice of the Court of Claims.

Last August Frank Darling died in a Houston hospital, after serious surgery. The union executive board called an emergency meeting. They elected Judge Perlin president and then went to him with their offer.

The leadership of labor was a challenge. He resigned from the bench. On March 9, he stood for office in the general election and was overwhelmingly chosen.

Today Perlin is training his staff in the new unionism. He has called in government experts to teach labor law, psychology and the techniques of peaceful collective bargaining. He has called on the industry to take the lead in working with labor on special projects.

He has called on his own labor colleagues to study the results of the latest electronic research in universities as well as federal and private space laboratories -- so that the union can help the industry prosper and create more jobs.

"Research and development of new products can be pushed forward by our people," he has said. "This could mean new profit for management and new jobs for our members. It is the most effective method of preventing further loss of business to foreign competition. If we can't meet their abysmal wage rates and low cost production we can beat them with better products and new ones. We can work together."

Obviously Judge Perlin has remained undiscovered too long.

Sharon Kay Swindell Becomes Bride Of Alvie Dean Dunnegan In Spring Wedding

BELL CITY -- At two-o'clock in the afternoon on Sunday, April fourth, at the Bell City Church of Christ, Miss Sharon Kay Swindell, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Swindell of Bell City, became the bride of Alvie Dean Dunnegan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dunnegan of Bloomfield.

Brother Louis Gardner performed the double ring ceremony before a setting of a seven branch candelabra and arrangements of white jonquils and fern.

Jerry Hesselrode rendered the "Wedding March" and Miss Mary Rendleman and Miss Rebecca Wheeler sang "Always."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length gown of silver-etched brocade on white. The bodice featured a scooped neckline, long pointed sleeves fastened with tiny self-covered buttons at the wrist and a matching bow at the front waistline. The gown, fashioned for the bride by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Robert Fisher of Advance, was styled with a bell shaped skirt.

She wore a jeweled tiara of pearls encircled with a shoulder-length veil of tulle. She carried a white Bible on which rested a bridal bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis tied with white ribbons.

Miss Sandra Eakin of Bell City served as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Beverly Bollinger, Bell City and Miss Charlene Cooper of Cape Girardeau. All of the bride's attendants are her classmates. The attendants' dresses were made similar to that of the bride, but were waltz-length dresses made from pale blue material. They wore white corsages and their headpieces were rosettes of blue that held nose-tipped veils.

Charles Bullard, Bell City, Larry Crowell, Sikeston, and Loran Cartwright, Bloomfield, served as the groom's attendants.

Ringbearer was Keith Swindell, brother of the bride. David Swindell, also brother of the bride, lighted the candles. Melody Fisher, flower girl, is a cousin of the bride and she wore a light blue dress of brocade that featured a full skirt and short sleeves. She wore a white carnation wrist corsage and carried red roses.

Mrs. Swindell chose for her daughter's wedding a light blue flecked with white suit enhanced with black accessories. Mrs. Dunnegan wore a pale green and white printed dress of shantung with beige accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations.

A reception was held at the bride's parents' cafe immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a blue cloth overlaid with white lace. The candles in crystal holders, a crystal punch bowl and a silver coffee service appointed the table. White wedding bells and blue and white streamers hung over the table.

Individual tables were decorated with white lace place mats and crystal bud vases holding blue and white spring flowers. Blue half moons interlaced with scallops of blue and white streamers, white wedding bells formed the setting for the individual tables.

The decorations were planned by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Ruby Shoaf of Sikeston. The cake, baked by Mrs. Tyree Brown, was five tiered in colors of blue and white adorned by miniature brides and grooms and blue and silver roses. A larger bride and groom in an arch of lilies of the valley topped the cake.

Miss Jean Dale Shumaker of Bell City, Miss Dianne DeLay of Bell City, Miss Joyce Pierce of Bell City and Mrs. Harold Mayor of Advance served at the reception.

Out-of-town guests at the Swindell - Dunnegan Wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dunnegan of Bloomfield, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fisher of Advance, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fisher, Mrs. Marjorie Cox, all of Neelyville, Mr. and Mrs. Ruby Shoaf, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Crowell, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cooper, and Ray Shoaf, all of Sikeston.

Mrs. Norma Bollinger and family, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. McCann, Mrs. James Eakin, Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Fisher and family, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kennedy, all of Advance, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lloyd and family of Lutesville, and Miss Tinae Beardsly of Commerce.

Harold Dunnegan of Bloomfield, Mr. and Mrs. Onbrey Thrower, Dexter, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Taylor of Poplar Bluff, Mrs. Scotty Hooe, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ingram, Mrs. John Arbuckle of Oran and Floyd Cooper of Bloomfield.

The young couple is now at home in Bell City. The new Mrs. Dunnegan is a senior at Bell City High School where she will graduate in May and Mr. Dunnegan is employed by the Inland Shoe Factory at Advance.

Newcomers Club Has 28 Members Present For Meet

The Newcomers Club met April 1 at the Midtowner restaurant with 28 members present.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Ken Jones, Newcomers hostess, introducing the new president, Mrs. Harold G. Powell, who conducted the business meeting.

Many interesting plans for the coming year were suggested by our program chairman, Mrs. Harold Belsheim. On April 29 a dinner party is planned.

Three new callers, Mrs. M. Young, Mrs. George Moorman and Mrs. Charles Welch, were appointed. Three guests were present, Mrs. Max Ross from Colorado and two new sponsors, Mrs. Ruth Burch and Mrs. Doris Lindley who are interior decorators.

Five new members were present. They were Mrs. Jerry G. Cooper, Mrs. C. Austin, Mrs. Paul Strabola, Mrs. D. Boley and Mrs. Larry Baker.

Mrs. Ken Jones showed their colored slides of the New York World's Fair. Bridge and canasta were played with Mrs. Fred Danner winning first prize in bridge and Mrs. Eldon Collins in canasta. The door prize of an oil change and lubrication job donated by the Sikeston Motors was won by Mrs. Mike Blacker.

Girl Scout Board Of Directors Met With 24 Present

The Board of Directors of the Cotton Boll Girl Scout Council met recently at the Hickory House Restaurant in Poplar Bluff. Mrs. Verne Johnson, Council President presided over the meeting with 21 members and three staff members present.

A report was given by the Program Services Committee on the coming events and they proposed that several council policies be changed. The policies pertained to money-making projects, the Cookie Sale, and that all Senior Girl Scout troops must be wide-age-range-open-end troops. These proposals were voted on and passed by the members. The Public Relations Service Committee reported on the events carried on during the Girl Scout Week. The Personnel Service Committee reported on several future adult training courses which include the Presidents Meeting in Excelsior Springs, the Membership Institute on May 2 and 3. This conference is being offered by the National Girl Scout organization, with Mrs. J. D. Giddings of Baytown, Texas serving as Conference Leader. The Finance Service Committee presented the Council Audit Report and the 1966 Council Plan of Work and Budget.

The members attending from Sikeston were Mrs. Robert Mitchell, Mrs. Gene Nunnelee, Mrs. Gene Dement. Mrs. Dempsey Gardner, and Mrs. Henry Cain of Canalou. Also present were two members of the Council Staff, Miss Ilena Aslin, Executive Director, and Miss Doris Brown, District Adviser.

Q—What is the present salary of a U.S. congressman?

A—Under legislation passed in 1964, salaries will be $30,000 a year, a $7,500 raise.

Sikeston Wins At Jackson

Sikeston's fighting baseball Bulldogs went to Jackson yesterday to battle with the Indians and came home with their second win of the season, against no defeats. Coach Ed Chronister had this comment to make on the Bulldog victory; "Our boys played a much better ball game today, our pitching has improved and we cut down on our bases on balls.

Stallings and Marley were the big men on the mound for the Dogs. Stallings pitched for five innings, allowed no runs and only three hits.

Terry James was again the big man for the Bulldogs with the bat. He plays center field for the Bulldogs with lightning spread and mobility was right at the plate yesterday. James was 2 for 4 at the plate ripping out a double and a triple.

The big inning for Sikeston was the third, they scored all of their three runs in that inning. Sikeston combined eight hits to one Jackson error for the day.

Sikeston's defense only committed one error.

Delta Smashes Five Records

In a triangle track meet yesterday at Delta the Bobcats of Delta came out victorious. Oran and Oak Ridge provided the right spark to kindle the Delta flame, then school records began to fall. Below set a new record for Delta in the 60 Yard High Hurdles, and the Triple Jump. Amelunke set a new school record in the low hurdles, King in the shotput and then Amelunke proceeded to break another school record by getting a vault of 9 feet 9 inches in the pole vault. Below scored 18 points for Delta, Foster and Amelunke scored 13 a piece.

The team scores were Delta 120 1/2, Oran 41 1/2, and Oak Ridge 8.

Nicklaus Is Favored To Win

AUGUSTA, Ga. AP -- "I don't mind being the favorite as long as it stands that way Sunday night," said Jack Nicklaus today in stepping to the tee for the first round of the 72-hole, four-day Masters Golf Tournament.

The strapping blonde bomber from Columbus, Ohio, a non-winner on the winter circuit, said he is fit and ready to match strokes with 90 other leading pros and amateurs of the world in the first prestige tourney of the year.

Nicklaus, the 1963 Masters king, was a 4-1 choice in the informal odds. Right behind him came Arnold Palmer, the defending champion and record four-time winner, at 6-1.

The odds drop to 8-1 for a quartet rated by Nicklaus and Palmer as their chief contenders.

The four are Doug Sanders, of Ojai, Calif., only winner of two tournaments on the winter tour; Billy Casper, of Peacock Gap, Calif., the onetime fat man who has thinned down to 185 pounds; Tony Lema, the British Open king from San Leandro, Calif., whose game has been off lately, and Gary Player, the poised, muscular little fellow from South Africa.

Nicklaus demonstrated why he is rated as the man to beat when he toured the par 36-36-72, 6-980 -yard layout of the Augusta National Golf Club Tuesday in 67.

Maris To Sue For $100,000

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. AP -- Roger Maris, acquitted of a charge he slugged a man in a bar fight last week, said he had decided to sue for more than $100,000.

"I did not swing at anybody," the New York Yankee outfielder told Municipal Court Wednesday. "I was shoved from behind and thrown against the plaintiff. That was all.

After the judge found him innocent and he rushed to a spring training game, Maris announced he was going to file a civil suit against his accuser, Jerome Modzelewski, a 25-year-old male model.

Modzelewski, who divides his time between agencies here and in Chicago, also has pressed charges against Clete Boyer, the Yankees' third baseman.

That trial is set for May 11.

A bartender, Robert J. Burns, said he was trying to quiet Boyer "when the bang happened. That's when Boyer hit him Modzelewski."

Burns and another witness said they did not see Maris take a swing.

Modzelewski and his red-haired companion, 21-year-old Angela Della Vedova of Sudbury, Ont., testified that the rhubarb started when they were leaving Nick's Bar the night of April 1.

Modzelewski said he heard an objectionable remark -- so objectionable that it was not allowed in testimony - directed at him from the ballplayers' table.

THE DRUDGE

The drudge is the spirit that animates
The workingman's haven of rest;
She has wealth and pleasure in
The rosebud-mouthed babe at her breast.

She wears the fragrant perfume
Of bacon grease in her hair;
Her ear is attuned to the music
Of a lisping baby's prayer.

Her life is filled with the bitter-sweet.
Of everyday worry and joy;
She shapes a frock to a little form,
Or mends a broken toy.

The drudge does not heed the scorner,
Nor are her banners furled--
For her hand is on the cradle,
And she is queen of the world.

Kaline Coming To Life For Detroit After Long Slump

For 19 games this spring, the thunder that resides in Al Kaline's bat sounded like a whimper and the notion that the Detroit Tigers might have an outside shot at the American League pennant came out like whistling in the dark.

Kaline, around whom the Tiger attack has revolved ever since he won the batting championship 10 years ago, had been struggling through training with his batting average hovering near .150. And Tiger brass, aware that Kaline had a less than spectacular season last year, were a bit concerned.

The veteran right fielder batted .293, second lowest figure in his career, last year with just 17 homers, a drop of 10 from his 1963 figure. In 19 games this spring he had driven in just three runs and had no homers.

But Al seems to have come alive at last and his awakening came not a moment too soon for acting Manager Bob Swift. Kaline's third homer in the last five games helped the Tigers to their 9-4 victory over the New York Mets in a baseball exhibition Wednesday.

"Al's building up for something," Swift said after the game, "and I think it's a great year."

Don Wert and Dick McAuliffe each drove in two runs for the Tigers who completed their Florida training with an 11-13 record.

Reserve infielder Phil Gagliano ripped three hits and drove in three runs as the world champion Cardinals blanked Philadelphia 6-0. Gagliano belted a two-run homer, a triple and a single as St. Louis mounted an 11-hit attack.

In other games, the Chicago Cubs dropped Cleveland 8-5, Pittsburgh stopped Kansas City 4-3, Milwaukee whacked the New York Yankees 4-1, Cincinnati topped Minnesota 5-3, Washington whipped Baltimore 5-2 and Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League squeaked past San Francisco 7-6.

Yankees And Cards Picked To Take Another Pennant

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees, who couldn't beat Johnny Keane and the Cardinals in the 1964 World Series, will get another crack at St. Louis — with Keane on their side — this year.

The Yankees were voted into a record-shattering sixth straight American League pennant by a narrow margin in balloting by 266 sports writers and broadcasters in The Associated Press' annual pre-season baseball poll.

St. Louis received an even slimmer margin over Philadelphia and Cincinnati.

The Yankees, with Keane having replaced Yogi Berra as their manager, recorded 60 more points than Baltimore and 160 more than the Chicago White Sox. The Cardinals, now under Red Schoendienst, outpolled the Phillies by 76 points and the Reds by 91.

St. Louis, which won the 1964 pennant on the last day of the season after being selected for third in the pre-season poll, had a total of 2,189 points while Philadelphia had 2,113 and Cincinnati 2,098.

The world champions' slim triumph was built despite their having received only 40 first-place votes compared with 77 for the Phillies and 73 for the Reds, a rare disparity in the poll.

Votes were counted on the basis of 10 points for first, nine for second, etc., down to one for 10th.

The Yankees' selection was made certain by 109 first-place votes, far more than the Orioles' 67 and the White Sox' 73. New York finished with 2,400 points, Baltimore 2,340 and Chicago 2,240.

In proving the prognosticators correct last year, the Yankees won the pennant by one game over Chicago and two over Baltimore. St. Louis nosed out Philadelphia and Cincinnati by one game each.

The Mets, a perennial last-place choice, drew the most votes for any one spot — 185 for 10th in the NL. The Athletics earned 179 for last in the AL.

The voting, first-place votes in parentheses:

Rev. Hackney To Be Speaker At W.M.U. Meeting

Rev. Jim Hackney, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Sikeston, Missouri, will be the special guest speaker for the quarterly Charleston Baptist Association Women's Missionary Union meeting on April 9th. Previous to his present position Rev. Hackney has been Director of Evangelism for the Missouri State Baptist office in Jefferson City. While there he directed the recent Australian Baptist Crusade, in which many of our Baptist ministers held revivals in various churches in Australia. Rev. Hackney resides with his wife and three children at 705 Hickory Drive in Sikeston.

The Daytime meeting will be at Morehouse Baptist Church 10:00 a.m. to 2 p.m., with Mrs. Wendell Weathers presiding. Leadership conferences will be presented in the following areas. Presidents, Mrs. Wendell Weathers; Community Missions, Mrs. Joe Cleveland; Mission Study, Mrs. Orrin Hunt; Prayer, Mrs. Charles Howton; Enlistment, Mrs. Don Davis; Sunbeam, Mrs. Jerry Masterson; and Y. W. A., Mrs. Roy Nall.

A special feature of the daytime program will be a report from the Missouri State W. M. U. Convention, Joplin, attended by Mrs. Don Davis and Mrs. Wendell Weathers.

The Night time meeting will be at Oran Baptist Church at 7:30 p.m., presided over by Mrs. Charles Butler, Associational Nighttime president. Conferences in all the leading areas will also be featured at the night time meeting.

The Quarterly Associational W. M. U. meetings provide a time for fellowship, inspiration, and leadership training. All Baptist Churches in the area should make a special effort to have their local W. M. U. officers present. Nursey provided at both meetings.

Governor Warren Hearnes, center, last week received an honorary Patron membership to the Sikeston Art League. Mrs. Carl G. Popp, left, membership chairman, and Mrs. Thomas Allen, right, area chairman, were given an opportunity to discuss plans for the Sikeston Festival of the Arts with the Governor and to extend an invitation to Governor and Mrs. Hearnes to attend the Art Show May 1 and 2.

Dillons Return From Two Week's Vacation

MOREHOUSE--Mr. and Mrs. William Dillon have just returned home from a two week's vacation. They motored to Fort Everglades, Florida. They embarked on the luxury liner S. S. Ariodne for a cruise to the Bahamas, visiting Nassau, New Providence Island and Freeport Grand Bahamas. On returning they spent some time touring Florida. While there they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Friday of Santbel Island and Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Alliston of St. Petersburg, Florida.

To Be Honored

Four former salesmen for the former Ralph Williams Motor Co., Sikeston, Mo., will be honored for their outstanding sales performances in 1964 at a banquet at the Chase-Park Plaza in St. Louis, Mo., Saturday, April 10.

They are Jerry M. Crowley, George Hensley Jr., Dave Keasler and Carl L. McFerron.

A. L. Whiteman, manager of Ford Division's St. Louis district sales office, said the Ford salesmen had earned membership in the Ford 300-500 Club, founded in 1950 to recognize the performance of outstanding Ford salesmen throughout the country.

Mr. Whiteman said the average 300-500 Club member sold more than $400,000 worth of automotive merchandise in 1964. The former Ralph Williams Motor Co., is now the Sikeston Motor Co.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My problem is out of the ordinary, but nonetheless it is real.

I am a middle-aged man in love with a middle-aged woman. Madeline and I lost our mates many years ago. She has a daughter who is 16 years old. My son is 17. We are both very proud of our children.

My son and Madeline's daughter have known each other for quite some time, but six months ago their friendship burst into flame. They are now going steady. My son tells me he thinks he is in love with the girl. She has told her mother she thinks she is in love with my son.

Madeline and I want to get married but we are both afraid of what might happen if these two teen-agers are allowed to live under the same roof. At the same time we don't want to wait until we have to be pushed down the aisle in wheel chairs.

What can you offer in the way of help?--NO DOUBLE WEDDING PLEASE

Dear No Double Wedding: Your son should be graduating from high school within the year. Surely you and Madeline can postpone your marriage until the boy goes AWAY to college. This would not entirely eliminate the problem, but it would reduce the hazards considerably.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband went out occasionally with a girl before he met and married me. He did not tell me about the girl because she was from the wrong side of the tracks and he never considered her anything but a physical friend if you know what I mean. This girl has his child. This child is now six years old.

My husband, being a perfect gentleman, did not try to back out of anything. When the court ordered him to pay support money for the boy he agreed.

We have a little girl of our own now and it fries me that my husband must send money every month to this back-street tramp. How long does a man have to pay for a mistake that is only half his? If he just stopped sending support money what would happen?--THE MRS.

Dear Mrs.: Your husband will probably have to pay for "his half of the mistake" for another 15 years. If he stops the payments he could go to jail.

Your lack of compassion for the mother and her child is shameful. You sound like a woman who has just had her brain washed and can't do a thing with it.

Dear Ann Landers: Since you are the lady with all the answers I hope you can pull one out of your hat for me.

I'm what some people call a career girl. Others might call me an old maid. I'm 32, unmarried and have no particular desire to rush into a fifth-rate marriage (as some of my friends have done) just to prove I can get a man.

But what do I say when people ask me why I'm not married? It's incredible that reasonably intelligent people ask such a cloddish question, but they do -- at least once a week. I've been gritting my teeth and saying stupid things like, "Because no one will have me." Can you come up with a squelcher that doesn't leave me looking so nebbish? Thank you. --DIXIE

Dear Dixie: Try this for size: "I'm not married because I haven't met the man who deserves to be as happy as I can make him."

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10¢ in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Chevelle by Chevrolet

'65 Chevelle Malibu Convertible—
with color-keyed all-vinyl upholstery

It's the most popular mid-size traveler built—
which isn't surprising when you consider who built it.

There's no doubt that a car like this could get by on its good looks alone. Without ever having to rely on family connections.

But the fact that it is built by Chevrolet assures you right off it's got a lot more going for it than merely meets the eye. It tells you, for example, that beneath those impetuous-looking lines you can have the impetuous kind of power—6 or V8—that Chevrolet has a reputation for putting in its cars. It tells you that you get Body by Fisher handiwork inside and out (with the kind of meticulous attention to detail that goes into some of the most expensive cars around). It tells you that you're going to get a ride developed by engineers who are old hands at putting the squelch on bumps (Chevelle has Full Coil suspension at all four wheels, similar to the regular Jet-smooth Chevrolet).

Knowing all this, you probably won't be startled by the fact more people are now buying Chevelle than any other car its size.

But you will have a happy surprise when you check what you can buy one for—right now down at your Chevrolet dealer's.

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

Visitors in most of our nation's better schools today will see many new educational devices, pieces of complex equipment, math or language laboratories, numerous audio-visual devices such as movie and film strip projectors, tape recorders, record players, etc.

All of these instructional aids or pieces of equipment have their place if used properly and they can help make good teaching better. But, it is wise for all of us to remember that none of these take away from the fact that "the teacher is still the key to a good school". To the uninformed, educational television may be the answer to the problem of not enough well trained teachers and if rightly used as a teaching aid, it can improve instruction tremendously by "exposing" the expert teacher to many more students than could normally come under their influence. But, television like all other devices still depends upon the mind, imagination and skill of a well trained teacher who can put these devices or the television to good use in making their teaching more effective.

Good teachers teach better with all the aids they can get. Poor teachers, unsure of their knowledge of how to use instructional aids and apathetic to their value might as well stick to their old methods.

We are fortunate to have many of the most up-to-date instructional aids and are even more fortunate in that we have many excellent teachers who put these aids to good use.

According to the last estimates there are more than four million unemployed Americans. In spite of this number, many jobs are going begging simply because there are not enough skilled workers available. The shortage of workers ranges from skilled scientists to low skilled occupations, for example waiters and waitresses and other restaurant workers. There are jobs for stenographers and metal workers almost everywhere.

There are needs for social and welfare workers, for registered nurses, for machinest, tool and die makers and machine tool operators.

Many of these jobs will remain unfilled until there are sufficient numbers of skilled persons to fill them at the place where the jobs may exist.

The greatest unemployment is among youth who have dropped out of school before completing the twelfth grade. This is why our Board of Education is emphasizing a sound program of trade-technical training for our community and surrounding areas. We know that only about 35 to 40 per cent of our students will enter college. Many of these will not get a degree. For those who do not intend to go to college, and there are many good reasons for this, and for those who will not complete college, vocational training at the level of the individual student's ability seems to be a sound answer. This does not mean that they should be trained only in job skills as all citizens who effectively perform in our society need to be educated in a broad area of subjects. It is our responsibility to provide education for every individual in relation to his or her needs and abilities, and within the limitation of the money which we have, this is our aim.

The month of March, broke all records for circulation of books at the Senior High library. 4,128 books were checked out during the month. This is almost half as many as were circulated in the entire 1960-61 school year. Up-to-date over 25,000 books have been checked out by Senior High students during this school year, according to a report given us this week by Fred Huff, Director of Library Services.

A similar increase in circulation of books is also noted at the Middle School and in the elementary schools. The importance of this growth of the use of library books and materials by our student body and its consequent educational impact, is apparent.

The Manpower Development and Training Act of 1962 was passed to train people who were unemployed and who were in almost all cases receiving some form of tax assistance, to the point where they can become employable and consequently tax payers instead of tax consumers.

Experience indicates that this is exactly what is happening. A recent study of a training program for 13,000 people shows that $13.8 million was spent. After their training was completed over 7,000 went to work immediately at an average hourly wage of $2.01. In only 24 weeks they will earn $13.7 million or more than the cost of their training, but what is equally important each trainee will pay back the cost of his training in five years in income taxes. Every dollar spent in training the group will return $2.24 a year in gross earnings.

Not only is the public's investment worthwhile but these trainees have removed themselves from the relief rolls, can support themselves and their families and contribute through taxes to the cost of the services rendered by our government.

The weeks, days and hours remaining in this school year are important ones and parents should do everything possible to encourage their children to take full advantage of the opportunities which are available in our schools.

ACCUSED BOMBER -- Nguyen Van Hai, accused of being one of the Communist Viet Cong terrorists who bombed the U.S. Embassy in Saigon, awaits a medical examination in a Saigon hospital. He was shot by police at the scene of the blast, which claimed 17 lives and injured more than 150. He is listed in serious condition. (NEA TELEPHOTO)

I see Cholly Blanton calls Luther King Moses. I call him Jesus Christ cause he wants supremacys and Ruler of men. Dwane Kirby is on. Said someone was called a dam lier I don't know who he meant. Not me, cause I always try to speak the truth.

Subject of church school lesson was 10 maidens. Some were foolish. Some wise. They kept their lamps full of oil, lighted, trimmed and burning. Watch ye therefore for ye know not the day or the hour when Jesus Christ cometh. That for the day of our forgiveness. For others helps us to reconcile to God. Excerpts from Anna Blomeyer is we have learned to fly thro the air faster and higher than the birds swim under the seas faster and deeper like a fish we can travel in space with greater freedom than the moon. Now we desperately need to walk on the Earth like a man.

My coat of arms are rolled up sleeves. My tired old eyes have seen days go by. They say time flys by faster for old than the young. Had the surprise of my life Friday night for my son George called me from Washington, D. C. said he went to see Lyndon Johnson, Grissom and Young, the astronauts that a thrilly dilly what man can do and $300,000,000 dollars worth of money. 6,000 miles every few minutes I always knew habitation was on the Moon. One could see heads of men up there and they advise anyone going up there to take their boots along. It might be muddy and cruters up there.

Spring Causes New Car Buying Spree

NEW YORK AP -- Americans have jumped the gun on the arrival of real spring weather and thereby set a record as well as possibly laying low an old tradition - when to buy a new car.

They used to wait until spring to rush to buy. But this March, when the weather most places was anything but spring-like, dealers sold more American-made autos than in any other month in history.

The home-based industry also made more cars than in any previous month. Canadian subsidiaries of U. S. auto giants started shipping Canadian-made cars here.

And European producers say the market here for their models is expanding fast -- maybe not up yet to the record of sales set in 1959 for foreign cars, but better than in 1964 and 1963 when the market was recovering from the 1960 dip.

The economy in general is getting a big boost from all this eagerness of Americans to buy new cars.

The stimulant goes far beyond the carmakers themselves, to their workers, dealers, repairmen, to the many supplies of car production lines, and to the supplies of those who make parts.

The stimulant is felt by the tiremakers, the gasoline sellers, the writers of auto insurance, the roadside restaurants and motels. In time this year's buying spree will enrich those who will have to make still more highways to accommodate the fast-growing horde of cars crowding today's roads.

How much all this adds up to for the economy in general can only be estimated. But makers of just one model, Ford's sporty Mustang, say that in its first year of production its sales of more than 400,000 have had this impact on the economy:

Retail values has topped a billion dollars. Sales have meant $860 million in wholesale financing volume and $580 million in retail financing volume, with insurance premiums on the new cars amounting to more than $54 million.

The maker has spent $224 million with some 700 outside supplier companies for components, and provided jobs for about 18,000 Ford employes. How many others are employed by dealers and supplies companies because of the new car can only be guessed.

Production started March 10, 1964, in Dearborn, Mich., and has since spread to San Jose, Calif., and Metuchen, N. J.

All this is only a small part of what the entire car industry is doing for the economy. Sales of all makes in the first three months of 1965 were a record 2,189,787, up 19 per cent from a year ago. Production in March alone was a record 962,549 cars, compared with 723,225 in March 1964.

When in the presence of people who are addicted to the vice of extreme talkativeness we think we'd like more men like Calvin Coolidge and Andrew Mellon of whom it was recorded: "The President and Mr. Mellon conversed almost entirely in pauses." — Curtis Courier

FACE IS VERY IMPORTANT IN THE ORIENT -- ESPECIALLY ON AN ESPIONAGE ASSIGNMENT!

One day, Master Sergeant George Lakewood is doing a routine maintenance job on Military Air Transport Service planes in California. The next he is in Taiwan with Col. Steve Canyon -- on a hush-hush assignement involving equal quantities of guns, gals and gallantry.

U. S. Intelligence has learned that a Red Chinese has been smuggled into Taiwan with the express assignment of assassinating the head of the Nationalist Government. It is also known that this killer was formerly a prison guard in North Korea -- where he had been dubbed "The Clown" by Sgt. Lakewood, whom he beat every day thereafter until the sergeant was released a year later.

Sgt. Lakewood's face, burned when his plane was shot down, was rebuilt at Walter Reed Hospital. Lakewood is the only person who could recognize "The Clown". -- but whose own identity is hidden behind his new face.

Go along with Steve and the sergeant on this drama-packed adventure in the new story in--

Smallest Potatoe Crop In Years

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — You with the potatoes and gravy appetite are paying more for your taste this year than Americans ever have.

It's because the nation's 1964 potato crop was the smallest in seven years — nearly 25 million 100-pound bags under the previous five-year average of 266 million bags.

All major producing areas but Maine were hit last year by bad weather and frosts.

The acreage finally harvested — 1.3 million acres — was the smallest since 1867, reports the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Supply and demand have boosted San Francisco retail prices to 79 cents for a five-pound sack of No. 1 Oregon Klamaths, sized from six to 14 ounces.

In Idaho, land of the premium russet baking potato, 1964 production dropped to 36.3 million from 1963.

Idaho russet bakers cost 20 cents a pound.

Potato prices stabilized at high levels in October and now are peaking just before the new crop starts coming in.

"In 33 years in the potato business I've never seen anything like this," said George Burger, a San Francisco potato broker.

He brought in a carload of Canadian potatoes to keep his hotel and restaurant customers supplied with eight-to 10-ounce baking sizes.

"I tell you I never did that before. These Canadian potatoes cost me $9 a bag delivered here."

Potato chip prices have not gone up because chip makers were guaranteed their supplies at prices contracted with growers before they planted.

One market chain expects prices to start downward by mid-April. Burger said he doesn't expect a major break before mid-May.

PRESQUE ISLE, Maine (AP) — In Maine's Aroostook County, where the Irish potato is king, things are looking up for the first time in 13 years.

The reasons: A larger than usual crop last fall, a poor year in competing potato-growing areas and a good market.

Last fall's crop totaled nearly 40 million hundredweight, an increase of 2.2 million over 1963.

Chicken And Veal On Bargain List

FOOD REVIEW
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Broiler and fryer chickens and veal are likely to find their way onto the weekend special list at many food markets.

Beef is in good supply, but there are no indications of any widespread trend toward unusual specials this weekend.

One national supermarket chain is posting these specials in its New York City area outlets: fryer chickens down 12 cents to 27 a pound, cut-up fryers down 12 to 31, veal chops down 20 to 89, veal rump roast at 55 cents a pound and leg of veal at 49 a pound.

Rib roasts of beef came off the special list and went up 10 to 79 cents a pound.

Egg prices are still a bit below normal for this time of year.

Asparagus may be priced lower in many sections, particularly the East Coast.

Better weather is reportedly helping the fishing industry provide more fish for lenten meals.

Committee Reinstates Two Members That Were Dismissed

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Missouri's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee upheld the dismissal of the chairman and two officers of the St. Clair County ASC committee but reinstated two other members.

St. Clair County farmers started a picketing demonstration at the county headquarters at Osceola after the five men were suspended on Jan. 4. They pressed so closely and so persistently around the entrance to the office that work there was suspended almost a month. They withdrew when state headquarters agreed to give the men a hearing.

William W. Marshall, chairman of the state committee, announced Wednesday that George Kalberloh of Lowry City and L. W. Murray of Osceola were reinstated as members of the county committee because "irregularities found by the investigators did not warrant their removal."

B. F. Moore of Osceola, the committee chairman, M. O. Lamb of Collins, the office manager, and Roy Smith of Roscoe, the performance supervisor, were removed. Marshall said they were responsible "for irregularities they admitted in sworn statements to federal investigators from the office of the inspector general of the U.S. Department of Agriculture."

Marshall said Moore conducted a private insurance business from the ASC office in Osceola and permitted the office manager to hire Earl Moore, a brother of the chairman, as an assistant performance supervisor.

Lamb, he said, hired Earl Moore in violation of the regulations against nepotism, made false certifications to the state committee and permitted Dale Atchison to plow under wheat 30 days after the deadline under the 1962 feed grain program.

Marshall said Smith attempted to influence the votes of delegates to the 1962 county ASC convention and altered an acreage report on the Johnnie Stephens farm which resulted in an overpayment.

Move Out Of My Way, My Wife Has Her Breakfast

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A motorist made a high-speed exit from the Hollywood Freeway and ran through a red light.

But the driver had a quick alibi for the California Highway Patrol officer who halted him: "If I make any sudden stops my wife spills her breakfast. It makes her mad."

The officer looked into the car. There sat the driver's wife, a plate of bacon and eggs in her lap.

Patrol officers list this among the most surprising alibis yet offered for traffic offenses — although, as a compilation by administrative aides shows, Southern California's officers must by now have surely heard them all.

Like the time the gray-haired woman roared her powerful sedan past a stop signal's flashing red light, and explained when caught: "But officer, I went through between flashes."

Or the night Patrolman E. B. Foster stopped a motorist speeding 50 m.p.h. in a 25 m.p.h. zone during a heavy fog. The driver's excuse: "It was so foggy I couldn't read my speedometer."

None of these excuses saved the motorists from traffic tickets. But Foster, whose beat is South Los Angeles, remembers once he stopped a young woman for speeding and she told him she was hurrying because she had left her purse in a market and wanted to recover it before someone grabbed it.

"All right," said Foster, tired of alibis, "Let's go."

He escorted her back to the store and went in with her.

There on the counter was the young woman's purse.

She didn't get a ticket.

Cattle Patrol Catches Suspect

GREENFIELD, Mo. (AP) — A patrol against cattle thieves netted a truck operator who has been charged with reckless driving, and a widespread search for his companion is on in southwest Missouri.

Mel Hutchison, 30, no permanent address, is held in the Dade County jail at Greenfield under the reckless driving charge.

Sheriff Oral Killingsworth and Sheriff Marvin Quade of adjoining Lawrence County, captured Hutchison early Wednesday after a brief chase at 100 miles an hour.

The sheriffs' reported Hutchison suddenly stopped the truck, jumped out and ran. They overtook him after he stumbled.

His companion, an older man, ran in the other direction and got away.

Officers from six counties, dogs, two airplanes, highway patrolmen and conservation agents hunted for him all day Wednesday but did not find him.

Killingsworth quoted Hutchison as saying he and his helper had come up from Arkansas for a load of cattle.

His 1965 two-ton truck bore an Arkansas license tag, and Sheriff Killingsworth said there was a Missouri tag under the driver's seat.

The two sheriffs set up their lookout on Missouri 97 at their county line Tuesday night because about 20 cattle thefts have been reported in the area in the past month.

Early Bird Satellite Ready For Maneuver

WASHINGTON AP -- The Early Bird satellite, already a proven handler of television signals, looped the earth today in readiness for a maneuver to push it toward its permanent roost in space.

Communications Satellite Corp. engineers planned to fire small gas jets designed to guide the world's first commercial communications satellite to a point over the Atlantic between Brazil and South Africa.

A small kick-motor then will be fired Friday morning over South America to direct the satellite into a circular orbit 22,300 miles high.

There its speed will match the earth's rotation, making it appear stationary in the sky.

The 85-pound satellite was launched from Cape Kennedy, Fla., Tuesday night.

Engineers gave the satellite a test Wednesday and received television patterns of excellent quality.

Signals were sent to the spacecraft for several minutes from a ground station at Andover, Maine. The test originally was scheduled after the satellite reached its permanent orbit.

District Speech Contest At SEMO State

The Missouri State High School Activities Association will hold a District Speech Festival tomorrow and Saturday at Cape Girardeau at Southeast Missouri State College.

Seven seniors from Sikeston High School will make the trip, taking part in every event.

The Debate team is made up of Charles Ancell, John Struwe, Carol Miller, and Jim Watson. Deidre Harber will enter the Public Speaking event. Katie Blanton will be in the Verse Reading contest. Prose Reading will be done by Emily Twitty. And last years State Winner, Malcolm Lee, will again take part in Radio Speaking.

Usually, there are about two representatives from this district that make the trip to the State Tournament, that will be held in the first week-end in May at Columbia.

All students from Sikeston are Members of the National Forensic League.

Six Injuries In Area

Five of the six injuries in Troop E yesterday took place in two accidents, four near Bernie and one near Charleston. At 9 a.m. five miles west of Bernie on Route U, a 1950 Plymouth driven by Emory Hill, 38, and Geraldine Hill, 36, Robert Grubbs, 18, Shirley Grubbs, 18, all of Bernie, were injured when the driver lost control and hit a ditch bank. The driver received shoulder injuries, while the others received bruises and Geraldine Hill received a slight head injury. All were taken to the Doctors Hospital at Poplar Bluff.

Joseph L. Russelburg, 25, Sikeston received head lacerations in an accident at 9:10 p.m. on Highway 60, two and one-half miles west of Charleston. He failed to make a curve and his car turned two and one-half times. He was arrested for driving while drinking.

Hearings To Reduce Two-Thirds Majority

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- More than 150 persons attended a legislative hearing Wednesday night on proposals to reduce the two - thirds majority needed to pass bond issues in Missouri.

Spokesmen for various farm organizations and taxpayer groups told a House committee tax burdens already are too high and lowering the necessary majority would invite fiscal irresponsibility.

The measures are in the form of resolutions calling for constitutional amendments. They Range from a simple majority to 60 per cent to pass bond issues.

Proponents were heard at an earlier meeting.

Some witnesses said the two-thirds majority should not be lowered unless future bond elections are limited to property owners. Most local bond issues are paid off by property taxes.

Scientists, noting how rock falls are shortening the drop of Niagara Falls, fear they may eventually eliminate the cataract. And what will honeymooners do then, poor things?

"Do not be anxious about your life." (Matthew 6:25, RSV)

PRAYER: O Lord, we thank Thee for the challenges found in Thy Word. Strengthen us in faith that we may boldly accept Christ's challenges to live by them. Supply all our needs, Thou who art our greatest need. In the name of the Master, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven. . . Amen."

Looking Back Over The Years

New Madrid — Mr. and Mrs. James A. Finch were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brissenden at Cape Girardeau last Friday.

Among the Sikeston people who attended the dance at Gideon Tuesday night when the new community building was officially opened, were: Mr. and Mrs. Will Sikes, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lindley, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Tanner, Miss Lucy Godsey, Miss Marjorie Cutrell, Reginald Potashnick, Ernest Harper, Herman Henry, Byron Bowman, Orlando Arthur, Charles Blanton, Billie Smith, Charles and Harold Hebbeler, George Dye, and Bedford Burks.

Jackson — Jackson as a city Tuesday celebrated its 40th birthday as it was on that date in 1885 that the first city officials were elected.

Kroger's, Herring bulk, per dozen, 30 cents; flour, Country Club, 98 pound sack, $4.69; salmon, tall can, pink, 23 cents; green onion, per bunch, 6 cents; pancake flour, Country Club, per pkg., 10 cents; cream cheese, finest kind, 33 cents; oleo, Good Luck, 28 cents; oysters, Cove, 20 cents; peas, No. 2 Std. can, 11 cents; and bread, whole wheat, 9 cents.

Mrs. Amanda Cobb died of complications Friday at her home in the east part of town. For more than a year she had been in ill health because of a paralytic stroke she had suffered.

It is with regrets that we hear Mrs. Archie Scales of Dexter, formerly Miss Hyacinth Sheppard, is quite ill from a gland affliction. She was brought to the home of her mother, Mrs. J. N. Sheppard, in this city Monday morning.

A number of friends gave Mrs. Frank Dye a birthday surprise Saturday night. Mrs. Dye was the recipient of many nice gifts.

John Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bowman, who has pneumonia, is reported to have passed the crisis and yesterday morning was little below normal.

Dr. A. A. Mayfield, Sikeston's staunch friend and a friend to many, many people in all walks of life in Southeast Missouri, died early Sunday morning of a heart ailment with which he had been suffering for more than a year.

One of the greatest needs at the Sikeston General Hospital was filled yesterday afternoon when a baby incubator was received and set up by the hospital's superintendent, Otto Mundorf. Also to be received soon is a new anesthesia machine, by which patients may be administered anesthetics through a mask.

The Rev. R. M. Talbert, pastor of the Sikeston Christian Church for past several years, was retained for the coming year at a meeting of the church's official board this week.

Mrs. John Watts is the proud possessor of a beautiful rose which bloomed at her home on Moore avenue yesterday. The venturesome bloom defied treacherous April weather.

Dear Editor:

I think I have a very important 'news flash' for Conservatives. Information has come to me that the Studebaker Corporation, 635 S. Main Street, South Bend 27, Indiana, intends to advertise in The American Mercury in the near future.

Please verify the rumor before sending it along. I suggest that you contact your nearest Studebaker dealer.

I went to a dealer and looked at the beautiful 1965 model. It is one of the most beautiful cars I've seen, and Studebaker has always been a good dependable automobile. I was involved in the auto business for many years, and I've always had respect for their product.

Sincerely

Dear Charlie:

Before this morning gets a minute older, I want to thank you most sincerely for your courtesy in sending to us a copy of your 10th Annual Progress edition. You and all your good people can well be mighty proud of your effort in putting out this most unusual and well-prepared edition.

In turning the pages through the entire edition, I found many items of interest and was truly impressed with the apparent progress your area has made recently. The picture stories were presented in a most pleasing and interesting manner and combined to give your special edition a good balance.

Again, many thanks for your courtesy.

With all good wishes and sincerely,

To The Editor:

A TEST FOR ADULTS AND STUDENTS

1. Throughout history -- has Government ALWAYS been the greatest enemy of man's freedoms?

2. Throughout centuries of history in God's Holy Bible -- and succeeding history -- down to the always Socialist - States of Europe, that the Pilgrims fled from -- were ALL people subjected to bondage or abject slavery -- by confiscatory taxes and force -- imposed upon them by ruthless, Socialist-State Rulers or groups?

3. Do you know that "Socialism" simply defined -- is the imposition upon a people, of bondage or slavery, by confiscatory taxes and force?

4. Did our Founding Fathers give their fortunes and lives -- in the Revolutionary War to eliminate bondage -- leading to abject slavery -- forced upon them with confiscatory taxes and force -- by Socialist King George III?

5. Do you know -- that it is impossible, for ANY Government, to have a single dollar, to give to the people -- let alone millions and billions -- until it FIRST takes it away from the people by taxes -- or mortgages the possessions of ALL of the people -- represented by Government bonds -- which the Government prints and sells to some of the people -- and when the people won't buy as much as the Government wants to spend -- it prints and sells billions of more bonds to the banks of the country -- who buy the bonds with the peoples' deposits? Do you know that ALL of the possessions -- of ALL our people -- are already mortgaged for $316,000,000,000? Do you know that this mammouth, incomprehensible amount of Government bonds -- ARE NOTES, that our people MUST PAY WITH TAXES -- OR REPUDIATE -- which means national bankruptcy? Government doesn't have a dime.

6. Can you define a Gold-Standard? Do you know, that throughout ALL history -- EVERY empire or country that destroyed its gold-standard -- eventually ended up in bankruptcy and chaos -- and became a has-been country? Do you know that a substantial percentage of gold -- in the vaults of a country -- for the specific purpose of redeeming ALL Government bonds and currency -- in gold, at maturity -- is the ONLY curb against unlimited, satanical, deficit-spending -- and insurance against eventual national bankruptcy? Do you know the name of our trusted President -- who destroyed America's gold-standard in 1934 -- and the names of your trusted Congressmen who rubber-stamped that unconstitutional Gold-Reserve, so-called law?

7. Do you know that our U.S. Constitution -- evolved by our religious, freedom-extremist, Founding Fathers -- is the ONLY man-made, slavery-preventing, laws in ALL history? Do you know that our elected politicians -- from Presidents down -- have ignored -- and destroyed it -- in just the last 30 odd years?

8. Do you know why our Founding Fathers warned against entanglements with any and all foreign empires or countries? Because -- their studies of centuries of history -- contained in God's Holy Bible -- and succeeding history -- down to the always Socialist-State-ridden countries of Europe, that the Pilgrims, power-hungry, politicians -- who utilized vassal, politician Governors, Judges, Clergymen and a hord of yes-men, non-producing, patronage job-holders - to enforce bondage and abject slavery upon the people, by confiscatory taxes and force? ALL Socialist-State Rulers of ALL countries -- are ONLY interested in their own, personal power, aggrandizement and material gain. Can you define The Monroe Doctrine? Are you worried -- about atomic missiles and planes -- that can destroy millions with one blast -- poised upon our back door-step -- in Cuba? Can you read and write? Have you written your President and Congressmen to drive Russia off our back yard? Would you -- like our Forefathers -- prefer death over slavery?

9. Do you know that our Christian, patriotic Founding Fathers -- were the ONLY group of politicians IN ALL history -- that were not interested in slavery - control over people? That's why they made each State - a Republic -- with ALL powers unto itself -- and limited the Federal Government to mostly, protection from, and trade with foreign countries.

10. Do you know -- that States' Rights have been nearly destroyed in the last thirty odd years -- and that EVERY program of the "New Society" is pointed to its TOTAL DESTRUCTION?

For every one of the above 10 questions that you can answer "YES" -- or agree with definitions given -- rate yourself 10 points. 100 points will rate you a God-fearing, American Patriot -- like our Founding Fathers. From zero to 80 points -- will show the degree that you have been brain-washed, back to the Socialist-State form of Government -- by a new hord of ambitious, power-hungry, Socialist-State-believing Politicians, Labor-Leaders, Clergymen, businessmen hungry for profits from Government contracts, Socialist - Russia infiltrators, anti-American followers -- and others.

Today's Spanish Lesson

Lesson No. 39
Reading time 5 Min.
Study time 5 Min.

Here are the days of the week:

A) Monday; B) lunes; C) LOO-ness; A) Tuesday; B) martes; C) MAR-tess; A) Wednesday; B) miercoles; C) me-AIR-coless.

A) Thursday; B) jueves; C) WAY-vess; A) Friday; B) viernes; C) ve-AIR-ness; A) Saturday; B) sabado; C) SAH-bah-doe; A) Sunday; B) domingo; C) doe-MING-go.

NOTE: In Spanish the days of the week, months of the year and seasons are not capitalized.

The seasons of the year are:

A) Spring; B) primavera; C) pre-mah-VAIR-ah; A) Summer; B) verano; C) vay-RAH-no.

A) Autumn; B) otono; C) oh-TONE-yo; A) Winter; B) invierno; C) een-ve-AIR-no.

Be sure that you put these words to memory by using them in sentences, such as:

A) Monday is the day to work; B) Lunes es el dia para trabajar; C) LOO-ness/s/l/DE-ah/-Par-Ah/trah-bah-HAHR.

A) In the summer we are going to play; B) En el varano vamos a jugar; C) en/l/vay-RAH-no/-VAH-mos/ah/who-GAR.

A) Saturday I am going to play golf; B) El sabado yo voy a jugar golf; C) l/SAH/bah-doe/-yo/voy/ah/who-GAR/golf.

A) Sunday we are going to church; B) El domingo vamos a la iglesia; C) l/doe-MING-go/-VAH - mos /ah/lah/e -GLAY-see-ah.

A) Tuesday I am going to rent a house; B) El martes yo voy a rentar una casa; C) l/MAR-tess/ yo/ voy/ah/rain-TAR/-OON-ah/CAH-sah.

Now look at these words:

programa, epigrama, monograma, telegrama, cablegrama, problema, diagrama, idioma, emblema.

No one has to tell you what these Spanish words are. You already know them. The "key" is: If the English word ends in 'AM' or 'EM', just add the letter 'A', use the Spanish vowel sounds; and you have increased your vocabulary tremendously.

Tomorrow we will give you the months of the year and another word "key".

FAMILY FOOTNOTE

As the family was getting ready to drive to church for Confession, I went upstairs to see what was detaining our small son Robert. Puzzled, I stopped to listen to a mumbling which came from his room.

Suddenly he put his head out the door and said, "Be right with you, mom! I was just rehearsing my sins." — Olive Johnson

Spring Marks Opening Of Home Buying Season

By Dan Whittle

Spring is traditionally the big home buying season, and this spring is no different. In selecting homes, people and their ideas vary as much as daylight and dark.

Some want on a hill, some want wide-open spaces, some want small closed-in quarters, but all want all that can be had for the least amount of expense.

With the thought in mind about making, usually the largest investment of your life, just what do you look for to insure that you are getting the most for your dollars? And how do you go about financing your dwelling?

In looking at a possible selection, the location is a prime factor. It's for sure that you do not want to purchase a home that is a lot more expensive than the surrounding dwellings. Also, look at the proximity of schools, churches, and shopping centers. They can play a very important part as to the value of your selection, presently, and often times more important, future value. Naturally, the structure is checked over, as to the wiring facilities, plumbing, termites, etc.

Too, you have to take into consideration the conveniences, such as to the second largest investment of your life, the automobile. If no port or garage is available, can one be added, or is there convenient parking on hand?

Another important thing is the selection of a realtor. Although it is no must, for most of them are alright, you should know him personally and know that he is interested in you personally. In other words, can you trust him?

Last, but we all know for sure that it is not least, are the finances and arrangements that can be made. Of course it is best for an individual to pay out right cash, but how many can do that? Not many, so do the next best thing, and that is get a loan. There are several types that should be checked out one by one before purchase is made. The FHA Loan, sponsored by the Federal Government, is one that is available. They have men on the job that are specifically trained to check a man and his assets personally before the loan is put into effect. Then comes the Conventional Loan, where you do business with the loan company only. Last, but certainly a blessing for many, is the V. A. Loan for veterans.

One difference in FHA Loans and Conventional Loans is the amount of red tape. Conventional loans do not have all the red tape that the FHA Loan does.

Before you make any transaction, check each type of loan and the advantages that they offer you. They all have different advantages for different persons.

House Approving Money Bills

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The House moved briskly ahead today in approving appropriations committee money bills carrying $5583 million in general revenue and state funds.

They do not include several hundred million in federal allotments.

Republican members tried to make some changes in the bills but the lopsided Democratic majority shouted them down.

On the first four bills only one amendment was adopted and it was the only one offered by a Democrat.

Rep. Thomas A. Walsh, D-St. Louis, got an increase of $18,000 for the industrial commission on his declaration the commission needs more money to do its job of protecting the workingman.

At the outset, Rep. R. J. King, R-St. Louis County, tried in vain to amend the bills so that if the apportionment job is not done as the federal courts have ordered and there is no legislature legally authorized to act next year the same appropriations would stand enacted for the 1966-67 fiscal year.

Rep. Bernard (Doc) Simcoe, D-Callaway County, appropriations committee chairman, and other Democrats opposed the amendment as an effort to coerce the federal court into accepting any apportionment solution Missouri might come up with.

The amendment was defeated 19-126 and King decided not to try to amend any other bills.

The first bill whipped through without discussion. It provides $5,471,068 to pay interest on the state's bonded indebtedness, including the $75 million second state building bond issue for capital improvements.

The second bill, providing $7,395,444 for the Department of education for educational purposes, also went through without change.

The bill authorizes state aid to public education but does not specify the amount. The estimated cost of state aid in the coming school year will be $131 million.

Also advanced unscathed despite several amendment efforts was a bill providing $26,949,541 for operation of the big Department of Revenue.

It was the next bill, providing $171,406,875 for the elective offices, most state departments and the judiciary, on which Walsh managed to tack the successful amendment.

A bill appropriating $46,832,092 for the operations of mental hospitals and correctional institutions also got through without amendment.

King was beaten once more, this time in his effort to add $125,000 in state aid for St. Louis County hospital, at the rate of $15 a day for each severe psychiatric case it handles.

Income Tax Questions And Answers

Q- To help make ends meet, I've been adding to my regular income from wages by selling and installing storm windows. I have no shop or office. I just buy the windows and then sell and install them. Do I add what I make to my other income or must I file a Schedule "C"?

A-A Schedule "C" is required since the income from your part time job is considered self - employment income. Schedule C permits you to list whatever costs and expenses are involved in your business so that tax need be paid just on your profits.

Q-I am 57 years old, and I retired on disability last year after 30 years of employment with the U. S. government. Is my disability money taxable?

A-Under the rules that apply to U. S. Civil Service employees, you have the right to retire at age 60 with 30 years of service. Therefore, since you are under 60, your pension qualifies as sick pay and up to $100 per week may be deductible from income. The pension received after you reach 60 will be considered an annuity and will be taxed as such. Of course, different employers may have different age and length-of- service requirements for normal retirement.

Q-When will I get my refund? I filed early in January.

A-Generally, the processing of a refundable return filed early takes about six weeks if the return is in order and is not selected for audit. No inquiry should be made before 8 weeks.

Q-I went into your office last week because I was having trouble filling out my return. The person I spoke to was helpful but would not fill out the form for me. He helped me to complete it. You used to fill them out for people. Why have you changed?

A-For the past several years taxpayer assistance personnel have concentrated on helping taxpayers fill forms out themselves rather than doing it for them. We believe this is a more effective use of our manpower resources. When a taxpayer is incapable of filling out his own return then we will fill out the form.

Q-What does the term gross income mean?

A- Any income that is not specifically exempted from the income tax is gross income. Tax exempt income such as a Social Security pension is not taxable and should not be included and excluded.

Q-My 16 year old son has a job in a drug store after school. Should we include his income with ours when filing a tax return?

A-No. You should never report the income of a dependent child or other dependents on your return. If your son had $600 or more of gross income he must file his own return. If his gross income is less than $600 and tax was withheld he should file a return anyway to get a refund of the amount withheld.

Q-I have medical expenses to report. Do I have to use the expense statement you have had printed?

A-No you don't. However, Form 2948 should be most helpful to taxpayers claiming this deduction. If you don't use the form, be sure that the statement you do send in contains the necessary information for a complete accounting of your expenses.

Q-Is it permissible for business partners to file a joint return?

A-No. The partnership will have to file a partnership return Form 1065. Each partner also has to file his own individual return, Form 1040, if he meets the filing requirements.

Bottom row, left to right: Walter E. Botthof, chairman of the Board of Standard Rate and Data Service in Chicago; David Lawrence, Washington correspondent and founder and head of the U. S. News and World Report; Edward P. Morgan, news commentator of the American Broadcasting Company; and Stewart Hensley, chief diplomatic correspondent for the United Press International and a distinguished graduate of the University of Missouri School of Journalism. The medals will be presented by Dr. Earl F. English, dean of the School of Journalism, at 2:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Jay H. Neff Hall.

Use Of Urea Lowers Gain Cost In Cattle Rations

COLUMBIA, Mo., Apr. 2 — In research at the University of Missouri, the cost of gain was reduced when urea, instead of soybean meal, was used to supply the protein in high energy cattle rations, G. B. Thompson said here today.

Thompson, MU associate professor of animal husbandry, speaking during Livestock Day on the University of Missouri campus, said that another part of this research compared urea and soybean meal, each fed with sudan hay that contained a high level (3.5 percent) of potassium nitrate. Thus, the compatibility of high urea with high nitrate was tested.

He stated that during the first phase of the test, two steers in the group fed urea died from nitrate poisoning; the remaining urea-fed cattle apparently adjusted to the high nitrate feed. No losses occurred among the cattle fed soybean meal.

After the initial phase, cattle were removed from the high nitrate forage for 10 days — but remained on either high urea or the soybean supplement. All steers were then returned to high nitrate forage. In this period, slightly more evidence of nitrate toxicity was noted in cattle fed the soybean supplement than the high urea supplement; no deaths occurred.

No distinct advantage in performance was noted for either supplement, according to Thompson.

In comparing the high urea supplement containing 70 per cent non-protein nitrogen, and soybean meal supplement, beef steers on a full feed of good corn silage or ground ear corn, the supplements were equal.

However, the cost of gain was less with the urea supplement.

But, when a full feed of a lower energy ration — hybrid forage sorghum silage — was fed, the soybean supplement was superior.

When the ration fed contained sufficient energy to produce 1½ pounds or higher daily gain per head, a 40 per cent protein mixture. They were equal as measured by gains and feed efficiency of beef calves used in the research.

Results of the two feeding trials, said Thompson, indicate that the energy level of the ration is an important consideration when deciding whether or not to use a high urea supplement or a vegetable protein supplement. The energy level needs to be realtively high when urea is fed.

the Elegant 'Little Girl' Look

CHANEL, MOLYNEUX, DIOR: The slender coat ensemble (left) in several shades of pink and purple is flecked with white and edged and lined in black surah. The dress, unmistakably Chanel, is sleeveless. Typical of the soft, feminine look Molyneux is known for, these three silk jersey gowns (center) in peach, pink and black have draped bodices and flowing skirts worn over slacks done in matching crepe de chine. The blurred chiffon short dinner dress by Dior's Marc Bohan (right) is in a medium green print. Crossover bodice is teamed with double-flounced skirt.

By HELEN HENNESSY, Newspaper Enterprise Women's Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Tuck in those shirttails, gird that waist and swing that skirt. This, in capsule form, is the order of the day from the Paris collections for spring 1965. The overblouse is gone. Suit blouses are tucked into waistbands and the waistline leather belted. Full, swingy skirts replace the slim line of past seasons. • Everything is feminine and pretty. Hemlines still hover about the knees, with the added interest of ruffles and flounces. Necklines are higher than last year and there were no shockers. • The "little girl" look, pleated skirt, short jacket, large hat at the back of a fluffy hairdo and baby-heeled, one-strap shoes predominated. But there were sophisticated, elegant ensembles at Chanel, Dior and Molyneux that will please women of any age. There were no trouser suits. • Navy is the leading daytime color, often brightened with touches of white. Another sure hit is a new geranium pink. Chiffon and organdy contribute their feminine touch to the evening scene, and a new evening length by Chanel stops between the calf and ankle. • The long and short of the Paris picture this year can be summed up as an orgy of pleats, flying panels, ruffles, big hats and short skirts—everything strictly for the girls.

To Hang Kansas Most Bloody And Baffling Multiple Murders

By EDL. CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Kan. AP --On a Sunday morning in mid-November, 1959, two high school girls ran up to the home of a classmate whom they were to accompany to church. Moments later they ran screaming from the house.

They had discovered one of Kansas' most bloody and baffling multiple murders-the knife and shotgun slayings of wealthy wheat grower Herbert Wesley Clutter, his wife and their two teen-age children.

On Wednesday, April 14, two men convicted of those crimes are scheduled to hang in the Kansas prison here. It is their fifth date with the executioner and marks the end of a legal battle that has taken them three times to the Supreme Court of the United States.

The men are Perry Edward Hickock of Edgerton, Kan. They were petty crooks, serving short terms for writing bad checks, when they met in this same prison in 1959. Smith was then 28, Hickock 31. Smith was paroled that July; Hickock a month later.

Some time that fall they got together and on the night of Nov. 14, just after the Clutters had retired, they slipped into the home on the outskirts of the small community of Holcomb, seven miles west of Garden City in far western Kansas. They carried a shotgun, a hunting knife, a flashlight, lengths of nylon cord and a roll of adhesive tape. Their chief objective was a non-existent safe in which they believed Clutter kept huge sums.

But only Smith and Hickock knew those facts.

When officers arrived, all they found were four bodies. And two strange footprints. No weapons. Not even a sign of robbery although it developed the killers had stolen about $50 cash, a portable radio and a pair of binoculars-leaving behind small sums of money and some jewelry.

The 48-year-old Clutter, one-time president of the National Wheat Growers Association and a 1954-55 member of the Federal Farm Credit Board, was sprawled on a mattress in the basement, his throat slashed and a shotgun charge fired into his head. He wore pajamas. His hands were bound with cord, his mouth taped shut.

In an adjoining room, 14-year-old Kenyon Neal Clutter, also bound, gagged and shot in the head, was sprawled on a couch.

On the second floor, in separate bedrooms, were the bodies of Bonnie Mae Clutter, 45, and Nancy Mae, 15. Mrs. Clutter was bound and gagged. Nancy only bound. Each had been shot in the head.

The clues were the footprints --one of a shoe on the bloody mattress, the other of a boot on the dusty floor near the boy's body.

Church money was laid out on a bedside table. Valuable jewelry was undisturbed.

The Kansas Bureau of Investigation went to work. More than 700 "tips" were sifted. Most were useless.

Suddenly on Dec. 28 at Las Vegas, Nev., Smith and Hickock were arrested. Within a week Hickock dictated a confession and two days later Smith orally admitted his part in the crimes.

The two were returned to Garden City and brought to trial March 22, 1960. They were convicted March 29 and sentenced to hang. The hangings were first set for May 13, 1960, but defense attorneys started a series of legal battles that resulted in the executions being reset for Oct. 25, 1962; Aug. 8, 1963; Feb. 18, 1965; and then for April 14, 1965.

The Kansas Supreme Court, two U. S. district courts, the federal Circuit Court of Appeals at Denver and the Supreme Court of the United States were asked at various times to save the men. Each refused, some more than once. The nation's highest tribunal three times refused to even review the case.

The courts decided the men had received fair trials, news media coverage had not prejudiced their changes of acquittal, court - appointed lawyers had given them adequate representation. The tightly woven net of evidence upon which they were convicted was never assailed.

That net was woven by other KBI under its Director Logan Sanford with Garden City agent Al Dewey as his chief assistant. Key to it was one of the 700 tips-a strange, almost unbelievable story from inside the penitentiary.

William Floyd Wells of Oswego, Kan., serving a burglary sentence, told it to a friend; the friend told a prison official; the official relayed it to the KBI.

Wells recalled that for about a month that summer he and Hickock had been cellmates. Wells told Hickock that several years earlier, while working as a harvest hand on the Clutter farm, he had learned that Clutter was extremely wealthy and kept large sums in a safe at his home. "Why that man would handle $10,000 in one day", he said. What Wells did not know was that the Clutters had moved to a new home and it had no safe. Nor did Clutter ever carry more than $50 or $60 in cash.

Wells said Hickock displayed great interest in the story, commenting he would like to rob such a place and, if he did, would "leave no witnesses."

The KBI was skeptical. A convict's unsupported yarn is likely to be 90 per cent imagination.

But just about that time a routine Kansas City, Mo., police circular reached Sanford's desk. It reported Hickock had fallen into his old habit of writing bad checks and had passed one Nov. 21. The circular said he was accompanied by Smith.

Sanford started some checking. From Hickock's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hickock at Edgerton, he learned the men had been there early Nov. 14, picking up the shotgun and hunting knife and telling a bold story of going to collect a large sum of money.

A KBI agent was sent to Las Vegas, Reno, Elko and Carson City, Nev., and to San Francisco, all known hangouts of Smith. There he enlisted the aid of local police. Other agents, picking up the trail with the bad check in Kansas City followed the two to Mexico City from where they had mailed a bundle of clothing, addressed to themselves, to Las Vegas.

On Dec. 28, the pair picked up this bundle at the Las Vegas postoffice. Thirty minutes later they were under arrest. In the bundle were found a shoe that matched the print on the bloody mattress, a boot that matched the print in the dust. The shoe was Smith's; the boot was Hickock's.

The pair broke quickly. Hickock dictated his confession Jan. 3 and signed it. Smith told his story two days later.

The KBI went after more corroborative evidence. From a pawnshop in Mexico City it recovered the radio and binoculars. Burning away four acres of weeds and stripping the earth with a grade so it could be sifted, it found buried along a road near the Clutter home four empty shotgun shells, pieces of nylon cord and the rest of the roll of adhesive tape. The shotgun and knife were found in the Hickock home at Edgerton.

At the trial, the crime was recounted:

When Hickock and Smith entered the home late that fatal Saturday night, they searched in vain for the safe. Clutter was asleep in his first floor bedroom. They awakened him and demanded money. He gave them $40 and $50 cash and told them there was no more. They took him upstairs, aroused the other Clutters, locked all four in a bathroom while they again searched the house.

Finding nothing, they returned and removed the Clutters one by one from the bathroom.

When Mrs. Clutter protested she had been ill and was tired standing, Hickock brought her a chair. Because the basement floor was cold, Smith spread the mattress for Clutter. When the boy complained he was uncomfortable, Hickock put pillows under his head. When Hick suggested raping the girl, Smith gallantly forbade it.

Then they returned to Clutter and Smith slashed the wheat grower's throat. Hickock took the knife and stabbed the man twice. As they turned to leave, Smith said "that's a hell of a way to leave a fellow" and shot the wounded man in the head. Smith then shot the boy and gave the shotgun to Hickock, saying he could do no more.

Upstairs they entered Nancy's room. Smith held the flashlight on her and as she begged "Oh, please don't", Hickock shot her in the head. He then killed Mrs. Clutter in like manner.

The fruitless crime was over. The witnesses were dead. Hickock and Smith began to cover their trail.

When they were arrested seven weeks later they were dumbfounded. Where had they slipped up? They had followed the case in the press and on the radio. The police kept saying they had no clues. What happened?

They found out as the story was spun out to the jury that long week in March. The jury was quick to reach its decision: death by hanging.

The next five years were long. Smith staged a four months hunger strike in 1960. Both he and Hickock, impatient with their attorneys, wrote individual appeals to the courts. Various lawyers tried all legal avenues to win a reversal of the case. Nothing succeeded.

But the efforts continue. Just a week before the scheduled hangings attorneys were seeking to reopen the case in the district court at Garden City and also to obtain a clemency from Kansas Gov. William Avery. Avery refused to grant a 60-day reprieve on April 1 in order to give additional time for these moves, but will hear the clemency plea April 12. The district court has taken no action on a motion to set aside the convictions on grounds that various constitutional rights of the men were violated in the handling of their case.

Armed Forces

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (FHTNC) March 31 — Seaman Recruit James D. Morman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Morman of 1004 Fannetta St., Dexter, Mo., has begun nine weeks of Navy basic training at the U.S. Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

In the first weeks of his naval service he will study military subjects and live and work under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

In making the transition from civilian to sailor he will be taught and supervised by experienced Navy petty officers. They will teach him the basic skills of seamanship as well as survival techniques, military drill and other basic subjects.

On completion of his recruit training he will be assigned to a school, shore station or ship, according to the results of his Navy classification tests, his own desires and the needs of the Navy.

USS MARS (AFS-1) (FHTNC) April 1 — Seaman Charles D. Gaddis, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Basil S. Gaddis of 318 Kendall St., Sikeston, Mo., was awarded the Armed Forces Expeditionary Medal March 17, while serving aboard the combat stores ship USS Mars, operating out of Yokosuka, Japan.

The Mars, the Navy's first ship of its type, and the crew were awarded the decoration for "thirty days of direct logistical support of task force operations in the South China Sea."

During this period, the Mars replenished over 30 ships with 645 tons of foodstuffs, more than 200,000 gallons of fuel oil and more than 8,000 items ranging from tiny transistors to huge aircraft engines.

Leslie Douglas Ashley

One Of The 10 Most Wanted Men

LESLIE DOUGLAS ASHLEY, also known as: Douglas Ashley, Cookie Cordell, Edward Elizondo, Rose Goldberg, Ted Kipperman, C. D. LaMonte, Charles Scott, "Cookie", "Reene" and others.

FUGITIVE

UNLAWFUL INTERSTATE FLIGHT TO AVOID PROSECUTION - THEFT

Leslie Douglas Ashley, a mental hospital escapee, who may be dressed as a man or a woman and was once within hours of execution in the electric chair before reversal of his conviction for a brutal murder, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

He is currently charged in a Federal warrant with fleeing interstate to avoid prosecution for the theft of an automobile following his escape on October 6, 1964, from the maximum security ward of the Texas State Mental Hospital in San Antonio, Texas. He had been confined in this institution since being declared insane and was scheduled to remain in this hospital until such time as he could be declared mentally competent to be retried for a brutal murder that occurred in February, 1961.

Ashley and a female accomplice allegedly murdered a Houston real estate man on February 6, 1961. The victim was shot six times with a .22 caliber revolver and his body was then dragged from his office, feet first, placed in a car, driven to a field, doused with gasoline and ignited with a match to be burned to a cinder. The body was so badly burned the victim could only be identified through fingerprints.

The victim's car was transported from Houston to New York City where Ashley was apprehended by FBI Agents on February 26, 1961. At the time of this arrest, Ashley was dressed as a woman.

He was subsequently prosecuted in Houston, found guilty and sentenced to death in the electric chair, but this conviction was reversed on appeal. Ashley was later declared insane, though sane at the time of the murder, and committed to a mental institution. The female accomplice was found guilty of murder and sentenced to 6 years' confinement in Texas.

Ashley, who has worked as a female impersonator in night clubs catering to homosexuals, has a criminal record which began in 1955 when he was arrested by police in Los Angeles, California, on a sex delinquency charge.

In July, 1958, New York City police arrested him on an assault and robbery charge, and he was subsequently convicted of vagrancy while dressed as a female, fined and given a short jail sentence.

Leslie Douglas Ashley is a white American who was born at Hot Springs, Arkansas, on January 3, 1938. He is 5'9" tall, weighs 130 to 135 pounds, has a slender build, a fair, pock-marked complexion, brown eyes and reddish brown hair which may be dyed black or other colors. Asley has also worked as a photo colorer and photographic salesman. He has a scar on the inside of his right wrist, one on his left elbow and one on his right knee.

In addition to being known to closely associate with prostitutes and homosexuals, Ashley has frequently in the past dressed in women's clothing and may presently be disguished as a woman. In addition to dyed hair, Ashley may wear a wig. He is reportedly extremely effeminate in speech and actions, is a heavy smoker of cigarettes, likes to wear gaudy jewelry and is said to often carry a Bible and enjoy quoting passages from it.

Since Ashley escaped from a mental institution while awaiting retrial for a vicious murder in which the victim was shot six times and burned with gasoline, he should be considered armed and extremely dangerous.

Should you receive any information concerning the whereabouts of Leslie Douglas Ashley, you are requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be located on the first page of local telephone directories.

The secret of success is constancy to purpose. — Benjamin Disraeli

FINDING THE WAY

Guard the Rosebush

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Some years ago Walter Lippmann recounted the story of one of the last czars of Russia who came upon a sentry guarding a patch of weeds. He retraced his steps a few days later and spied the sentry at the same spot. The sentry did not know why he was there or what he was guarding. The captain of the guards did not know. No one knew.

Since the czar was a czar, he ordered a thorough research of the problem. Ultimately it was revealed that almost a century before, Catherine the Great had planted a rosebush at that spot. Not wanting it to be trampled she had ordered the guard. The rosebush died but no one remembered to cancel the sentry duty. History had come sweeping by. But still the sentry stood at attention by the weed patch.

Lippmann commented upon the story saying, "It is always difficult to know that a rosebush is dead and that you are guarding an empty place. This is particularly true of the hopes and fears which sweep across the modern world and for a time possess men's minds and govern their conduct."

Or change the metaphor. In a delightful little book which interprets some of the theological implications of the cartoon "Peanuts," the cartoonist, Mr. Schulz, discusses the obsession of Linus with his blanket: "Linus' affection for his blanket is a symbol of the things we cling to. What I am getting at, of course, is the adult's inability to give up habits which really should be given up.

"Not that I am completely against the idea that we have to cling to something. For once you accept Jesus, it does not mean that all your problems are automatically solved or that you will never be lonesome or unhappy again. How can you be happy all of the time if you are aware of the things that are going on around you? But some of the adult habits are ridiculous."

So the child who interprets happiness as a thumb and a blanket can become a man who still clings to an emotional satisfaction which is somewhat meaningless.

With these stories in mind, range the areas of debates in our cities and villages today. Many times the battle is over the wrong cause. Somebody is guarding the weed patch instead of the rosebush. Someone is clinging to the "thumb and blanket" when they ought to be confronting the real issues unafraid.

If we die for the wrong causes or hide behind some meaningless sentimentality, we'll fragment the forces for good instead of meeting the problems which beset us. It's no time to guard an empty place. It's no time to panic. It is a time to plant the rosebushes. It is a time to be certain that we aren't clinging to some old symbol of security instead of finding that delicious inner security of the unafraid.

The stories of the Old and New Testaments are filled with the active verbs of men and women who marched, tackled great issues and kept their eyes on the things that mattered most. In testing times someone may have to stand guard over the rosebush. Let's make certain it's there!

QUICK QUIZ

Farm Organizations Support 11 State Transportation Rates

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Leaders of national farm organizations say they'll support efforts by an 11-state Governor's Committee on Transportation Rates to help the grain procession industry in the Midwest.

The committee contends the industry is threatened by inequitable freight rates. It wants to restore traditional parity of rates on wheat and flour. Farm leaders gave their support after day-long discussions.

It was agreed the grain processing industry must first be in a position to tell the railroads just what it wants and needs. The job of providing this information was given to Ross L. Thorfinnson of Minneapolis, chairman of the National Grain Producers, Handlers and Processors Association.

Dr. James A. McCain, president of Kansas State University and chairman of the committee, said meetings will be held with railroads to seek a voluntary solution. Some railroads have asked to be called in.

The committee agreed removal of federal regulations of railroad rates would not be a solution. A resolution to this effect was adopted and will be sent to President Johnson.

The problem basically is that railroads are establishing freight rates on bulk grains that are lower than rates on processed products, the committee said. Gen. John P. Doyle of Texas A&M, who represents Texas on the committee, said:

"We're not about to sit idly by and watch our section of the country become a colony existing only to supply raw products to coastal areas."

Texas has lost half of its flour milling industry, he said.

John Anderson, in his last few days as Kansas governor, led the establishment of the committee to aid the flour milling industry, which has been moving from areas of wheat production to centers of flour consumption.

McCain said the committee now recognizes the problem also includes feed manufacturers, soybean processors, the malting industry and others.

Gov. William Avery of Kansas pledged his support, told of talks with the Interstate Commerce Commission and outlined procedure for a formal complaint to the ICC, if such action should be necessary.

The American Farm Bureau Federation was represented by Matt Trigg from Washington; the National Farmers Union by Charles F. Brannan, Denver; the National Grange by Charles Bolling, Washington; the National Farmers Organization by Gordon Schafer and Sam Hoffmeyer of Missouri; and Great Plains Wheat Inc. by Sam Freeman of Denver.

All 11 states—Kansas, Missouri, Colorado, Minnesota, Nebraska, Montana, Oklahoma, South Dakota, North Dakota, Iowa and Texas—were represented at the meeting.

LESSON IN NEGOTIATION

I used to be Impartial Chairman of the Pacific Coast waterfront, back when there was really class warfare. One day when I had on the docket a wage case, I asked the parties whether they had negotiated yet. I wasn't going to arbitrate an issue of this sort unless the parties had first tried to settle it themselves.

"All right," they said, somewhat reluctantly, "we'll negotiate." As I got up to leave the room, they said, "Sit down. This won't take long."

The representative of the waterfront employers' association leaned across the table to Harry Bridges and said, "Mr. Bridges, we don't know what you are going to demand but, by God, the answer is no!"

Then Harry Bridges leaned across the table and said, "To tell you the truth, we haven't made up our minds on what we're going to demand but, by God, we won't take no for an answer!"

Then they both turned to me and said, "Mr. Impartial Chairman, here is your case. We have negotiated." — Clark Kerr

Leslie Achieves Biggest Ambition

Joe Leslie, former student at Sikeston High School, has achieved his main ambition. And that is to write the "Varsity Show" at Ohio University next year.

He has just completed playing two roles in the production of "Lil Abner".

He has had a lead role in the Varsity Show for the past two years and was Vocal Director this year.

He also loves to sing, sometimes independently, or with the Dimensions, a group that plays for Campus parties.

He is a member of the Blue Key, an honor club, and Pi Kappa Alpha, a social fraternity.

He writes now for the Greek Columns, a campus newspaper made up by Fraternity members.

He is majoring in radio-TV.

Twelve Groups Form Council

According to the American Cancer Society, reduction of cigarette smoking offers greater possibilities than any other available public health measure for the prevention of cancer, of serious illness, of physical disability, of suffering, of premature death in this country.

Consequently the Society has joined with eleven other leading health and education organizations to form the National Interagency Council on Smoking and Health. The purpose of the Council is to save lives through education on the risks of cigarette smoking. National programs will be developed to implement for Surgeon General's 1964 report that "cigarette smoking is a health hazard of sufficient importance in the United States to warrant appropriate remedial action."

Teen-age Program

Meanwhile, the member organizations are conducting their own programs to combat cigarette smoking. The American Cancer Society puts strong emphasis on teen-age education, providing materials for school use and encouraging participation in the program by youth, parents and the community. The concept, which has proved effective, is that it is easier to persuade children not to begin smoking than it is to educate adults to stop after they have acquired the habit.

Almost 4,000,000 secondary school pupils were reached with educational materials on the relationships between smoking and health by the American Cancer Society in the past year; and over 300,000 college students received such information.

Senate Passes Bill To Let Government Employees Bargain

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- A bill authorizing local and state government employes to organize and bargain collectively squeaked through the Senate today.

The vote sending it to the House was 18-14, the bare minimum required.

Peace officers, National Guardsmen and all teachers would be exempt. The employes also would be barred from striking.

Sen. Early R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, said the bill was purely permissive but opponents charged it would lead to trouble.

Sen. Thomas G. Woolsey, R-Versailles, said its legislature would forfeit all control over the wages and working conditions of state employes.

Also sent to the House was a bill to increase the height and length of trucks.

The maximum height would be 13 1/2 feet instead of 12 1/2. Single truck lengths would be increased from 35 to 40 feet, tractor trailers from 50 to 55, automobile transports to 60 feet and cominations to 65 feet on designated highways.

Also passed was a bill to extend the same drug and medical care to the blind as old age assistance recipients now get. The cost is estimated at $323,000 a year.

In the first three hours the House gave final approval to 15 bills, sending 10 of them to the governor and five to the Senate.

Only one provoked any argument-a bill to set the second Sunday in July as "Fire Service Day" when firemen could show the public how they do their work and give instructions on fire safety.

Among bills sent to the governor were ones to:

Increase the pay of St. Louis policemen from the chief on down.

Increase from 13 to 15 the number of Jackson County circuit court judges.

The House passed one bill that was sponsored by the late majority floor leader, Rep. H. F. Pat Patterson, D- Boone County.

It would establish a tax study commission to check into the whole tax structure and methods collection.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has expressed his support of such legislation. The bill now goes to the Senate.

Also sent to the Senate was a bill to let voters in fire districts authorize a tax levy of up to 10 cents on $100 assessed valuation.

Economic Opportunity Act Ready For Business

The organization to approve projects under the Community action section of the Economic Opportunity Act is now ready for business, according to Chairman, Victor E. Downing.

The organization has been named the "Southeast Missouri Economic Opportunity Association, Inc." In a meeting at the Health Center in Hayti on Tuesday night, April 6th, fifty (50) persons enrolled as members. The membership fee is $1.00 per year.

Any person who is a legal voter in Pemiscot County or surrounding areas, and who is actively interested in programs to combat poverty or causes of poverty, is eligible for membership.

Projects discussed in the above-mentioned meeting included: "Pre - School Children," "Health Care," and "Homemaking".

Committees were formed in Hayti, Caruthersville, Gobler, Bragg City and Wardell to develop projects for their respective communities.

The Wardell Committee will meet at the Wardell High School on April 19th at 7:30 p.m. to write up projects for "Pre-School Children" and "Homemaking". Bob McGill and W. F. James will assist the committee.

Other committees needing assistance may contact Chairman, Victor Downing at Bragg City; Bob McGill, Community Development Agent at the University of Missouri Delta Center, Portageville; or W. F. James, County Extension Director, Caruthersville.

A list of those present at the Association Meeting is as follows:

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Why is England's famous Stonehenge Monument called "the Riddle of Salisbury Plain"?

A—This monument is a group of huge, rough-cut stones. No one knows exactly who placed them there or when. Some scholars date Stonehenge as early as 1800 B.C.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, April 8, the 98th day of 1965. There 267 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1952, President Harry Truman issued an executive order seizing the steel industry in an effort to avert a nationwide strike. The seizure was ruled illegal by the Supreme Court.

On this date

In 1513, Ponce de Leon took possession of Florida in the name of the king of Spain.

In 1826, Henry Clay and Sen. John Randolph of Virginia fought a duel arising from a debate in Congress; neither was hurt and they later became friends.

In 1895, the Supreme Court declared the income tax law passed in 1894 was unconstitutional; taxes collected were returned.

In 1918, the U.S. Army ordered its first air squadron to duty in World War I.

In 1944, an American aerial armade bombed Brunswick, Germany.

Ten years ago — Edward Corsi was dismissed as expediter of immigration in a dispute over his administration of the McCarran-Walter Act.

Five years ago — Moscow rejected as slanderous a West German note protesting Soviet defamation of West Germany.

One year ago — The body of Gen Douglas MacArthur was taken to the Capitol in Washington after lying in state in New York City.

"In most cases it's better to get undesirable things out in the open, exposed to sunlight. Germs are killed that way, you know." — J. Johnson, The Heavener (Oklahoma) Ledger.

Janie Albertson Wins Grand Champion Honors

COLUMBIA, Mo., Apr. 2 — Grand champion honors of the Carcass Class of the Missouri Steer and Carcass Show went to Miss Janie Albertson, Green City, it was announced this morning during Livestock Day on the University of Missouri campus.

The winning carcass came from a 940-pound Shorthorn steer which placed second in on-foot competition in the County Class here March 20. The Albertson steer represented Sullivan County.

H. B. Hedrick, MU associate professor of animal husbandry, said the champion carcass graded low prime, had a rib eye area of 12.02 square inches, and backfat thickness of 0.6 inch. Dressing percentage was 66.2.

Miss Albertson's entry and 16 others were slaughtered following on-foot judging to determine the carcass winner.

TEXTURED LOOK—In high favor is the all-white costume of richly textured cotton pique. Carved buttons accent the jacket's curved closing and give a panel effect to the skirt. By McClintock of California.

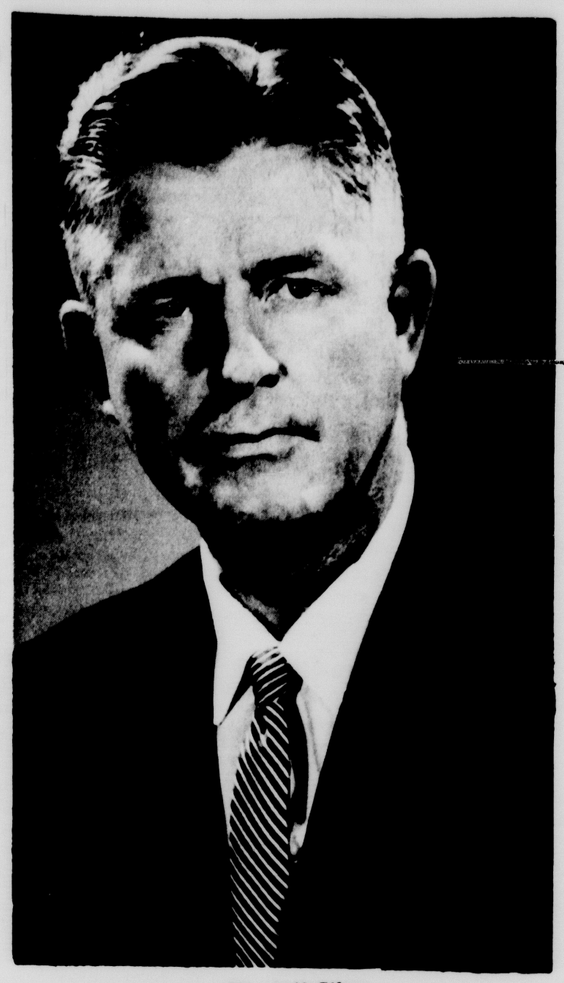
Kendall Sikes Elected Mayor



Kendall Sikes

The City Council officially canvassed and accepted the Poll Books from each ward and precinct yesterday in the last meeting of the old council.

After they had taken care of the acceptance of the official votes for the Councilmen, they adjourned and called to order the first meeting of the new Council for the swearing in of the newly-elected Councilmen, Taylor Noles and Kendall Sikes. After they were sworn in, Mayor Dudley nominated Kendall Sikes for Mayor and it was seconded by Taylor Noles.

Sikes was then nominated for Vice-Mayor by Arthur Ziegenhorn and his nomination was seconded by Kendall Sikes.

Sikes and Noles will hold these offices for one year. In his first few words as Mayor, Sikes said, "I sincerely hope that Mayor Dudley will maintain a City office, being that he has done so much for the good of the city during his term at the helm."

After the re-organization had taken place, an Ordinance was put before the Council by City Attorney, Manuel Drumm.

The Ordinance was adopted unanimously so that Councilmen, in the event that the Mayor and Vice-Mayor are not available, they can co-sign any checks with the City Clerk, John Vaughn.

They completed their Board Appointments by naming Harold Jones and Loman Garner to the Airport Advisory Board. Bill Paylor, Ernest Wilson, and Geneva Beck were appointed to the Park Board. And Loomis Mayfield and Fielding Potashnick were named to the Traffic Committee.

The Council then picked three men to be submitted to the County Court for the Scott County Special Road District, Edward C. Matthews, G. B. Greer III, and Carl Wilkinson. One of these will be selected by the County Court to replace the Joe Matthews vacancy, left open by his death.

The Council will meet, although not formally, next Thursday at a luncheon to discuss the budget for the upcoming Fiscal Year, beginning May 1, 1965.

Rep. Baker Denunciates Speaker Thomas Graham

JEFFERSON, CITY, MO. AP --Representative Tom Baker (Dem.), Stoddard County, accused Representative Thomas D. Graham Wednesday of "making a mockery of our Democratic processes" in his job as Speaker of the Missouri House.

The Southeast Missouri legislator also charged that Representative Graham was "attempting to take the Missouri House down the cow path to an election-at-large for all House members which will very likely result in the entire membership of a newly organized House of Representatives being elected from the large cities of Missouri."

NEW FLOOR LEADER

Representative Baker released his statement to the press three hours before House Democrats met and elected Representative Mel Carnahan (Dem.), Phelps County, as the new majority floor leader, a post vacant since Representative H. F. Patterson died March 30.

Representative Baker said he had been encouraged to run for floor leader but would not "principally because I am not in accord with the present House leadership."

"In fact, it is well known that I am violently opposed to many of the practices, policies and customs adopted and placed into operation by the present House Speaker.

"Conditions have now reached the point in the House of the Missouri Legislature that I can no longer remain silent on matters that are intolerable and which are making a legislative mockery of our Democratic processes.

"Our House leadership is making a great cry about a governor succeeding himself the first term while this same legislator is now serving his third term as Speaker of the House.

"I specifically urge that the Missouri House create a rule whereby any member will automatically vacate the office of Speaker after two terms of the Legislature, a practice that is now followed with respect to the president pro tem of the Missouri Senate.

"Unlimited terms for House Speaker have resulted in a situation with respect to committees that is made to order for the Speaker and the lobbyists who are vitally interested in the proceedings of the lower body.

"We will always have a situation that works to the advantage of special money interests but a Speaker can create 'kill' and 'pass' committees that he can refer legislative bills to, all the while regarding this as a prerequisite of the private domain of his specially privileged office."

Rep. Baker said he was proud to report that "not a single one of the most active lobbyists, working the state capitol has encouraged me to run" for floor leader.

RAPS 'MISMANAGEMENT'

He said the "present reapportionment stalemate decreed by the Speaker" was an example of "the mismanagement of the Missouri House."

By delaying House action on the reapportioning ordered by a federal court, the Speaker is "courting legislative chaos," by his "obstinate opposal to reapportionment." The Speaker's actions could lead to an at-large election, Representative Baker declared.

He suggested that the House should create a committee on committees to take over the job of assigning bills--traditionally the Speaker's responsibility.

"It is now time for all of the people of Missouri to begin to ask their own State Representatives if they support the present House leadership," Representative Baker concluded.

"These policies and those responsible for them are definitely going to become an issue in Missouri politics. As for me, I definitely and publicly wish to disavow myself from even the slightest political association with either."

House Goes On Vacation

The House of Representatives will go on vacation tomorrow until April 26th.

David Rolwing, Representative from Mississippi County, has announced that he will be unavailable from our area from April 19th to April 26, while going to New York as a member of Missouri Worlds Fair Commissioner Delegation.

Danny Lopp

Danny Lopp To Make Pilgrimage

Danny Lopp, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lopp, a sophomore at Sikeston High School, has been selected to make the annual Sophomore Pilgrimage to Jefferson City sponsored by the Sikeston Woman's Club.

Students for the Pilgrimage are selected from the upper quarter of their class scholastically, based on exemplification of highest standards of honor, courage, citizenship, scholarship, leadership and service.

The annual Pilgrimage will include a tour of the Capitol and a luncheon with state officials and Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes, wife of Missouri's governor.

Concert To Be Given Sunday

The Palm Sunday Concert, presented by the Sikeston Senior High School Concert Choir, will be given Sunday afternoon, April 11, in the Middle School Auditorium. The concert will begin promptly at 3 o'clock. The Concert Choir is directed by Gordon Beaver, and ably accompanied by Judy Matthews, and Marcia Mulcahy.

Because of the religious significance of the season, the Concert Choir will present two groups of sacred choral music. Sacred choral music from all periods will be represented by the Concert Choir; including "Hallelujah" from "The Mount of Olives" by Beethoven.

The third group of music that will be sung will be devoted to lighter selections of choral arrangements. Instrumental and percussion accompaniment will be provided for some of the music. Larry Bond and Russ Felker will play guitars, George Gilmore will play the banjo, and Stanley Jones will accompany with the double-bass.

Special attractions for Sunday's Concert will be the vocal ensembles from The Sikeston Senior High School Choral Department. The Girls' Trio, The Girls' Sextet, and The Mixed Quartet will sing music in the tradition of the Easter Season. These three groups of fine musicians recently received ratings of I in the District Music Festival held at Southeast Missouri State College.

Many solos will be sung with the Concert Choir during the course of the concert. Soloists appearing in this year's concert will be: Jeannie Winters, Lynda Smith, Lana Dacus, Malcolm Lee, Mark Henry, Jim Dozier, Jim Caskey, Ann Bess, and Connie Woods.

The Concert will begin promptly at 3 o'clock in The Middle School Auditorium. There will be no reserved seating and everyone is invited to attend this concert.

One Accident In City

One accident was reported in the city yesterday.

Car number one, driven by Donna Springer, 416 Clayton, was stopped on Murray Lane, starting to turn off on New Madrid St. Car Number two, driven by Walter Sisco, 711 E. Gladys, hit car number one in rear. Accident occurred at 6:45 p.m. No arrest was made.

Overweight Trucks Dominate New Madrid Court Docket

NEW MADRID: Once again overweight-on-scales violations by truckers dominated the docket of the New Madrid County Magistrate Court as only one felony charge was heard this week by Magistrate Erie Wright of Portageville.

George Barber, charged with possession of stolen property, waived his preliminary hearing before Judge Wright and was bound over for trial in the Circuit Court with his bond set at $1000.

Of the twelve truckers fined for excess poundage, three paid fines amounting to as much as $100. Jones Truck line paid the greatest amount, $215 for an overage of 215 pounds. General Dynamic Corporation paid $130 for an excess of 1850 pounds, and Black Creek Charcoal was assessed $100 for 1550 pounds overage.

Charges of disturbing the peace brought fines to two this week. H. W. Harris paid $25 for this offense, and Joe Johnson paid $21.

Careless and imprudent driving and improper operator's license charges brought a fine of $30 to Johnnie Phipps. Eulah Lee Folwer paid $16 for driving as an unlicensed operator and for improper registration of a motor vehicle. Another multiple-count charge, careless and reckless driving and driving with borrowed license, brought a $36 fine to Willie Heath.

Other violations were as follows: no operator's license — Earnest Lockhart and Carl Holland, $15 each; careless and reckless driving — William J. Logt, $35; no PSC sticker — Viking Freight Company, $15; careless and imprudent driving — Sherman Douglas Zilafro, $35, John Rivers, $15, Robert Travis Branam, $25; defective brakes — Humke Company, $15, Ed Wilson Lindley, $11; excess speed — Durwin Leroy Gjitley, $15; improper registration of a motor vehicle — Francis A. Haney and Thomas Brooke, $15 each; no PSC authority — Fred Kronke, $35; vehicle overlength — Fred Kronke, United Food, Inc., Alexander Manufacturing Company, Pace Corporation, National Rose Company, and Umthum Trucking Company, $15 each.

Twitty Speaks To Lion's Club

Lynn Twitty Speaking before the Lions Club

In an address to the Lions Club Wednesday noon, Supt. Lynn Twitty spoke on the new trade skills program now underway in this area, in comparison of a junior college for this area.

Twitty said, "two years ago the legislature set up districts over the state where certain areas could set up a Junior College district, if they chose to do so, and in one instance in Southeast Missouri made an effort to have a branch of the State College at Cape Girardeau.

"It is my personal opinion that a junior college is not the only answer to the problem, because records prove that between 40 and 60 per cent of the young men and women would not go on to college, while those who desire to go on can and should go on to college.

"Let us not forget that most of the four million unemployed are due to the fact that they have no skills, and almost 50 per cent of the youth are in this category. There is no substitute for willingness to work, and the youth work program, between the ages of 16 and 21 years is so designed to help this group find their best skills, and at the same time carry their regular school subjects.

"It is the intention of the program that a trainee become a taxpayer instead of a tax consumer. In the training schools the students will have skilled consultants in all phases of training. Let me remind you that this training is received with the best equipment which is very expensive, and therefore requires small classes. One-half of the expenses are received from the federal government.

"The new name given to the school to be completed in Sikeston is known as Southeast Missouri Trade Technical Institute, and within the next two years will have several students enrolled from all over the district, as well as many adults. At present there are over 300 adults enrolled. Our past program has been so successful that 98 per cent of them have been employed in full time work.

"This should be our answer to a junior college in this area. It is those students left behind that we are concerned with, and will give them an opportunity to raise their skills to make them a contribution to our society. There are plenty of jobs for the skilled, but none for the unskilled.

"We are now working on a factory who wants to build a building to train workers for their company for future occupations. A program that is now underway deals with both the youth, and the adults, and designed to give both new skills for a well paying job in the future world of automation."

Program chairman, W. U. Myers presented the speaker, with Capt. H. S. Matthews as a guest, and Bryce Fisher was presented as a new member. The nominating committee presented a slate of new officers.

The new are as follows: Ken Smitten (President), Bob Scott, (First Vice - President), Bill Hunt (Second Vice - President), Fred Danner (Third Vice-President), Herschel Tyer, (Secretary - Treasurer), Henry Bussey, (Tail Twister), Duke Rudd (Assistant Twister), Jack Hogan (Den Keeper), Lee Bowman, (Director), Raymond Crews (Director), Clem Beal (Ex Officio Board Member), Charles Mitchell (Ex Officio Board Member), Ed Matthews (Board Member), and George Hale Jr. (Board Member).

Carnahan New Floor Leader

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Rep. Mel Carnahan, D-Phelps County, will serve as majority floor leader in the House for the rest of the session.

He was chosen at a split Democratic caucus Wednesday to succeed the late Rep. H. F. Pat Patterson, D-Boone County, who died in the Capitol last week.

Carnahan was Speaker Thomas D. Graham's choice. He won over two other candidates, Reps. Richard Southern, D-Monroe County, and Earl Bollinger, D-Madison County.

The vote in the closed door caucus was reported as Carnahan 61, Southern 41, Bollinger 18.

Then the feuding Democrats closed ranks long enough to make it unanimous by acclamation for Carnahan.

Bollinger was chosen to succeed Carnahan as assistant floor leader.

The caucus lasted about two hours and at one point it looked as if fisticuffs might erupt.

A plan to reapportion the House by increasing the membership from 163 to 200 was described Wednesday night as the least painful method of doing the job.

Rep. Morran D. Harris, D-St. Clair County, said that would give rural counties only 15 fewer members than they have now but would comply with a federal court order to redistrict according to population.

The committee, which is hearing several proposals, took no action.

The Senate Education committee also deferred action on a bill to let junior college districts increase their levy from 10 to 20 cents on $100 assessed valuation without a vote of the people.

Stoddard County Begins Steps For For Health Plan

BLOOMFIELD -- Initial steps were taken here Tuesday night by Stoddard County residents to get up a countywide health program to be financed largely by federal funds under the Economic Opportunity Act.

About 50 county residents met with federal and state officials and members of the recently-organized Stoddard County Improvement Association to consider the proposal. James DeLay, Bell City, heads the association, a not-for-profit organization set up to initiate and plan improvement programs for the county.

Outlining a suggested health plan was Dr. James Tice, from the Office of Economic Opportunity in Jefferson City. Under the act Dr. Tice emphasized, the county residents determine what is most needed in establishing the program would include health education.

Discussing the proposed health program along with Dr. Tice were Dr. E. A. Fullgrabe, Jefferson City, State Department of Health, Wayne Thomas, Columbia, University of Missouri extension agent and Larry Baker, Poplar Bluff, representative of the state's district health office.

The components of the health program would include health education, preventive medicine, medical facilities, day - care services, training in medical services, in - home nursing care and the actual county organization to implement the program.

The problem of the potential health hazard created by the roosting of millions of birds in the county during the winter is included under the preventive medicine part of the program. Dexter Mayor Melvin Gainer outlined the proposed plans to eliminate the danger of histoplasmosis, the disease present in the bird droppings and soil of some roosting areas.

The mayor noted that plans call for skin tests to be given Monday to more than 2,500 Dexter children and adults to determine the extent of the disease there.

Financing of the health program would be on the basis of 90 per cent from federal funds and 10 per cent from the county. The county's share can be in kind, such as providing services or facilities rather than money.

Applications for funds from the federal program were prepared Tuesday and in the initial steps to begin the program were recommended to the Board of Directors of the improvement association.

Dr. Tice noted that the Stoddard County project could become a demonstration program for other counties in the state where health facilities are at a minimum.

Water Problem To Be Viewed By Government

GARDNER, Kan. (AP)—Mayor Howard L. Lawrence warned the federal government yesterday it will have to help Gardner solve its water problem or the Navy will have to get its pipe out of Gardner's lake.

He told it to President Johnson, to Gov. William H. Avery, the two Kansas senators in Washington and Rep. Robert Ellsworth, congressman for the Kansas suburban area lying southwest of Kansas City.

"It appears by the current presidential budget to be more important to dredge the Kaw river to allow barges to haul coeds from Kansas City to Lawrence than to provide planning money to relieve a fast-diminishing water supply," he said in his letter to all of them.

Gardner is a town of 1,847. Under an agreement negotiated on March 10, 1942, in the frantic effort to expand the nation's military strength, Gardner has been supplying an average of 104 million gallons of water a year to the nearby Olathe Naval Air Station — for $1 a year. Gardner itself uses 42 million gallons a year and householders pay $1.25 for each 100 gallons. The Navy treats the water it uses.

The mayor said the city has had to turn down prospective water customers on its fringes, has had to discourage home builders and cannot attract new industry because it has run out of capacity. One dry year and it would be perilously short.

"Our first obligation is to furnish a water supply to our citizens," the mayor said.

The naval air station's only water supply comes through its pipes into Gardner's reservoir.

"If we were in Hong Kong or some place and the Chinese reds threatened to cut off my water supply, I could understand it. I can't understand something like this happening in the middle of the United States."

Congress in 1954 authorized a $14 million dam and reservoir project just south of Gardner which would provide more water for it and nearby communities.

No money has been appropriated to get it started.

"The solution," Mayor Lawrence wrote, "has been discussed with the Army Corps of Engineers, the Kansas State Board of Water Resources, the Bureau of Reclamation, the Bureau of the Budget, senators, [illegible] the governor.

Two Sikeston Students Win At Science Fair

There were some eye catching exhibitions at this years Southeast Missouri Regional Science Fair, being held at Cape Girardeau.

Some of the plants had been nurtured along by the tunes of rock 'n' roll songs, and they show that they grow faster than plants that listen to jazz and symphonies.

If you don't like that one, you can look around and find a project showing which hair spray will hold the best.

There's even one to show you about dieting.

These are only a few of the many exhibits of junior and senior high school pupils that over 750 persons saw at the opening.

It was after five o'clock before all the projects had been judged.

Two students from Sikeston won first places in the Senior Division, Allen Long, and Ronald Summers. Allen's was in the Earth and Space Science Department and Ronald's was in the Mathematics Department.

Kenneth Henry took second in the Senior Division in the Chemistry Department.

Allen and Ronald, being first place winners, won scholarships.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. AP -- A young nurse walked into the Memphis office of the Internal Revenue Service Taxpayer Assistance Service.

"Can I take off my uniform?" she asked the agent.

After a moment's hesitation and consideration, he replied: "Lady, if your question is 'can nurses' uniforms be deducted from your tax obligation,' the answer is 'yes' ".

Rocket Engine Being Frustrated By Static

LOS ANGELES AP -- Scientists attempting to assess the performance of a tiny electric rocket engine orbited Saturday from Vandenberg Air Force Base are being frustrated by static in telemetry transmissions.

Called an ion engine, the 2.2-pound space vehicle is powered by a small nuclear reactor.

The ion engine represents an advanced propulsion concept that could operate continuously in deep space flight to provide accelerations up to 10,000 m.p.h. technicians say.

Air Force spokesmen said Wednesday that the engine went through a warmup sequence on command Sunday but that subsequent static in the telemetry system has made analysis of its performance impossible.

Water Problem To Be Viewed By Government

GARDNER, Kan. (AP)—Mayor Howard L. Lawrence warned the federal government yesterday it will have to help Gardner solve its water problem or the Navy will have to get its pipe out of Gardner's lake.

The mayor said the city has had to turn down prospective water customers on its fringes, has had to discourage home builders and cannot attract new industry because it has run out of capacity. One dry year and it would be perilously short.

"Our first obligation is to furnish a water supply to our citizens," the mayor said.

The naval air station's only water supply comes through its pipes into Gardner's reservoir.

"If we were in Hong Kong or some place and the Chinese reds threatened to cut off my water supply, I could understand it. I can't understand something like this happening in the middle of the United States."

Congress in 1954 authorized a $14 million dam and reservoir project just south of Gardner which would provide more water for it and nearby communities.

No money has been appropriated to get it started.

"The solution," Mayor Lawrence wrote, "has been discussed with the Army Corps of Engineers, the Kansas State Board of Water Resources, the Bureau of Reclamation, the Bureau of the Budget, senators, [illegible] the governor.

Kendall Sikes Elected Mayor

Kendall Sikes

The City Council officially canvassed and accepted the Poll Books from each ward and precinct yesterday in the last meeting of the old council.

After they had taken care of the acceptance of the official votes for the Councilmen, they adjourned and called to order the first meeting of the new Council for the swearing in of the newly-elected Councilmen, Taylor Noles and Kendall Sikes. After they were sworn in, Mayor Dudley nominated Kendall Sikes for Mayor and it was seconded by Taylor Noles.

Sikes was then nominated for Vice-Mayor by Arthur Ziegenhorn and his nomination was seconded by Kendall Sikes.

Sikes and Noles will hold these offices for one year. In his first few words as Mayor, Sikes said, "I sincerely hope that Mayor Dudley will maintain a City office, being that he has done so much for the good of the city during his term at the helm."

After the re-organization had taken place, an Ordinance was put before the Council by City Attorney, Manuel Drumm.

The Ordinance was adopted unanimously so that Councilmen, in the event that the Mayor and Vice-Mayor are not available, they can co-sign any checks with the City Clerk, John Vaughn.

They completed their Board Appointments by naming Harold Jones and Loman Garner to the Airport Advisory Board. Bill Paylor, Ernest Wilson, and Geneva Beck were appointed to the Park Board. And Loomis Mayfield and Fielding Potashnick were named to the Traffic Committee.

The Council then picked three men to be submitted to the County Court for the Scott County Special Road District, Edward C. Matthews, G. B. Greer III, and Carl Wilkinson. One of these will be selected by the County Court to replace the Joe Matthews vacancy, left open by his death.

The Council will meet, although not formally, next Thursday at a luncheon to discuss the budget for the upcoming Fiscal Year, beginning May 1, 1965.

House Goes On Vacation

The House of Representatives will go on vacation tomorrow until April 26th.

David Rolwing, Representative from Mississippi County, has announced that he will be unavailable from our area from April 19th to April 26, while going to New York as a member of Missouri Worlds Fair Commissioner Delegation.

Danny Lopp

Danny Lopp To Make Pilgrimage

Danny Lopp, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lopp, a sophomore at Sikeston High School, has been selected to make the annual Sophomore Pilgrimage to Jefferson City sponsored by the Sikeston Woman's Club.

Students for the Pilgrimage are selected from the upper quarter of their class scholastically, based on exemplification of highest standards of honor, courage, citizenship, scholarship, leadership and service.

The annual Pilgrimage will include a tour of the Capitol and a luncheon with state officials and Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes, wife of Missouri's governor.

Concert To Be Given Sunday

The Palm Sunday Concert, presented by the Sikeston Senior High School Concert Choir, will be given Sunday afternoon, April 11, in the Middle School Auditorium. The concert will begin promptly at 3 o'clock. The Concert Choir is directed by Gordon Beaver, and ably accompanied by Judy Matthews, and Marcia Mulcahy.

Because of the religious significiance of the season, the Concert Choir will present two groups of sacred choral music. Sacred choral music from all periods will be represented by the Concert Choir; including "Hallelujah" from "The Mount of Olives" by Beethoven.

The third group of music that will be sung will be devoted to lighter selections of choral arrangements. Instrumental and percussion accompaniment will be provided for some of the music. Larry Bond and Russ Felker will play guitars, George Gilmore will play the banjo, and Stanley Jones will accompany with the double-bass.

Special attractions for Sunday's Concert will be the vocal ensembles from The Sikeston Senior High School Choral Department. The Girls' Trio, The Girls' Sextet, and The Mixed Quartet will sing music in the tradition of the Easter Season. These three groups of fine musicians recently received ratings of I in the District Music Festival held at Southeast Missouri State College.

Many solos will be sung with the Concert Choir during the course of the concert. Soloists appearing in this year's concert will be: Jeannie Winters, Lynda Smith, Lana Dacus, Malcolm Lee, Mark Henry, Jim Dozier, Jim Caskey, Ann Bess, and Connie Woods.

The Concert will begin promptly at 3 o'clock in The Middle School Auditorium. There will be no reserved seating and everyone is invited to attend this concert.

One Accident In City

One accident was reported in the city yesterday.

Car number one, driven by Donna Springer, 416 Clayton, was stopped on Murray Lane, starting to turn off on New Madrid St. Car Number two, driven by Walter Sisco, 711 E. Gladys, hit car number one in rear. Accident occurred at 6:45 p.m. No arrest was made.

Overweight Trucks Dominate New Madrid Court Docket

NEW MADRID: Once again overweight-on-scales violations by truckers dominated the docket of the New Madrid County Magistrate Court as only one felony charge was heard this week by Magistrate Erie Wright of Portageville.

George Barber, charged with possession of stolen property, waived his preliminary hearing before Judge Wright and was bound over for trial in the Circuit Court with his bond set at $1000.

Of the twelve truckers fined for excess poundage, three paid fines amounting to as much as $100. Jones Truck line paid the greatest amount, $215 for an overage of 215 pounds. General Dynamic Corporation paid $130 for an excess of 1850 pounds, and Black Creek Charcoal was assessed $100 for 1550 pounds overage.

Charges of disturbing the peace brought fines to two this week. H. W. Harris paid $25 for this offense, and Joe Johnson paid $21.

Careless and imprudent driving and improper operator's license charges brought a fine of $30 to Johnnie Phipps. Eulah Lee Folwer paid $16 for driving as an unlicensed operator and for improper registration of a motor vehicle. Another multiple-count charge, careless and reckless driving and driving with borrowed license, brought a $36 fine to Willie Heath.

Other violations were as follows: no operator's license — Earnest Lockhart and Carl Holland, $15 each; careless and reckless driving — William J. Logt, $35; no PSC sticker — Viking Freight Company, $15; careless and imprudent driving — Sherman Douglas Zilafro, $35, John Rivers, $15, Robert Travis Branam, $25; defective brakes — Humke Company, $15, Ed Wilson Lindley, $11; excess speed — Durwin Leroy Gjitley, $15; improper registration of a motor vehicle — Francis A. Haney and Thomas Brooke, $15 each; no PSC authority — Fred Kronke, $35; vehicle overlength — Fred Kronke, United Food, Inc., Alexander Manufacturing Company, Pace Corporation, National Rose Company, and Umthum Trucking Company, $15 each.

Twitty Speaks To Lion's Club

Lynn Twitty Speaking before the Lions Club

In an address to the Lions Club Wednesday noon, Supt. Lynn Twitty spoke on the new trade skills program now underway in this area, in comparison of a junior college for this area.

Twitty said, "two years ago the legislature set up districts over the state where certain areas could set up a Junior College district, if they chose to do so, and in one instance in Southeast Missouri made an effort to have a branch of the State College at Cape Girardeau.

"It is my personal opinion that a junior college is not the only answer to the problem, because records prove that between 40 and 60 per cent of the young men and women would not go on to college, while those who desire to go on can and should go on to college.

"Let us not forget that most of the four million unemployed are due to the fact that they have no skills, and almost 50 per cent of the youth are in this category. There is no substitute for willingness to work, and the youth work program, between the ages of 16 and 21 years is so designed to help this group find their best skills, and at the same time carry their regular school subjects.

"It is the intention of the program that a trainee become a taxpayer instead of a tax consumer. In the training schools the students will have skilled consultants in all phases of training. Let me remind you that this training is received with the best equipment which is very expensive, and therefore requires small classes. One-half of the expenses are received from the federal government.

"The new name given to the school to be completed in Sikeston is known as Southeast Missouri Trade Technical Institute, and within the next two years will have several students enrolled from all over the district, as well as many adults. At present there are over 300 adults enrolled. Our past program has been so successful that 98 per cent of them have been employed in full time work.

"This should be our answer to a junior college in this area. It is those students left behind that we are concerned with, and will give them an opportunity to raise their skills to make them a contribution to our society. There are plenty of jobs for the skilled, but none for the unskilled.

"We are now working on a factory who wants to build a building to train workers for their company for future occupations. A program that is now underway deals with both the youth, and the adults, and designed to give both new skills for a well paying job in the future world of automation."

Program chairman, W. U. Myers presented the speaker, with Capt. H. S. Matthews as a guest, and Bryce Fisher was presented as a new member. The nominating committee presented a slate of new officers.

The new are as follows: Ken Smitten (President), Bob Scott, (First Vice - President), Bill Hunt (Second Vice - President), Fred Danner (Third Vice-President), Herschel Tyer, (Secretary - Treasurer), Henry Bussey, (Tail Twister), Duke Rudd (Assistant Twister), Jack Hogan (Den Keeper), Lee Bowman, (Director), Raymond Crews (Director), Clem Beal (Ex Officio Board Member), Charles Mitchell (Ex Officio Board Member), Ed Matthews (Board Member), and George Hale Jr. (Board Member).

Two Sikeston Students Win At Science Fair

There were some eye catching exhibitions at this years Southeast Missouri Regional Science Fair, being held at Cape Girardeau.

Some of the plants had been nurtured along by the tunes of rock 'n' roll songs, and they show that they grow faster than plants that listen to jazz and symphonies.

If you don't like that one, you can look around and find a project showing which hair spray will hold the best.

There's even one to show you about dieting.

These are only a few of the many exhibits of junior and senior high school pupils that over 750 persons saw at the opening.

It was after five o'clock before all the projects had been judged.

Two students from Sikeston won first places in the Senior Division, Allen Long, and Ronald Summers. Allen's was in the Earth and Space Science Department and Ronald's was in the Mathematics Department.

Kenneth Henry took second in the Senior Division in the Chemistry Department.

Allen and Ronald, being first place winners, won scholarships.

There are four pecks to a bushel in the U. S. dry measure.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. AP -- A young nurse walked into the Memphis office of the Internal Revenue Service Taxpayer Assistance Service.

"Can I take off my uniform?" she asked the agent.

After a moment's hesitation and consideration, he replied: "Lady, if your question is 'can nurses' uniforms be deducted from your tax obligation,' the answer is 'yes' ".

Rocket Engine Being Frustrated By Static

LOS ANGELES AP -- Scientists attempting to assess the performance of a tiny electric rocket engine orbited Saturday from Vandenberg Air Force Base are being frustrated by static in telemetry transmissions.

Called an ion engine, the 2.2-pound space vehicle is powered by a small nuclear reactor.

The ion engine represents an advanced propulsion concept that could operate continuously in deep space flight to provide accelerations up to 10,000 m.p.h. technicians say.

Air Force spokesmen said Wednesday that the engine went through a warmup sequence on command Sunday but that subsequent static in the telemetry system has made analysis of its performance impossible.

It was Robert Browning who exclaimed, "Oh, to be in England now that April's there," but the words might well be echoed especially this April marking the 401st anniversary of his birth.

What would the Bard think of the much ado being made over him, not only in England but around the world, as schools and colleges and dramatic groups perform his plays in greater profusion than ever before?

No doubt he would be impressed to hear his words bounced trippingly off a circling satellite -- though it was his Puck who said, "I'll put a girdle round the earth in forty minutes."

No doubt it would amaze him to learn that in the barbarous wilderness of America a magic box will carry the voice and face of the eminent Dr. Frank Baxter in 26 half-hour broadcasts devoted to him, and that one electronic performance of a play will reach millions more than all the groundlings who ever cheered a Hal or hissed an Iago at ye Globe Theatre.

He would be no less astonished at the many volumes written by generations of pundits to prove he did not write his plays at all. One suspects, however, that Will's sympathies would be with "the whining schoolboy, with his satchel and shining morning face, creeping like a snail unwillingly to school" to struggle, as countless others have before him, over Shakespeare.

As every schoolboy knows, English literature means Shakespeare. It is often overlooked, though, as writer John Greenway has pointed out, that the England of Elizabeth I, with a population half the size of metropolitan New York, most of it illiterate, produced half a dozen playwrights of the same class as Shakespeare.

But this is Shakespeare's year, and it may surprise many to learn he was not always held in such esteem. The prudish 19th century did not think him quite nice.

It was not until the latter part of the century that he was appreciated again for what he was -- a poetic genius, an amazing man of an amazing time.

We like to think that Shakespeare would be pleased to learn that we of the 20th century are perhaps spiritually closer to him than even his contemporaries were and that to us, as it was to him, "the play's the thing."

PRESS HAS PUNCH

The newspaper has a punch, it has circulation, it strikes home, it is something everyone reads. Newspaper advertising is a wise investment.

These thoughts have been expressed by many men who are in a position to know whereof they speak.

Newspaper advertising is rated by many the highest of all conventional advertising media.

Newspaper advertising brings to the consumer the item you want to sell, the one you feel you can brag about.

Some years ago, a general manager of a large New York department store in commenting on advertising media was talking about the good points and limitations of other media. He wound up by saying he found other media more limited in their effect in comparison to cost, than the newspapers.

Drivers sometimes overlook the second major reason for having headlights -- not to use for seeing, but so you can be seen by other drivers.

Illinois is the latest of several states to pass a law requiring the use of headlights at dusk, or sunset, instead of parking lights so that cars can be seen more easily and more surely once dusk comes.

Drivers have long used a system of starting with parking lights and then switching over to full headlights later, saving the headlights until it was almost completely dark. Why? Some drivers probably thought it was more economical to use the parking lights as long as possible; some probably didn't consider the problems of being seen, rather than of seeing.

These new laws lead us to consider the possibility of headlights being used full - time whenever the car is in operation. In many areas, headlights are kept on during the daytime on holiday week-ends as a safety measure. If this works on holidays, why not on weekdays? Even in full sunlight, a car is more easily seen if the headlights are on.

It may be because of this that some cars are being equipped with experimental running lights. Maybe you've seen some of the cars with a little, bright light mounted in the center of the grille? These lights are being used during day or night hours. Some safety experts like this idea, some don't, so it'll be a while before the running light idea is accepted or rejected.

In concluding this piece on using headlights, here's a safety tip that's used by truck drivers. If you're driving on a two - lane highway with a heavy stream of cars coming from the other direction, turn your headlights on -- or flash them -- if oncoming car stays in your lane too long while passing. Flashing lights can be seen for a long distance by an oncoming car, even though a horn won't be heard or noticed.

NEW YORK AP -- It is a tremulous moment when a young actress stands on the threshold of stardom.

Standing there now is Rosemary Forsyth, who is 21, freckled, doesn't wear lipstick or rouge, and looks like a tall blonde goddess.

Will Hollywood open its golden door wide for her? Universal Studio is so convinced Miss Forsyth has star quality that it has signed her to a seven-year contract and given her a year of dramatic training.

"I don't feel like a star, because I'm not one yet," said Rosemary practically. "I don't know whether I'll ever be one. I've never really thought of being a star -- just a good actress."

But after seeing the rough shots of Miss Forsyth in her first motion picture role, producer Walter Seltzer immediately gave her star billing with Charlton Heston in another forthcoming film.

"She has a wonderful face -- a little like Ingrid Bergman, and yet different, too," he said.

Rosemary also looks a little like Grace Kelly, Lee Remick and has something of the tomboy quality of the late Carole Lombard. But because of her quick success she is most often being compared with that old film circle favorite - Cinderella.

"I know some girls work 15 years and never get a break such as I've had," remarked Rosemary, "and I'm grateful for it. But I don't feel much like Cinderella."

Sturdily independent, she has earned her own way since she was 18. Born in Montreal and educated at Stockbridge, Mass., she worked as a camp counselor and file clerk before becoming a $45-an-hour fashion and television model.

"I never had much of a struggle," she said. "I have lived in some crummy apartments, but I never missed a meal in my life.

"I got an invitation to make a film test after a studio executive saw my picture in Show magazine. I hated fashion modeling, just standing still and trying to look cool and perfect. I'd rather model a potato peeler. At least then you're doing something real. When you peel a potato, you're relating to something."

Rosemary is 5 feet 9, lithely built, has long tresses and the kind of cheekbones that send cameramen into ecstasties.

Here is the kind of girl she feels she is:

"I'm outspoken, sometimes hypersensitive, terribly romantic. When I walk down the street I'm always dreaming I'll catch some strange man's eye, fall in love with him instantly, then marry him and live with him for 75 years in a big old house and have 17 children.

"But I'm a realist, too. There's always a bit of logic in my head that says, 'That's enough now. Cut out the day dreaming.'

"I don't use makeup because it bores me to stand in front of a mirror painting my face. I guess I'm just an ordinary upper middle-class young lady, which sounds dreadfully boring, too, but I don't find it so."

Prepare for the Worst

How are things in Timisoara? Well, to begin with, that happens to be in Romania and doesn't rhyme with the town in the well-known song, anyway. But to find out what's going on there or anywhere else behind the Iron Curtain, one of the best sources is Radio Free Europe.

RFE not only beams news from the West into the East and listens to broadcasts from the Soviets and satellites, but monitors their publications as well.

Not all of the information gleaned is weighty; not all of it fits readily into a picture of life behind the Curtain, but all of it is interesting and occasionally amusing.

An instance is a recent poll of high school students conducted by a Romanian newspaper which came to the attention of RFE researchers in Munich. The paper was "shocked" at some of the following revelations:

Sixty-eight per cent of the students reported that they take only one bath a week (Saturday).

Many of the youngsters don't go to bed until after midnight.

Asked the type of work they would prefer to do, only 20 per cent of them said, "Useful to society."

Asked what they consider the most important things in life, 42 per cent replied, "To have friends," 20 per cent said, "To have very good qualifications"; only 19 per cent said, "To work for the good of mankind."

On dances, out of 100 students 60 knew the Twist, 48 the Madison, 42 the waltz and tango and 15 the cha-cha-cha. Only two students knew any Romanian folk dances.

The newspaper rounded out the sorry record by noting that at one morning performance at the Bucuresti movie theater there were nearly 300 schoolboys. The film was "The Seven Year Itch" with Marilyn Monroe.

The same day at the nearby Museum of Arts of the Romanian People's Republic there were, alas, but two schoolboys.

One of the instructors asked the chemistry professor how it was possible that he passed chemistry. The chemistry professor said: "I decided that I would let him pass if he answered 50 per cent of the questions correctly.

"I asked him two questions -- one he answered wrong, one he answered right. Therefore, I let him pass.

"The first question was: 'What color is blue vitriol?' He answered, 'Pink,' That time he was wrong.

"The other question was: 'How do you make sulphuric acid?' He answered that he didn't know. That time he was right."

So far the nation's independent business proprietors have taken no vote on the current moves to curtail U. S. foreign investments as a means of offsetting the dollar situation. But in some scattered areas there is concern expressed that this may result in further concentration of the domestic economy through mergers and acquisitions unless there is also more vigorous enforcement of the antitrust laws.

This sentiment is apparently generated by the belief that the corporations who have been investing heavily abroad are using idle speculative capital in their treasuries. The question then becomes one of how long these huge complexes can keep this type of surplus idle, and in lieu of being used abroad, will it be turned inward on the domestic economy in order to acquire more American holdings, to result in further concentrations.

It is also felt significant that in investing abroad, there have been strong tendencies for the American corporations to acquire control, or a substantial working interest, in already established foreign corporations instead of setting up new ones.

Use of these surplus funds in the United States in a similar manner would be a severe blow to freedom of enterprise. To prevent this, it will require new efforts on the part of the officials charged with enforcing antitrust laws.

In the early 1830's, a young fellow in Illinois was a partner in a grocery business that failed. There was no such thing as a small business loan or any other federal subsidy in those days, and perhaps this is the reason that he turned to politics.

In 1832, he was defeated in a race for the legislature; but he ran again in 1834 and won.

Political advancement seemed beyond his reach when he was defeated in a bid for Congress in 1843. He tried again in 1847 and was elected.

He lost popularity and did not return for a second congressional term. In disgust, he retired from politics and entered private law practice.

In 1855, his concern for mounting problems of the nation caused him to seek a Senate seat. He failed again.

MOSCOW — Flying from New York to Moscow you realize how close the world's two most powerful nations are to each other and how important it is for them to keep their peace machinery well lubricated.

The pretty Air India hostess in silk sarong has hardly finished serving luncheon coffee and liqueurs after leaving London before you are over the snow-rimmed airport of Moscow.

Air India, incidentally, has beat Pan American and other U.S. airlines in flying the short cut from New York to India vis Moscow, thereby saving four hours over the old Near East route, and making you realize that, in case of war, giant bombers could make the flight between England and the Soviet in less than three hours, missiles in a few minutes.

In Moscow, people who had their city devastated by the Nazi bombs of the last war are still working to rebuild it.

Moxcow is a city in a hurry. Its people walk at almost breakneck speed, along wide sidewalks and through tunnels under streets to avoid traffic jams. They are in such a hurry that you have to be alert in dodging them when you try to cross the sidewalk to reach a waiting car. In Japan the rush of pedestrian traffic almost knocks you down. In Moscow they are a little more polite.

—IMPATIENT MUSCOVITES—

Moscow is also in a hurry to push its apartment building program. Thousands of Russians wait, impatiently, in a hurry to move in. There has been great building progress since I was here in 1961. New developments have sprung up everywhere, and the intourist guide tells you with pride that every day 314 new families move into newly completed apartments.

Even so, the building program is not moving fast enough. And one of the gripes against Nikita Khrushchev was that he was sending money to Egypt to build the Aswan Dam while thousands of Russian families lived in one-room apartments.

People sit on benches in the parks in Moscow even in near-zero weather, and at first you wonder why. Then you learn that families are crowded together in two or three rooms, so that to avoid your mother-in-law you have to go out and sit in the park. Or else she sits in the park to avoid her son-in-law.

Even so, the Russians have accomplished wonders in housing. But what the average American doesn't realize is that the Russian people suffered terribly in the last war and will be building for another ten years or so before housing catches up with the demand.

This is one reason the Russians don't want another war.

—WHEAT DEFICIT—

The people I saw in Moscow seemed better dressed than in 1961, and they also have more food. No longer do you see long lines of people queuing up in the street to buy certain kinds of food. Oranges and lemons are scarce and expensive at this season of the year and so is flour. Bread is not.

But the Russians will probably have to go into the world market to buy some wheat this year — though nowhere near as much as in 1963.

Party Secretary Brezhnev has just announced a huge, five-year farm program costing $78 billion to set up fertilizer plants and improve agriculture. But there is one thing neither Communism nor capitalism can regulate — the weather.

And, regardless of fertilizer and the most modern farm methods, Russia's bitterly cold winters, short growing season in the north and arid summers in the south may mean that she will never be sure of feeding all her people. This could open the possibility of an economic partnership between the American farmer who over-produces and the Soviet which under-produces.

—EAST-WEST TRADE—

Many Russians are anxious for trade with the United States and interested in the commission appointed by President Johnson to examine East-West trade. But in the present unfavorable atmosphere created by the bombing of North Viet Nam they are skeptical.

The most outspoken and friendly Soviet leader I talked to was Madame Nina Popova, President of the Union of Soviet Friendship Societies. As a member of the Central Committee, Mme. Popova ranks high and, unlike some others, is not afraid to speak frankly.

She plans to come to the United States regardless of opposition from the anti-American faction inside the Kremlin, and also favors continued cultural exchange. Some others do not. They would shut off the students, professors, and scientists who have been traveling between the two countries.

"Our main wish is for mutual understanding," Mme. Popova told me. "This is a difficult time as we pass though. Let us speak frankly. We have been put in a very difficult position by your actions in Viet Nam.

"We would be most happy if President Johnson would strike out this problem of Viet Nam. If we can get rid of it, we can look forward to all sorts of friendly enterprises together."

So spoke one of the most frank, friendly members of the Central Committee.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Strange Case of Judge Who Decided To Lead Instead of Rule.

CHICAGO: -- If anyone is searching for the hero of a saga which could be titled the In-Corruptibles, the man can be found in this city of the untouchables.

Eight months ago this man, Maurice Perlin by name, was chief justice of the Illinois State Court of Claims. Today he is a labor leader. After almost five years on the bench he left voluntarily to become president of one of the nation's biggest local unions.

Ministers and priests have led labor, as have lawyers and matinee idols--but never before anywhere in the world has a chief justice of an important court stepped down to become a union official.

Judge "Maury" Perlin did. Thus he now is among the handful of the new breed who will some day replace the elders, who wonder where they can find the men to meet the new unionism needed for the age of space and automation.

Now 51 years old, Perlin is president of the unique and huge 30,000-member Local 1031, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Perlin gave up the security and peace of the bench for the turbulence of the labor front because he has a touch of the missionary in him. For years he had worked closely with his late predecessor Frank (Flo Ziegfeld) Darling as legal counsel and mentor of the thousands of men and women whose skills sped much of the electronic equipment to America's defense forces during the big war and the Korean conflict.

Because of the union's strategic position in the electrical field, and because it is the largest local in the Midwest, and because it could play a powerful role if ever captured by mobster or subversive forces, Darling and Perlin always were on the alert for intruders and infiltrators.

Of course, the Communists attempted to move in. The Party used its best operatives. They worked their way into membership. They would come to meetings and put on talkathons in an effort to weary the rank and file and to keep them away from future decision - making gatherings.

Darling and Perlin then hit on the stratagem of extravaganzas. They put on big-time musical shows. They got Jimmy Durante and Ethel Merman to cavort and sing at the meetings. The union soon became as newsy in Variety as in the labor press.

The membership poured out to the meetings in such numbers that sessions had to be run over two and three nights. The Communists were beaten.

But the musicals still run on. Even today Local 1031 is the only union which runs meetings on Saturday nights.

In a city where thugs machine-gunned their way into unions and would collect bribes in open umbrellas, Local 1031 remained clean and progressive--concerned over the prosperity of its members' employers as well as with its members' welfare.

When the union's 46,000 followers fell to 30,000, Darling and his lawyer, Perlin, fought the trend by battling for the inflow of government orders and against the inflow of foreign competition from Japan and West Germany.

The moment came when Perlin moved into other fields--and in 1960 he was named chief justice of the Court of Claims.

Last August Frank Darling died in a Houston hospital, after serious surgery. The union executive board called an emergency meeting. They elected Judge Perlin president and then went to him with their offer.

The leadership of labor was a challenge. He resigned from the bench. On March 9, he stood for office in the general election and was overwhelmingly chosen.

Today Perlin is training his staff in the new unionism. He has called in government experts to teach labor law, psychology and the techniques of peaceful collective bargaining. He has called on the industry to take the lead in working with labor on special projects.

He has called on his own labor colleagues to study the results of the latest electronic research in universities as well as federal and private space laboratories -- so that the union can help the industry prosper and create more jobs.

"Research and development of new products can be pushed forward by our people," he has said. "This could mean new profit for management and new jobs for our members. It is the most effective method of preventing further loss of business to foreign competition. If we can't meet their abysmal wage rates and low cost production we can beat them with better products and new ones. We can work together."

Obviously Judge Perlin has remained undiscovered too long.

It was Robert Browning who exclaimed, "Oh, to be in England now that April's there," but the words might well be echoed especially this April marking the 401st anniversary of his birth.

What would the Bard think of the much ado being made over him, not only in England but around the world, as schools and colleges and dramatic groups perform his plays in greater profusion than ever before?

No doubt he would be impressed to hear his words bounced trippingly off a circling satellite -- though it was his Puck who said, "I'll put a girdle round the earth in forty minutes."

No doubt it would amaze him to learn that in the barbarous wilderness of America a magic box will carry the voice and face of the eminent Dr. Frank Baxter in 26 half-hour broadcasts devoted to him, and that one electronic performance of a play will reach millions more than all the groundlings who ever cheered a Hal or hissed an Iago at ye Globe Theatre.

He would be no less astonished at the many volumes written by generations of pundits to prove he did not write his plays at all. One suspects, however, that Will's sympathies would be with "the whining schoolboy, with his satchel and shining morning face, creeping like a snail unwillingly to school" to struggle, as countless others have before him, over Shakespeare.

As every schoolboy knows, English literature means Shakespeare. It is often overlooked, though, as writer John Greenway has pointed out, that the England of Elizabeth I, with a population half the size of metropolitan New York, most of it illiterate, produced half a dozen playwrights of the same class as Shakespeare.

But this is Shakespeare's year, and it may surprise many to learn he was not always held in such esteem. The prudish 19th century did not think him quite nice.

It was not until the latter part of the century that he was appreciated again for what he was -- a poetic genius, an amazing man of an amazing time.

We like to think that Shakespeare would be pleased to learn that we of the 20th century are perhaps spiritually closer to him than even his contemporaries were and that to us, as it was to him, "the play's the thing."

PRESS HAS PUNCH

The newspaper has a punch, it has circulation, it strikes home, it is something everyone reads. Newspaper advertising is a wise investment.

These thoughts have been expressed by many men who are in a position to know whereof they speak.

Newspaper advertising is rated by many the highest of all conventional advertising media.

Newspaper advertising brings to the consumer the item you want to sell, the one you feel you can brag about.

Some years ago, a general manager of a large New York department store in commenting on advertising media was talking about the good points and limitations of other media. He wound up by saying he found other media more limited in their effect in comparison to cost, than the newspapers.

Drivers sometimes overlook the second major reason for having headlights -- not to use for seeing, but so you can be seen by other drivers.

Illinois is the latest of several states to pass a law requiring the use of headlights at dusk, or sunset, instead of parking lights so that cars can be seen more easily and more surely once dusk comes.

Drivers have long used a system of starting with parking lights and then switching over to full headlights later, saving the headlights until it was almost completely dark. Why? Some drivers probably thought it was more economical to use the parking lights as long as possible; some probably didn't consider the problems of being seen, rather than of seeing.

These new laws lead us to consider the possibility of headlights being used full - time whenever the car is in operation. In many areas, headlights are kept on during the daytime on holiday week-ends as a safety measure. If this works on holidays, why not on weekdays? Even in full sunlight, a car is more easily seen if the headlights are on.

It may be because of this that some cars are being equipped with experimental running lights. Maybe you've seen some of the cars with a little, bright light mounted in the center of the grille? These lights are being used during day or night hours. Some safety experts like this idea, some don't, so it'll be a while before the running light idea is accepted or rejected.

In concluding this piece on using headlights, here's a safety tip that's used by truck drivers. If you're driving on a two - lane highway with a heavy stream of cars coming from the other direction, turn your headlights on -- or flash them -- if oncoming car stays in your lane too long while passing. Flashing lights can be seen for a long distance by an oncoming car, even though a horn won't be heard or noticed.

How are things in Timisoara? Well, to begin with, that happens to be in Romania and doesn't rhyme with the town in the well-known song, anyway. But to find out what's going on there or anywhere else behind the Iron Curtain, one of the best sources is Radio Free Europe.

RFE not only beams news from the West into the East and listens to broadcasts from the Soviets and satellites, but monitors their publications as well.

Not all of the information gleaned is weighty; not all of it fits readily into a picture of life behind the Curtain, but all of it is interesting and occasionally amusing.

An instance is a recent poll of high school students conducted by a Romanian newspaper which came to the attention of RFE researchers in Munich. The paper was "shocked" at some of the following revelations:

Sixty-eight per cent of the students reported that they take only one bath a week (Saturday).

Many of the youngsters don't go to bed until after midnight.

Asked the type of work they would prefer to do, only 20 per cent of them said, "Useful to society."

Asked what they consider the most important things in life, 42 per cent replied, "To have friends," 20 per cent said, "To have very good qualifications"; only 19 per cent said, "To work for the good of mankind."

On dances, out of 100 students 60 knew the Twist, 48 the Madison, 42 the waltz and tango and 15 the cha-cha-cha. Only two students knew any Romanian folk dances.

The newspaper rounded out the sorry record by noting that at one morning performance at the Bucuresti movie theater there were nearly 300 schoolboys. The film was "The Seven Year Itch" with Marilyn Monroe.

The same day at the nearby Museum of Arts of the Romanian People's Republic there were, alas, but two schoolboys.

So far the nation's independent business proprietors have taken no vote on the current moves to curtail U. S. foreign investments as a means of offsetting the dollar situation. But in some scattered areas there is concern expressed that this may result in further concentration of the domestic economy through mergers and acquisitions unless there is also more vigorous enforcement of the antitrust laws.

This sentiment is apparently generated by the belief that the corporations who have been investing heavily abroad are using idle speculative capital in their treasuries. The question then becomes one of how long these huge complexes can keep this type of surplus idle, and in lieu of being used abroad, will it be turned inward on the domestic economy in order to acquire more American holdings, to result in further concentrations.

It is also felt significant that in investing abroad, there have been strong tendencies for the American corporations to acquire control, or a substantial working interest, in already established foreign corporations instead of setting up new ones.

Use of these surplus funds in the United States in a similar manner would be a severe blow to freedom of enterprise. To prevent this, it will require new efforts on the part of the officials charged with enforcing antitrust laws.

In the early 1830's, a young fellow in Illinois was a partner in a grocery business that failed. There was no such thing as a small business loan or any other federal subsidy in those days, and perhaps this is the reason that he turned to politics.

NEW YORK AP -- It is a tremulous moment when a young actress stands on the threshold of stardom.

Standing there now is Rosemary Forsyth, who is 21, freckled, doesn't wear lipstick or rouge, and looks like a tall blonde goddess.

Will Hollywood open its golden door wide for her? Universal Studio is so convinced Miss Forsyth has star quality that it has signed her to a seven-year contract and given her a year of dramatic training.

"I don't feel like a star, because I'm not one yet," said Rosemary practically. "I don't know whether I'll ever be one. I've never really thought of being a star -- just a good actress."

But after seeing the rough shots of Miss Forsyth in her first motion picture role, producer Walter Seltzer immediately gave her star billing with Charlton Heston in another forthcoming film.

"She has a wonderful face -- a little like Ingrid Bergman, and yet different, too," he said.

Rosemary also looks a little like Grace Kelly, Lee Remick and has something of the tomboy quality of the late Carole Lombard. But because of her quick success she is most often being compared with that old film circle favorite - Cinderella.

"I know some girls work 15 years and never get a break such as I've had," remarked Rosemary, "and I'm grateful for it. But I don't feel much like Cinderella."

Sturdily independent, she has earned her own way since she was 18. Born in Montreal and educated at Stockbridge, Mass., she worked as a camp counselor and file clerk before becoming a $45-an-hour fashion and television model.

"I never had much of a struggle," she said. "I have lived in some crummy apartments, but I never missed a meal in my life.

"I got an invitation to make a film test after a studio executive saw my picture in Show magazine. I hated fashion modeling, just standing still and trying to look cool and perfect. I'd rather model a potato peeler. At least then you're doing something real. When you peel a potato, you're relating to something."

Rosemary is 5 feet 9, lithely built, has long tresses and the kind of cheekbones that send cameramen into ecstasties.

Here is the kind of girl she feels she is:

"I'm outspoken, sometimes hypersensitive, terribly romantic. When I walk down the street I'm always dreaming I'll catch some strange man's eye, fall in love with him instantly, then marry him and live with him for 75 years in a big old house and have 17 children.

"But I'm a realist, too. There's always a bit of logic in my head that says, 'That's enough now. Cut out the day dreaming.'

"I don't use makeup because it bores me to stand in front of a mirror painting my face. I guess I'm just an ordinary upper middle-class young lady, which sounds dreadfully boring, too, but I don't find it so."

Strange Case of Judge Who Decided To Lead Instead of Rule.

CHICAGO: -- If anyone is searching for the hero of a saga which could be titled the In-Corruptibles, the man can be found in this city of the untouchables.

Eight months ago this man, Maurice Perlin by name, was chief justice of the Illinois State Court of Claims. Today he is a labor leader. After almost five years on the bench he left voluntarily to become president of one of the nation's biggest local unions.

Ministers and priests have led labor, as have lawyers and matinee idols--but never before anywhere in the world has a chief justice of an important court stepped down to become a union official.

Judge "Maury" Perlin did. Thus he now is among the handful of the new breed who will some day replace the elders, who wonder where they can find the men to meet the new unionism needed for the age of space and automation.

Now 51 years old, Perlin is president of the unique and huge 30,000-member Local 1031, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Perlin gave up the security and peace of the bench for the turbulence of the labor front because he has a touch of the missionary in him. For years he had worked closely with his late predecessor Frank (Flo Ziegfeld) Darling as legal counsel and mentor of the thousands of men and women whose skills sped much of the electronic equipment to America's defense forces during the big war and the Korean conflict.

Because of the union's strategic position in the electrical field, and because it is the largest local in the Midwest, and because it could play a powerful role if ever captured by mobster or subversive forces, Darling and Perlin always were on the alert for intruders and infiltrators.

Of course, the Communists attempted to move in. The Party used its best operatives. They worked their way into membership. They would come to meetings and put on talkathons in an effort to weary the rank and file and to keep them away from future decision - making gatherings.

Darling and Perlin then hit on the stratagem of extravaganzas. They put on big-time musical shows. They got Jimmy Durante and Ethel Merman to cavort and sing at the meetings. The union soon became as newsy in Variety as in the labor press.

The membership poured out to the meetings in such numbers that sessions had to be run over two and three nights. The Communists were beaten.

But the musicals still run on. Even today Local 1031 is the only union which runs meetings on Saturday nights.

In a city where thugs machine-gunned their way into unions and would collect bribes in open umbrellas, Local 1031 remained clean and progressive--concerned over the prosperity of its members' employers as well as with its members' welfare.

When the union's 46,000 followers fell to 30,000, Darling and his lawyer, Perlin, fought the trend by battling for the inflow of government orders and against the inflow of foreign competition from Japan and West Germany.

The moment came when Perlin moved into other fields--and in 1960 he was named chief justice of the Court of Claims.

Last August Frank Darling died in a Houston hospital, after serious surgery. The union executive board called an emergency meeting. They elected Judge Perlin president and then went to him with their offer.

The leadership of labor was a challenge. He resigned from the bench. On March 9, he stood for office in the general election and was overwhelmingly chosen.

Today Perlin is training his staff in the new unionism. He has called in government experts to teach labor law, psychology and the techniques of peaceful collective bargaining. He has called on the industry to take the lead in working with labor on special projects.

He has called on his own labor colleagues to study the results of the latest electronic research in universities as well as federal and private space laboratories -- so that the union can help the industry prosper and create more jobs.

"Research and development of new products can be pushed forward by our people," he has said. "This could mean new profit for management and new jobs for our members. It is the most effective method of preventing further loss of business to foreign competition. If we can't meet their abysmal wage rates and low cost production we can beat them with better products and new ones. We can work together."

Obviously Judge Perlin has remained undiscovered too long.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvie Dean Dunnegan

Sharon Kay Swindell Becomes Bride Of Alvie Dean Dunnegan In Spring Wedding

BELL CITY -- At two-o'clock in the afternoon on Sunday, April fourth, at the Bell City Church of Christ, Miss Sharon Kay Swindell, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Swindell of Bell City, became the bride of Alvie Dean Dunnegan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dunnegan of Bloomfield.

Brother Louis Gardner performed the double ring ceremony before a setting of a seven branch candelabra and arrangements of white jonquils and fern.

Jerry Hesselrode rendered the "Wedding March" and Miss Mary Rendleman and Miss Rebecca Wheeler sang "Always."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length gown of silver-etched brocade on white. The bodice featured a scooped neckline, long pointed sleeves fastened with tiny self-covered buttons at the wrist and a matching bow at the front waistline. The gown, fashioned for the bride by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Robert Fisher of Advance, was styled with a bell shaped skirt.

She wore a jeweled tiara of pearls encircled with a shoulder-length veil of tulle. She carried a white Bible on which rested a bridal bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis tied with white ribbons.

Miss Sandra Eakin of Bell City served as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Beverly Bollinger, Bell City and Miss Charlene Cooper of Cape Girardeau. All of the bride's attendants are her classmates. The attendants' dresses were made similar to that of the bride, but were waltz-length dresses made from pale blue material. They wore white corsages and their headpieces were rosettes of blue that held nose-tipped veils.

Charles Bullard, Bell City, Larry Crowell, Sikeston, and Loran Cartwright, Bloomfield, served as the groom's attendants.

Ringbearer was Keith Swindell, brother of the bride. David Swindell, also brother of the bride, lighted the candles. Melody Fisher, flower girl, is a cousin of the bride and she wore a light blue dress of brocade that featured a full skirt and short sleeves. She wore a white carnation wrist corsage and carried red roses.

Mrs. Swindell chose for her daughter's wedding a light blue flecked with white suit enhanced with black accessories. Mrs. Dunnegan wore a pale green and white printed dress of shantung with beige accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations.

A reception was held at the bride's parents' cafe immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a blue cloth overlaid with white lace. The candles in crystal holders, a crystal punch bowl and a silver coffee service appointed the table. White wedding bells and blue and white streamers hung over the table.

Individual tables were decorated with white lace place mats and crystal bud vases holding blue and white spring flowers. Blue half moons interlaced with scallops of blue and white streamers, white wedding bells formed the setting for the individual tables.

The decorations were planned by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Ruby Shoaf of Sikeston. The cake, baked by Mrs. Tyree Brown, was five tiered in colors of blue and white adorned by miniature brides and grooms and blue and silver roses. A larger bride and groom in an arch of lilies of the valley topped the cake.

Miss Jean Dale Shumaker of Bell City, Miss Dianne DeLay of Bell City, Miss Joyce Pierce of Bell City and Mrs. Harold Mayor of Advance served at the reception.

Out-of-town guests at the Swindell - Dunnegan Wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dunnegan of Bloomfield, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fisher of Advance, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fisher, Mrs. Marjorie Cox, all of Neelyville, Mr. and Mrs. Ruby Shoaf, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Crowell, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cooper, and Ray Shoaf, all of Sikeston.

Mrs. Norma Bollinger and family, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. McCann, Mrs. James Eakin, Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Fisher and family, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kennedy, all of Advance, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lloyd and family of Lutesville, and Miss Tinae Beardsly of Commerce.

Harold Dunnegan of Bloomfield, Mr. and Mrs. Onbrey Thrower, Dexter, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Taylor of Poplar Bluff, Mrs. Scotty Hooe, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ingram, Mrs. John Arbuckle of Oran and Floyd Cooper of Bloomfield.

The young couple is now at home in Bell City. The new Mrs. Dunnegan is a senior at Bell City High School where she will graduate in May and Mr. Dunnegan is employed by the Inland Shoe Factory at Advance.

Newcomers Club Has 28 Members Present For Meet

The Newcomers Club met April 1 at the Midtowner restaurant with 28 members present.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Ken Jones, Newcomers hostess, introducing the new president, Mrs. Harold G. Powell, who conducted the business meeting.

Many interesting plans for the coming year were suggested by our program chairman, Mrs. Harold Belsheim. On April 29 a dinner party is planned.

Three new callers, Mrs. M. Young, Mrs. George Moorman and Mrs. Charles Welch, were appointed. Three guests were present, Mrs. Max Ross from Colorado and two new sponsors, Mrs. Ruth Burch and Mrs. Doris Lindley who are interior decorators.

Five new members were present. They were Mrs. Jerry G. Cooper, Mrs. C. Austin, Mrs. Paul Strabola, Mrs. D. Boley and Mrs. Larry Baker.

Mrs. Ken Jones showed their colored slides of the New York World's Fair. Bridge and canasta were played with Mrs. Fred Danner winning first prize in bridge and Mrs. Eldon Collins in canasta. The door prize of an oil change and lubrication job donated by the Sikeston Motors was won by Mrs. Mike Blacker.

Girl Scout Board Of Directors Met With 24 Present

The Board of Directors of the Cotton Boll Girl Scout Council met recently at the Hickory House Restaurant in Poplar Bluff. Mrs. Verne Johnson, Council President presided over the meeting with 21 members and three staff members present.

A report was given by the Program Services Committee on the coming events and they proposed that several council policies be changed. The policies pertained to money-making projects, the Cookie Sale, and that all Senior Girl Scout troops must be wide-age-range-open-end troops. These proposals were voted on and passed by the members. The Public Relations Service Committee reported on the events carried on during the Girl Scout Week. The Personnel Service Committee reported on several future adult training courses which include the Presidents Meeting in Excelsior Springs, the Membership Institute on May 2 and 3. This conference is being offered by the National Girl Scout organization, with Mrs. J. D. Giddings of Baytown, Texas serving as Conference Leader. The Finance Service Committee presented the Council Audit Report and the 1966 Council Plan of Work and Budget.

The members attending from Sikeston were Mrs. Robert Mitchell, Mrs. Gene Nunnelee, Mrs. Gene Dement. Mrs. Dempsey Gardner, and Mrs. Henry Cain of Canalou. Also present were two members of the Council Staff, Miss Ilena Aslin, Executive Director, and Miss Doris Brown, District Adviser.

Q—What is the present salary of a U.S. congressman?

A—Under legislation passed in 1964, salaries will be $30,000 a year, a $7,500 raise.

Sikeston Wins At Jackson

Sikeston's fighting baseball Bulldogs went to Jackson yesterday to battle with the Indians and came home with their second win of the season, against no defeats. Coach Ed Chronister had this comment to make on the Bulldog victory; "Our boys played a much better ball game today, our pitching has improved and we cut down on our bases on balls.

Stallings and Marley were the big men on the mound for the Dogs. Stallings pitched for five innings, allowed no runs and only three hits.

Terry James was again the big man for the Bulldogs with the bat. He plays center field for the Bulldogs with lightning spread and mobility was right at the plate yesterday. James was 2 for 4 at the plate ripping out a double and a triple.

The big inning for Sikeston was the third, they scored all of their three runs in that inning. Sikeston combined eight hits to one Jackson error for the day.

Sikeston's defense only committed one error.

The Bulldogs other win was against the Chaffee Red Devils.

Nicklaus Is Favored To Win

AUGUSTA, Ga. AP -- "I don't mind being the favorite as long as it stands that way Sunday night," said Jack Nicklaus today in stepping to the tee for the first round of the 72-hole, four-day Masters Golf Tournament.

The strapping blonde bomber from Columbus, Ohio, a non-winner on the winter circuit, said he is fit and ready to match strokes with 90 other leading pros and amateurs of the world in the first prestige tourney of the year.

Nicklaus, the 1963 Masters king, was a 4-1 choice in the informal odds. Right behind him came Arnold Palmer, the defending champion and record four-time winner, at 6-1.

The odds drop to 8-1 for a quartet rated by Nicklaus and Palmer as their chief contenders.

The four are Doug Sanders, of Ojai, Calif., only winner of two tournaments on the winter tour; Billy Casper, of Peacock Gap, Calif., the onetime fat man who has thinned down to 185 pounds; Tony Lema, the British Open king from San Leandro, Calif., whose game has been offlately, and Gary Player, the poised, muscular little fellow from South Africa.

Nicklaus demonstrated why he is rated as the man to beat when he toured the par 36-36-72, 6-980 -yard layout of the Augusta National Golf Club Tuesday in 67.

Maris To Sue For $100,000

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. AP -- Roger Maris, acquitted of a charge he slugged a man in a bar fight last week, said he had decided to sue for more than $100,000.

"I did not swing at anybody," the New York Yankee outfielder told Municipal Court Wednesday. "I was shoved from behind and thrown against the plaintiff. That was all.

After the judge found him innocent and he rushed to a spring training game, Maris announced he was going to file a civil suit against his accuser, Jerome Modzelewski, a 25-year-old male model.

Modzelewski, who divides his time between agencies here and in Chicago, also has pressed charges against Clete Boyer, the Yankees' third baseman. That trial is set for May 11.

A bartender, Robert J. Burns, said he was trying to quiet Boyer "when the bang happened. That's when Boyer hit him Modzelewski."

Burns and another witness said they did not see Maris take a swing.

Modzelewski and his red-haired companion, 21-year-old Angela Della Vedova of Sudbury, Ont., testified that the rhubarb started when they were leaving Nick's Bar the night of April 1.

Modzelewski said he heard an objectionable remark -- so objectionable that it was not allowed in testimony - directed at him from the ballplayers' table.

Kaline Coming To Life For Detroit After Long Slump

For 19 games this spring, the thunder that resides in Al Kaline's bat sounded like a whimper and the notion that the Detroit Tigers might have an outside shot at the American League pennant came out like whistling in the dark.

Kaline, around whom the Tiger attack has revolved ever since he won the batting championship 10 years ago, had been struggling through training with his batting average hovering near .150. And Tiger brass, aware that Kaline had a less than spectacular season last year, were a bit concerned.

The veteran right fielder batted .293, second lowest figure in his career, last year with just 17 homers, a drop of 10 from his 1963 figure. In 19 games this spring he had driven in just three runs and had no homers.

But Al seems to have come alive at last and his awakening came not a moment too soon for acting Manager Bob Swift. Kaline's third homer in the last five games helped the Tigers to their 9-4 victory over the New York Mets in a baseball exhibition Wednesday.

"Al's building up for something," Swift said after the game, "and I think it's a great year."

Don Wert and Dick McAuliffe each drove in two runs for the Tigers who completed their Florida training with an 11-13 record.

Reserve infielder Phil Gagliano ripped three hits and drove in three runs as the world champion Cardinals blanked Philadelphia 6-0. Gagliano belted a two-run homer, a triple and a single as St. Louis mounted an 11-hit attack.

In other games, the Chicago Cubs dropped Cleveland 8-5, Pittsburgh stopped Kansas City 4-3, Milwaukee whacked the New York Yankees 4-1, Cincinnati topped Minnesota 5-3, Washington whipped Baltimore 5-2 and Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League squeaked past San Francisco 7-6.

Yankees And Cards Picked To Take Another Pennant

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees, who couldn't beat Johnny Keane and the Cardinals in the 1964 World Series, will get another crack at St. Louis — with Keane on their side — this year.

The Yankees were voted into a record-shattering sixth straight American League pennant by a narrow margin in balloting by 266 sports writers and broadcasters in The Associated Press' annual pre-season baseball poll.

St. Louis received an even slimmer margin over Philadelphia and Cincinnati.

The Yankees, with Keane having replaced Yogi Berra as their manager, recorded 60 more points than Baltimore and 160 more than the Chicago White Sox. The Cardinals, now under Red Schoendienst, outpolled the Phillies by 76 points and the Reds by 91.

St. Louis, which won the 1964 pennant on the last day of the season after being selected for third in the pre-season poll, had a total of 2,189 points while Philadelphia had 2,113 and Cincinnati 2,098.

The world champions' slim triumph was built despite their having received only 40 first-place votes compared with 77 for the Phillies and 73 for the Reds, a rare disparity in the poll.

Votes were counted on the basis of 10 points for first, nine for second, etc., down to one for 10th.

The Yankees' selection was made certain by 109 first-place votes, far more than the Orioles' 67 and the White Sox' 73. New York finished with 2,400 points, Baltimore 2,340 and Chicago 2,240.

In proving the prognosticators correct last year, the Yankees won the pennant by one game over Chicago and two over Baltimore. St. Louis nosed out Philadelphia and Cincinnati by one game each.

The Mets, a perennial last-place choice, drew the most votes for any one spot — 185 for 10th in the NL. The Athletics earned 179 for last in the AL.

The voting, first-place votes in parentheses:

The Yankees were voted into a record-shattering sixth straight American League pennant by a narrow margin in balloting by 266 sports writers and broadcasters in The Associated Press' annual pre-season baseball poll.

St. Louis received an even slimmer margin over Philadelphia and Cincinnati.

The Yankees, with Keane having replaced Yogi Berra as their manager, recorded 60 more points than Baltimore and 160 more than the Chicago White Sox. The Cardinals, now under Red Schoendienst, outpolled the Phillies by 76 points and the Reds by 91.

St. Louis, which won the 1964 pennant on the last day of the season after being selected for third in the pre-season poll, had a total of 2,189 points while Philadelphia had 2,113 and Cincinnati 2,098.

The world champions' slim triumph was built despite their having received only 40 first-place votes compared with 77 for the Phillies and 73 for the Reds, a rare disparity in the poll.

Votes were counted on the basis of 10 points for first, nine for second, etc., down to one for 10th.

The Yankees' selection was made certain by 109 first-place votes, far more than the Orioles' 67 and the White Sox' 73. New York finished with 2,400 points, Baltimore 2,340 and Chicago 2,240.

In proving the prognosticators correct last year, the Yankees won the pennant by one game over Chicago and two over Baltimore. St. Louis nosed out Philadelphia and Cincinnati by one game each.

The Mets, a perennial last-place choice, drew the most votes for any one spot — 185 for 10th in the NL. The Athletics earned 179 for last in the AL.

The voting, first-place votes in parentheses:

National League

1. St. Louis (40)	2,189
2. Philadelphia (77)	2,113
3. Cincinnati (73)	2,098

Everything's old fashioned about OLD TAYLOR 86

except the people who drink it

They know that "old-fashioned" doesn't mean out of fashion. Good taste never goes out of style. Like the smooth, rich, mellow taste of Old Taylor 86. Traditional? Yes! But so very modern. Try it.

Rev. James Hackney

Rev. Hackney To Be Speaker At W.M.U. Meeting

Rev. Jim Hackney, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Sikeston, Missouri, will be the special guest speaker for the quarterly Charleston Baptist Association Women's Missionary Union meeting on April 9th. Previous to his present position Rev. Hackney has been Director of Evangelism for the Missouri State Baptist office in Jefferson City. While there he directed the recent Australian Baptist Crusade, in which many of our Baptist ministers held revivals in various churches in Australia. Rev. Hackney resides with his wife and three children at 705 Hickory Drive in Sikeston.

The Daytime meeting will be at Morehouse Baptist Church 10:00 a.m. to 2 p.m., with Mrs. Wendell Weathers presiding. Leadership conferences will be presented in the following areas. Presidents, Mrs. Wendell Weathers; Community Missions, Mrs. Joe Cleveland; Mission Study, Mrs. Orrin Hunt; Prayer, Mrs. Charles Howton; Enlistment, Mrs. Don Davis; Sunbeam, Mrs. Jerry Masterson; and Y. W. A., Mrs. Roy Nall.

A special feature of the daytime program will be a report from the Missouri State W. M. U. Convention, Joplin, attended by Mrs. Don Davis and Mrs. Wendell Weathers.

The Night time meeting will be at Oran Baptist Church at 7:30 p.m., presided over by Mrs. Charles Butler, Associational Nighttime president. Conferences in all the leading areas will also be featured at the night time meeting.

The Quarterly Associational W. M. U. meetings provide a time for fellowship, inspiration, and leadership training. All Baptist Churches in the area should make a special effort to have their local W. M. U. officers present. Nursey provided at both meetings.

Piano Students To Present Recital Friday

Students of Mrs. Myron E. Neal, teacher of piano music, will be presented in a recital Friday evening, April 9, at 7:00 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the First Christian Church.

Those who will perform in the recital are Jeannie Britt, Kathy Britt, Alice Cannon, Martha Doggett, Charles Dye, Patty Dye, John Ensor, Leslie Johnson, Lesa Righter, Priscilla Righter, Jane Rogers, Debbie Silverthorn, Linda Spitzmiller, and Sharon Spitzmiller.

Savages Have Dinner Guests Sunday

MOREHOUSE -- Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Savage and son, Don, had as dinner and supper guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shaffer, Patty, Judy, Toney and Geoffrey of St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sloan of Mount Morris, Michigan, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sloan of Sikeston, Mr. and Mrs. Cairl Vaughn and son, Steve, and grandson, Markie of Poplar Bluff, Mrs. Lela Jane Crowley, Jim, Pat and Steve of Sikeston, Mrs. R. C. Savage, Mrs. Lucy Ward and Louis Cossey.

Governor Warren Hearnes, center, last week received an honorary Patron membership to the Sikeston Art League. Mrs. Carl G. Popp, left, membership chairman, and Mrs. Thomas Allen, right, area chairman, were given an opportunity to discuss plans for the Sikeston Festival of the Arts with the Governor and to extend an invitation to Governor and Mrs. Hearnes to attend the Art Show May 1 and 2.

Dillons Return From Two Week's Vacation

MOREHOUSE--Mr. and Mrs. William Dillon have just returned home from a two week's vacation. They motored to Fort Everglades, Florida. They embarked on the luxury liner S. S. Ariodne for a cruise to the Bahamas, visiting Nassau, New Providence Island and Freeport Grand Bahamas. On returning they spent some time touring Florida. While there they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Friday of Sanibel Island and Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Alliston of St. Petersburg, Florida.

To Be Honored

Four former salesmen for the former Ralph Williams Motor Co., Sikeston, Mo., will be honored for their outstanding sales performances in 1964 at a banquet at the Chase-Park Plaza in St. Louis, Mo., Saturday, April 10.

They are Jerry M. Crowley, George Hensley Jr., Dave Keasler and Carl L. McFerron.

A. L. Whiteman, manager of Ford Division's St. Louis district sales office, said the Ford salesmen had earned membership in the Ford 300-500 Club, founded in 1950 to recognize the performance of outstanding Ford salesmen throughout the country.

Mr. Whiteman said the average 300-500 Club member sold more than $400,000 worth of automotive merchandise in 1964. The former Ralph Williams Motor Co., is now the Sikeston Motor Co.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My problem is out of the ordinary, but nonetheless it is real.

I am a middle-aged man in love with a middle-aged woman. Madeline and I lost our mates many years ago. She has a daughter who is 16 years old. My son is 17. We are both very proud of our children.

My son and Madeline's daughter have known each other for quite some time, but six months ago their friendship burst into flame. They are now going steady. My son tells me he thinks he is in love with the girl. She has told her mother she thinks she is in love with my son.

Madeline and I want to get married but we are both afraid of what might happen if these two teen-agers are allowed to live under the same roof. At the same time we don't want to wait until we have to be pushed down the aisle in wheel chairs.

What can you offer in the way of help?--NO DOUBLE WEDDING PLEASE

Dear No Double Wedding: Your son should be graduating from high school within the year. Surely you and Madeline can postpone your marriage until the boy goes AWAY to college. This would not entirely eliminate the problem, but it would reduce the hazards considerably.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband went out occasionally with a girl before he met and married me. He did not tell me about the girl because she was from the wrong side of the tracks and he never considered her anything but a physical friend if you know what I mean. This girl has his child. This child is now six years old.

My husband, being a perfect gentleman, did not try to back out of anything. When the court ordered him to pay support money for the boy he agreed.

We have a little girl of our own now and it fries me that my husband must send money every month to this back-street tramp. How long does a man have to pay for a mistake that is only half his? If he just stopped sending support money what would happen?--THE MRS.

Dear Mrs.: Your husband will probably have to pay for "his half of the mistake" for another 15 years. If he stops the payments he could go to jail.

Your lack of compassion for the mother and her child is shameful. You sound like a woman who has just had her brain washed and can't do a thing with it.

Dear Ann Landers: Since you are the lady with all the answers I hope you can pull one out of your hat for me.

I'm what some people call a career girl. Others might call me an old maid. I'm 32, unmarried and have no particular desire to rush into a fifth-rate marriage (as some of my friends have done) just to prove I can get a man.

But what do I say when people ask me why I'm not married? It's incredible that reasonably intelligent people ask such a cloddish question, but they do -- at least once a week. I've been gritting my teeth and saying stupid things like, "Because no one will have me." Can you come up with a squelcher that doesn't leave me looking so nebbish? Thank you. --DIXIE

Dear Dixie: Try this for size: "I'm not married because I haven't met the man who deserves to be as happy as I can make him."

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10¢ in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Chevelle by Chevrolet

'65 Chevelle Malibu Convertible—
with color-keyed all-vinyl upholstery

It's the most popular mid-size traveler built—
which isn't surprising when you consider who built it.

There's no doubt that a car like this could get by on its good looks alone. Without ever having to rely on family connections.

But the fact that it is built by Chevrolet assures you right off it's got a lot more going for it than merely meets the eye. It tells you, for example, that beneath those impetuous-looking lines you can have the impetuous kind of power—6 or V8—that Chevrolet has a reputation for putting in its cars. It tells you that you get Body by Fisher handiwork inside and out (with the kind of meticulous attention to detail that goes into some of the most expensive cars around). It tells you that you're going to get a ride developed by engineers who are old hands at putting the squelch on bumps (Chevelle has Full Coil suspension at all four wheels, similar to the regular Jet-smooth Chevrolet).

Knowing all this, you probably won't be startled by the fact more people are now buying Chevelle than any other car its size.

But you will have a happy surprise when you check what you can buy one for—right now down at your Chevrolet dealer's.

Chevelle by Chevrolet

'65 Chevelle Malibu Convertible—
with color-keyed all-vinyl upholstery

It's the most popular mid-size traveler built—
which isn't surprising when you consider who built it.

There's no doubt that a car like this could get by on its good looks alone. Without ever having to rely on family connections.

But the fact that it is built by Chevrolet assures you right off it's got a lot more going for it than merely meets the eye. It tells you, for example, that beneath those impetuous-looking lines you can have the impetuous kind of power—6 or V8—that Chevrolet has a reputation for putting in its cars. It tells you that you get Body by Fisher handiwork inside and out (with the kind of meticulous attention to detail that goes into some of the most expensive cars around). It tells you that you're going to get a ride developed by engineers who are old hands at putting the squelch on bumps (Chevelle has Full Coil suspension at all four wheels, similar to the regular Jet-smooth Chevrolet).

Knowing all this, you probably won't be startled by the fact more people are now buying Chevelle than any other car its size.

But you will have a happy surprise when you check what you can buy one for—right now down at your Chevrolet dealer's.

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

Visitors in most of our nation's better schools today will see many new educational devices, pieces of complex equipment, math or language laboratories, numerous audio-visual devices such as movie and film strip projectors, tape recorders, record players, etc.

All of these instructional aids or pieces of equipment have their place if used properly and they can help make good teaching better. But, it is wise for all of us to remember that none of these take away from the fact that "the teacher is still the key to a good school". To the uninformed, educational television may be the answer to the problem of not enough well trained teachers and if rightly used as a teaching aid, it can improve instruction tremendously by "exposing" the expert teacher to many more students than could normally come under their influence. But, television like all other devices still depends upon the mind, imagination and skill of a well trained teacher who can put these devices or the television to good use in making their teaching more effective.

Good teachers teach better with all the aids they can get. Poor teachers, unsure of their knowledge of how to use instructional aids and apathetic to their value might as well stick to their old methods.

We are fortunate to have many of the most up-to-date instructional aids and are even more fortunate in that we have many excellent teachers who put these aids to good use.

According to the last estimates there are more than four million unemployed Americans. In spite of this number, many jobs are going begging simply because there are not enough skilled workers available. The shortage of workers ranges from skilled scientists to low skilled occupations, for example waiters and waitresses and other restaurant workers. There are jobs for stenographers and metal workers almost everywhere.

There are needs for social and welfare workers, for registered nurses, for machinest, tool and die makers and machine tool operators.

Many of these jobs will remain unfilled until there are sufficient numbers of skilled persons to fill them at the place where the jobs may exist.

The greatest unemployment is among youth who have dropped out of school before completing the twelfth grade. This is why our Board of Education is emphasizing a sound program of trade-technical training for our community and surrounding areas. We know that only about 35 to 40 per cent of our students will enter college. Many of these will not get a degree. For those who do not intend to go to college, and there are many good reasons for this, and for those who will not complete college, vocational training at the level of the individual student's ability seems to be a sound answer. This does not mean that they should be trained only in job skills as all citizens who effectively perform in our society need to be educated in a broad area of subjects. It is our responsibility to provide education for every individual in relation to his or her needs and abilities, and within the limitation of the money which we have, this is our aim.

The month of March, broke all records for circulation of books at the Senior High library. 4,128 books were checked out during the month. This is almost half as many as were circulated in the entire 1960-61 school year. Up-to-date over 25,000 books have been checked out by Senior High students during this school year, according to a report given us this week by Fred Huff, Director of Library Services.

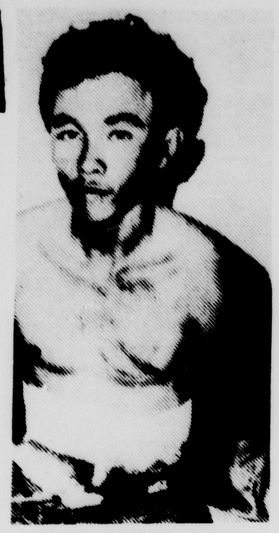
A similar increase in circulation of books is also noted at the Middle School and in the elementary schools. The importance of this growth of the use of library books and materials by our student body and its consequent educational impact, is apparent.

The Manpower Development and Training Act of 1962 was passed to train people who were unemployed and who were in almost all cases receiving some form of tax assistance, to the point where they can become employable and consequently tax payers instead of tax consumers.

Experience indicates that this is exactly what is happening. A recent study of a training program for 13,000 people shows that $13.8 million was spent. After their training was completed over 7,000 went to work immediately at an average hourly wage of $2.01. In only 24 weeks they will earn $13.7 million or more than the cost of their training, but what is equally important each trainee will pay back the cost of his training in five years in income taxes. Every dollar spent in training the group will return $2.24 a year in gross earnings.

Not only is the public's investment worthwhile but these trainees have removed themselves from the relief rolls, can support themselves and their families and contribute through taxes to the cost of the services rendered by our government.

The weeks, days and hours remaining in this school year are important ones and parents should do everything possible to encourage their children to take full advantage of the opportunities which are available in our schools.



ACCUSED BOMBER -- Nguyen Van Hai, accused of being one of the Communist Viet Cong terrorists who bombed the U.S. Embassy in Saigon, awaits a medical examination in a Saigon hospital. Spring Causes New Car Buying Spree

NEW YORK AP -- Americans have jumped the gun on the arrival of real spring weather and thereby set a record as well as possibly laying low an old tradition - when to buy a new car.

They used to wait until spring to rush to buy. But this March, when the weather most places was anything but spring-like, dealers sold more American-made autos than in any other month in history.

The home-based industry also made more cars than in any previous month. Canadian subsidiaries of U. S. auto giants started shipping Canadian-made cars here.

And European producers say the market here for their models is expanding fast -- maybe not up yet to the record of sales set in 1959 for foreign cars, but better than in 1964 and 1963 when the market was recovering from the 1960 dip.

The economy in general is getting a big boost from all this eagerness of Americans to buy new cars.

The stimulant goes far beyond the carmakers themselves, to their workers, dealers, repairmen, to the many supplies of car production lines, and to the supplies of those who make parts.

The stimulant is felt by the tiremakers, the gasoline sellers, the writers of auto insurance, the roadside restaurants and motels. In time this year's buying spree will enrich those who will have to make still more highways to accommodate the fast-growing horde of cars crowding today's roads.

How much all this adds up to for the economy in general can only be estimated. But makers of just one model, Ford's sporty Mustang, say that in its first year of production its sales of more than 400,000 have had this impact on the economy:

Retail values has topped a billion dollars. Sales have meant $860 million in wholesale financing volume and $580 million in retail financing volume, with insurance premiums on the new cars amounting to more than $54 million.

The maker has spent $224 million with some 700 outside supplier companies for components, and provided jobs for about 18,000 Ford employes. How many others are employed by dealers and supplies companies because of the new car can only be guessed.

Production started March 10, 1964, in Dearborn, Mich., and has since spread to San Jose, Calif., and Metuchen, N. J.

All this is only a small part of what the entire car industry is doing for the economy. Sales of all makes in the first three months of 1965 were a record 2,189,787, up 19 per cent from a year ago. Production in March alone was a record 962,549 cars, compared with 723,225 in March 1964.

When in the presence of people who are addicted to the vice of extreme talkativeness we think we'd like more men like Calvin Coolidge and Andrew Mellon of whom it was recorded: "The President and Mr. Mellon conversed almost entirely in pauses." — Curtis Courier

Smallest Potatoe Crop In Years

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — You with the potatoes and gravy appetite are paying more for your taste this year than Americans ever have.

It's because the nation's 1964 potato crop was the smallest in seven years — nearly 25 million 100-pound bags under the previous five-year average of 266 million bags.

All major producing areas but Maine were hit last year by bad weather and frosts.

The acreage finally harvested — 1.3 million acres — was the smallest since 1867, reports the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Supply and demand have boosted San Francisco retail prices to 79 cents for a five-pound sack of No. 1 Oregon Klamaths, sized from six to 14 ounces.

In Idaho, land of the premium russet baking potato, 1964 production dropped to 36.3 million from 1963.

Idaho russet bakers cost 20 cents a pound.

Potato prices stabilized at high levels in October and now are peaking just before the new crop starts coming in.

"In 33 years in the potato business I've never seen anything like this," said George Burger, a San Francisco potato broker.

He brought in a carload of Canadian potatoes to keep his hotel and restaurant customers supplied with eight-to 10-ounce baking sizes.

"I tell you I never did that before. These Canadian potatoes cost me $9 a bag delivered here."

Potato chip prices have not gone up because chip makers were guaranteed their supplies at prices contracted with growers before they planted.

One market chain expects prices to start downward by mid-April. Burger said he doesn't expect a major break before mid-May.

PRESQUE ISLE, Maine (AP) — In Maine's Aroostook County, where the Irish potato is king, things are looking up for the first time in 13 years.

The reasons: A larger than usual crop last fall, a poor year in competing potato-growing areas and a good market.

Last fall's crop totaled nearly 40 million hundredweight, an increase of 2.2 million over 1963.

Chicken And Veal On Bargain List

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Broiler and fryer chickens and veal are likely to find their way onto the weekend special list at many food markets.

Beef is in good supply, but there are no indications of any widespread trend toward unusual specials this weekend.

One national supermarket chain is posting these specials in its New York City area outlets: fryer chickens down 12 cents to 27 a pound, cut-up fryers down 12 to 31, veal chops down 20 to 89, veal rump roast at 55 cents a pound and leg of veal at 49 a pound.

Rib roasts of beef came off the special list and went up 10 to 79 cents a pound.

Egg prices are still a bit below normal for this time of year.

Asparagus may be priced lower in many sections, particularly the East Coast.

Better weather is reportedly helping the fishing industry provide more fish for lenten meals.

Committee Reinstates Two Members That Were Dismissed

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Missouri's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee upheld the dismissal of the chairman and two officers of the St. Clair County ASC committee but reinstated two other members.

St. Clair County farmers started a picketing demonstration at the county headquarters at Osceola after the five men were suspended on Jan. 4. They pressed so closely and so persistently around the entrance to the office that work there was suspended almost a month. They withdrew when state headquarters agreed to give the men a hearing.

William W. Marshall, chairman of the state committee, announced Wednesday that George Kalberloh of Lowry City and L. W. Murray of Osceola were reinstated as members of the county committee because "irregularities found by the investigators did not warrant their removal."

B. F. Moore of Osceola, the committee chairman, M. O. Lamb of Collins, the office manager, and Roy Smith of Roscoe, the performance supervisor, were removed. Marshall said they were responsible "for irregularities they admitted in sworn statements to federal investigators from the office of the inspector general of the U.S. Department of Agriculture."

Marshall said Moore conducted a private insurance business from the ASC office in Osceola and permitted the office manager to hire Earl Moore, a brother of the chairman, as an assistant performance supervisor.

Lamb, he said, hired Earl Moore in violation of the regulations against nepotism, made false certifications to the state committee and permitted Dale Atchison to plow under wheat 30 days after the deadline under the 1962 feed grain program.

Marshall said Smith attempted to influence the votes of delegates to the 1962 county ASC convention and altered an acreage report on the Johnnie Stephens farm which resulted in an overpayment.

Move Out Of My Way, My Wife Has Her Breakfast

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A motorist made a high-speed exit from the Hollywood Freeway and ran through a red light.

But the driver had a quick alibi for the California Highway Patrol officer who halted him: "If I make any sudden stops my wife spills her breakfast. It makes her mad."

The officer looked into the car. There sat the driver's wife, a plate of bacon and eggs in her lap.

Patrol officers list this among the most surprising alibis yet offered for traffic offenses — although, as a compilation by administrative aides shows, Southern California's officers must by now have surely heard them all.

Like the time the gray-haired woman roared her powerful sedan past a stop signal's flashing red light, and explained when caught: "But officer, I went through between flashes."

Or the night Patrolman E. B. Foster stopped a motorist speeding 50 m.p.h. in a 25 m.p.h. zone during a heavy fog. The driver's excuse: "It was so foggy I couldn't read my speedometer."

None of these excuses saved the motorists from traffic tickets. But Foster, whose beat is South Los Angeles, remembers once he stopped a young woman for speeding and she told him she was hurrying because she had left her purse in a market and wanted to recover it before someone grabbed it.

"All right," said Foster, tired of alibis, "Let's go."

He escorted her back to the store and went in with her.

There on the counter was the young woman's purse.

She didn't get a ticket.

Cattle Patrol Catches Suspect

GREENFIELD, Mo. (AP) — A patrol against cattle thieves netted a truck operator who has been charged with reckless driving, and a widespread search for his companion is on in southwest Missouri.

Mel Hutchison, 30, no permanent address, is held in the Dade County jail at Greenfield under the reckless driving charge.

Sheriff Oral Killingsworth and Sheriff Marvin Quade of adjoining Lawrence County, captured Hutchison early Wednesday after a brief chase at 100 miles an hour.

The sheriffs' reported Hutchison suddenly stopped the truck, jumped out and ran. They overtook him after he stumbled.

His companion, an older man, ran in the other direction and got away.

Officers from six counties, dogs, two airplanes, highway patrolmen and conservation agents hunted for him all day Wednesday but did not find him.

Killingsworth quoted Hutchison as saying he and his helper had come up from Arkansas for a load of cattle.

His 1965 two-ton truck bore an Arkansas license tag, and Sheriff Killingsworth said there was a Missouri tag under the driver's seat.

The two sheriffs set up their lookout on Missouri 97 at their county line Tuesday night because about 20 cattle thefts have been reported in the area in the past month.

Early Bird Satellite Ready For Maneuver

WASHINGTON AP -- The Early Bird satellite, already a proven handler of television signals, looped the earth today in readiness for a maneuver to push it toward its permanent roost in space.

Communications Satellite Corp. engineers planned to fire small gas jets designed to guide the world's first commercial communications satellite to a point over the Atlantic between Brazil and South Africa.

A small kick-motor then will be fired Friday morning over South America to direct the satellite into a circular orbit 22,300 miles high.

There its speed will match the earth's rotation, making it appear stationary in the sky.

The 85-pound satellite was launched from Cape Kennedy, Fla., Tuesday night.

Engineers gave the satellite a test Wednesday and received television patterns of excellent quality.

Signals were sent to the spacecraft for several minutes from a ground station at Andover, Maine. The test originally was scheduled after the satellite reached its permanent orbit.

Six Injuries In Area

Five of the six injuries in Troop E yesterday took place in two accidents, four near Bernie and one near Charleston. At 9 a.m. five miles west of Bernie on Route U, a 1950 Plymouth driven by Emory Hill, 38, and Geraldine Hill, 36, Robert Grubbs, 18, Shirley Grubbs, 18, all of Bernie, were injured when the driver lost control and hit a ditch bank. The driver received shoulder injuries, while the others received bruises and Geraldine Hill received a slight head injury. All were taken to the Doctors Hospital at Poplar Bluff.

Joseph L. Russelburg, 25, Sikeston received head lacerations in an accident at 9:10 p.m. on Highway 60, two and one-half miles west of Charleston. He failed to make a curve and his car turned two and one-half times. He was arrested for driving while drinking.

"Do not be anxious about your life." (Matthew 6:25, RSV)

PRAYER: O Lord, we thank Thee for the challenges found in Thy Word. Strengthen us in faith that we may boldly accept Christ's challenges to live by them. Supply all our needs, Thou who art our greatest need. In the name of the Master, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven. . . Amen."

Looking Back Over The Years

50 years ago

Diehlstadt — E. Abshier has just finished a large barn on the Ostner farm.

Mrs. H. J. Welsh has been suffering with the grippe during the week.

40 years ago

New Madrid — Mr. and Mrs. James A. Finch were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brissenden at Cape Girardeau last Friday.

Among the Sikeston people who attended the dance at Gideon Tuesday night when the new community building was officially opened, were: Mr. and Mrs. Will Sikes, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lindley, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Tanner, Miss Lucy Godsey, Miss Marjorie Cutrell, Reginald Potashnick, Ernest Harper, Herman Henry, Byron Bowman, Orlando Arthur, Charles Blanton, Billie Smith, Charles and Harold Hebbeler, George Dye, and Bedford Burks.

Jackson — Jackson as a city Tuesday celebrated its 40th birthday as it was on that date in 1885 that the first city officials were elected.

Kroger's, Herring bulk, per dozen, 30 cents; flour, Country Club, 98 pound sack, $4.69; salmon, tall can, pink, 23 cents; green onion, per bunch, 6 cents; pancake flour, Country Club, per pkg., 10 cents; cream cheese, finest kind, 33 cents; oleo, Good Luck, 28 cents; oysters, Cove, 20 cents; peas, No. 2 Std. can, 11 cents; and bread, whole wheat, 9 cents.

Mrs. Amanda Cobb died of complications Friday at her home in the east part of town. For more than a year she had been in ill health because of a paralytic stroke she had suffered.

It is with regrets that we hear Mrs. Archie Scales of Dexter, formerly Miss Hyacinth Sheppard, is quite ill from a gland affliction. She was brought to the home of her mother, Mrs. J. N. Sheppard, in this city Monday morning.

A number of friends gave Mrs. Frank Dye a birthday surprise Saturday night. Mrs. Dye was the recipient of many nice gifts.

John Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bowman, who has pneumonia, is reported to have passed the crisis and yesterday morning was little below normal.

20 years ago
April 8, 1945

Dr. A. A. Mayfield, Sikeston's staunch friend and a friend to many, many people in all walks of life in Southeast Missouri, died early Sunday morning of a heart ailment with which he had been suffering for more than a year.

One of the greatest needs at the Sikeston General Hospital was filled yesterday afternoon when a baby incubator was received and set up by the hospital's superintendent, Otto Mundorf. Also to be received soon is a new anesthesia machine, by which patients may be administered anesthetics through a mask.

The Rev. R. M. Talbert, pastor of the Sikeston Christian Church for past several years, was retained for the coming year at a meeting of the church's official board this week.

Mrs. John Watts is the proud possessor of a beautiful rose which bloomed at her home on Moore avenue yesterday. The venturesome bloom defied treacherous April weather.

Dear Editor:
I think I have a very important 'news flash' for Conservatives. Information has come to me that the Studebaker Corporation, 635 S. Main Street, South Bend 27, Indiana, intends to advertise in The American Mercury in the near future.

Please verify the rumor before sending it along. I suggest that you contact your nearest Studebaker dealer.

I went to a dealer and looked at the beautiful 1965 model. It is one of the most beautiful cars I've seen, and Studebaker has always been a good dependable automobile. I was involved in the auto business for many years, and I've always had respect for their product.

Sincerely
George Spriestersbach

Dear Charlie:
Before this morning gets a minute older, I want to thank you most sincerely for your courtesy in sending to us a copy of your 10th Annual Progress edition. You and all your good people can well be mighty proud of your effort in putting out this most unusual and well-prepared edition.

In turning the pages through the entire edition, I found many items of interest and was truly impressed with the apparent progress your area has made recently. The picture stories were presented in a most pleasing and interesting manner and combined to give your special edition a good balance.

Again, many thanks for your courtesy.

With all good wishes and sincerely,

To The Editor:
A TEST FOR ADULTS AND STUDENTS

1. Throughout history -- has Government ALWAYS been the greatest enemy of man's freedoms?

2. Throughout centuries of history in God's Holy Bible -- and succeeding history -- down to the always Socialist - States of Europe, that the Pilgrims fled from -- were ALL people subjected to bondage or abject slavery -- by confiscatory taxes and force -- imposed upon them by ruthless, Socialist-State Rulers or groups?

3. Do you know that "Socialism" simply defined -- is the imposition upon a people, of bondage or slavery, by confiscatory taxes and force?

4. Did our Founding Fathers give their fortunes and lives -- in the Revolutionary War to eliminate bondage -- leading to abject slavery -- forced upon them with confiscatory taxes and force -- by Socialist King George III?

5. Do you know -- that it is impossible, for ANY Government, to have a single dollar, to give to the people -- let alone millions and billions -- until it FIRST takes it away from the people by taxes -- or mortgages the possessions of ALL of the people -- represented by Government bonds -- which the Government prints and sells to some of the people -- and when the people won't buy as much as the Government wants to spend -- it prints and sells billions of more bonds to the banks of the country -- who buy the bonds with the peoples' deposits? Do you know that ALL of the possessions -- of ALL our people -- are already mortgaged for $316,000,000,000? Do you know that this mammouth, incomprehensible amount of Government bonds -- ARE NOTES, that our people MUST PAY WITH TAXES -- OR REPUDIATE -- which means national bankruptcy? Government doesn't have a dime.

6. Can you define a Gold-Standard? Do you know, that throughout ALL history -- EVERY empire or country that destroyed its gold-standard -- eventually ended up in bankruptcy and chaos -- and became a has-been country? Do you know that a substantial percentage of gold -- in the vaults of a country -- for the specific purpose of redeeming ALL Government bonds and currency -- in gold, at maturity -- is the ONLY curb against unlimited, satanical, deficit-spending -- and insurance against eventual national bankruptcy? Do you know the name of our trusted President -- who destroyed America's gold-standard in 1934 -- and the names of your trusted Congressmen who rubber-stamped that unconstitutional Gold-Reserve, so-called law?

7. Do you know that our U.S. Constitution -- evolved by our religious, freedom-extremist, Founding Fathers -- is the ONLY man-made, slavery-preventing, laws in ALL history? Do you know that our elected politicians -- from Presidents down -- have ignored -- and destroyed it -- in just the last 30 odd years?

8. Do you know why our Founding Fathers warned against entanglements with any and all foreign empires or countries? Because -- their studies of centuries of history -- contained in God's Holy Bible -- and succeeding history -- down to the always Socialist-State-ridden countries of Europe, that the Pilgrims, power-hungry, politicians -- who utilized vassal, politician Governors, Judges, Clergymen and a hord of yes-men, non-producing, patronage job-holders - to enforce bondage and abject slavery upon the people, by confiscatory taxes and force? ALL Socialist-State Rulers of ALL countries -- are ONLY interested in their own, personal power, aggrandizement and material gain. Can you define The Monroe Doctrine? Are you worried -- about atomic missiles and planes -- that can destroy millions with one blast -- poised upon our back door-step -- in Cuba? Can you read and write? Have you written your President and Congressmen to drive Russia off our back yard? Would you -- like our Forefathers -- prefer death over slavery?

9. Do you know that our Christian, patriotic Founding Fathers -- were the ONLY group of politicians IN ALL history -- that were not interested in slavery - control over people? That's why they made each State - a Republic -- with ALL powers unto itself -- and limited the Federal Government to mostly, protection from, and trade with foreign countries.

10. Do you know -- that States' Rights have been nearly destroyed in the last thirty odd years -- and that EVERY program of the "New Society" is pointed to its TOTAL DESTRUCTION?

For every one of the above 10 questions that you can answer "YES" -- or agree with definitions given -- rate yourself 10 points. 100 points will rate you a God-fearing, American Patriot -- like our Founding Fathers. From zero to 80 points -- will show the degree that you have been brain-washed, back to the Socialist-State form of Government -- by a new hord of ambitious, power-hungry, Socialist-State-believing Politicians, Labor-Leaders, Clergymen, businessmen hungry for profits from Government contracts, Socialist - Russia infiltrators, anti-American followers -- and others.

Today's Spanish Lesson

Lesson No. 39
Reading time 5 Min.
Study time 5 Min.

Here are the days of the week:
A) Monday; B) lunes; C) LOO-ness; A) Tuesday; B) martes; C) MAR-tess; A) Wednesday; B) miercoles; C) me-AIR-coless.

A) Thursday; B) jueves; C) WAY-vess; A) Friday; B) viernes; C) ve-AIR-ness; A) Saturday; B) sabado; C) SAH-bah-doe; A) Sunday; B) domingo; C) doe-MING-go.

NOTE: In Spanish the days of the week, months of the year and seasons are not capitalized.

The seasons of the year are:
A) Spring; B) primavera; C) pre-mah-VAIR-ah; A) Summer; B) verano; C) vay-RAH-no.

A) Autumn; B) otono; C) oh-TONE-yo; A) Winter; B) invierno; C) een-ve-AIR-no.

Be sure that you put these words to memory by using them in sentences, such as:

A) Monday is the day to work; B) Lunes es el dia para trabajar; C) LOO-ness/s/l/DE-ah/-Par-Ah/trah-bah-HAHR.

A) In the summer we are going to play, B) En el varano vamos a jugar; C) en/l/vay-RAH-no/-VAH-mos/ah/who-GAR.

A) Saturday I am going to play golf; B) El sabado yo voy a jugar golf; C) l/SAH/bah-doe/-yo/voy/ah/who-GAR/golf.

A) Sunday we are going to church; B) El domingo vamos a la iglesia; C) l/doe-MING-go/-VAH - mos /ah/lah/e -GLAY-see-ah.

A) Tuesday I am going to rent a house; B) El martes yo voy a rentar una casa; C) l/MAR-tess/ yo/ voy/ah/rain-TAR/-OON-ah/CAH-sah.

Now look at these words:

programa, epigrama, monograma, telegrama, cablegrama, diagrama, idioma, emblema.

No one has to tell you what these Spanish words are. You already know them. The "key" is: If the English word ends in 'AM' or 'EM', just add the letter 'A', use the Spanish vowel sounds; and you have increased your vocabulary tremendously.

Tomorrow we will give you the months of the year and another word "key".

FAMILY FOOTNOTE

As the family was getting ready to drive to church for Confession, I went upstairs to see what was detaining our small son Robert. Puzzled, I stopped to listen to a mumbling which came from his room.

Suddenly he put his head out the door and said, "Be right with you, mom! I was just rehearsing my sins." — Olive Johnson

Mrs. Amanda Cobb died of complications Friday at her home in the east part of town. For more than a year she had been in ill health because of a paralytic stroke she had suffered.

It is with regrets that we hear Mrs. Archie Scales of Dexter, formerly Miss Hyacinth Sheppard, is quite ill from a gland affliction. She was brought to the home of her mother, Mrs. J. N. Sheppard, in this city Monday morning.

A number of friends gave Mrs. Frank Dye a birthday surprise Saturday night. Mrs. Dye was the recipient of many nice gifts.

John Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bowman, who has pneumonia, is reported to have passed the crisis and yesterday morning was little below normal.

Dr. A. A. Mayfield, Sikeston's staunch friend and a friend to many, many people in all walks of life in Southeast Missouri, died early Sunday morning of a heart ailment with which he had been suffering for more than a year.

One of the greatest needs at the Sikeston General Hospital was filled yesterday afternoon when a baby incubator was received and set up by the hospital's superintendent, Otto Mundorf. Also to be received soon is a new anesthesia machine, by which patients may be administered anesthetics through a mask.

The Rev. R. M. Talbert, pastor of the Sikeston Christian Church for past several years, was retained for the coming year at a meeting of the church's official board this week.

Mrs. John Watts is the proud possessor of a beautiful rose which bloomed at her home on Moore avenue yesterday. The venturesome bloom defied treacherous April weather.

Dear Editor:

I think I have a very important 'news flash' for Conservatives. Information has come to me that the Studebaker Corporation, 635 S. Main Street, South Bend 27, Indiana, intends to advertise in The American Mercury in the near future.

Please verify the rumor before sending it along. I suggest that you contact your nearest Studebaker dealer.

I went to a dealer and looked at the beautiful 1965 model. It is one of the most beautiful cars I've seen, and Studebaker has always been a good dependable automobile. I was involved in the auto business for many years, and I've always had respect for their product.

Sincerely

Dear Charlie:

Before this morning gets a minute older, I want to thank you most sincerely for your courtesy in sending to us a copy of your 10th Annual Progress edition. You and all your good people can well be mighty proud of your effort in putting out this most unusual and well-prepared edition.

In turning the pages through the entire edition, I found many items of interest and was truly impressed with the apparent progress your area has made recently. The picture stories were presented in a most pleasing and interesting manner and combined to give your special edition a good balance.

Again, many thanks for your courtesy.

With all good wishes and sincerely,

To The Editor:

A TEST FOR ADULTS AND STUDENTS

1. Throughout history -- has Government ALWAYS been the greatest enemy of man's freedoms?

2. Throughout centuries of history in God's Holy Bible -- and succeeding history -- down to the always Socialist - States of Europe, that the Pilgrims fled from -- were ALL people subjected to bondage or abject slavery -- by confiscatory taxes and force -- imposed upon them by ruthless, Socialist-State Rulers or groups?

3. Do you know that "Socialism" simply defined -- is the imposition upon a people, of bondage or slavery, by confiscatory taxes and force?

4. Did our Founding Fathers give their fortunes and lives -- in the Revolutionary War to eliminate bondage -- leading to abject slavery -- forced upon them with confiscatory taxes and force -- by Socialist King George III?

5. Do you know -- that it is impossible, for ANY Government, to have a single dollar, to give to the people -- let alone millions and billions -- until it FIRST takes it away from the people by taxes -- or mortgages the possessions of ALL of the people -- represented by Government bonds -- which the Government prints and sells to some of the people -- and when the people won't buy as much as the Government wants to spend -- it prints and sells billions of more bonds to the banks of the country -- who buy the bonds with the peoples' deposits? Do you know that ALL of the possessions -- of ALL our people -- are already mortgaged for $316,000,000,000? Do you know that this mammouth, incomprehensible amount of Government bonds -- ARE NOTES, that our people MUST PAY WITH TAXES -- OR REPUDIATE -- which means national bankruptcy? Government doesn't have a dime.

6. Can you define a Gold-Standard? Do you know, that throughout ALL history -- EVERY empire or country that destroyed its gold-standard -- eventually ended up in bankruptcy and chaos -- and became a has-been country? Do you know that a substantial percentage of gold -- in the vaults of a country -- for the specific purpose of redeeming ALL Government bonds and currency -- in gold, at maturity -- is the ONLY curb against unlimited, satanical, deficit-spending -- and insurance against eventual national bankruptcy? Do you know the name of our trusted President -- who destroyed America's gold-standard in 1934 -- and the names of your trusted Congressmen who rubber-stamped that unconstitutional Gold-Reserve, so-called law?

7. Do you know that our U.S. Constitution -- evolved by our religious, freedom-extremist, Founding Fathers -- is the ONLY man-made, slavery-preventing, laws in ALL history? Do you know that our elected politicians -- from Presidents down -- have ignored -- and destroyed it -- in just the last 30 odd years?

8. Do you know why our Founding Fathers warned against entanglements with any and all foreign empires or countries? Because -- their studies of centuries of history -- contained in God's Holy Bible -- and succeeding history -- down to the always Socialist-State-ridden countries of Europe, that the Pilgrims, power-hungry, politicians -- who utilized vassal, politician Governors, Judges, Clergymen and a hord of yes-men, non-producing, patronage jobholders - to enforce bondage and abject slavery upon the people, by confiscatory taxes and force? ALL Socialist-State Rulers of ALL countries -- are ONLY interested in their own, personal power, aggrandizement and material gain. Can you define The Monroe Doctrine? Are you worried -- about atomic missiles and planes -- that can destroy millions with one blast -- poised upon our back door-step -- in Cuba? Can you read and write? Have you written your President and Congressmen to drive Russia off our back yard? Would you -- like our Forefathers -- prefer death over slavery?

9. Do you know that our Christian, patriotic Founding Fathers -- were the ONLY group of politicians IN ALL history -- that were not interested in slavery - control over people? That's why they made each State - a Republic -- with ALL powers unto itself -- and limited the Federal Government to mostly, protection from, and trade with foreign countries.

10. Do you know -- that States' Rights have been nearly destroyed in the last thirty odd years -- and that EVERY program of the "New Society" is pointed to its TOTAL DESTRUCTION?

For every one of the above 10 questions that you can answer "YES" -- or agree with definitions given -- rate yourself 10 points. 100 points will rate you a God-fearing, American Patriot -- like our Founding Fathers. From zero to 80 points -- will show the degree that you have been brain-washed, back to the Socialist-State form of Government -- by a new hord of ambitious, power-hungry, Socialist-State-believing Politicians, Labor-Leaders, Clergymen, businessmen hungry for profits from Government contracts, Socialist - Russia infiltrators, anti-American followers -- and others.

Today's Spanish Lesson

Lesson No. 39
Reading time 5 Min.
Study time 5 Min.

Here are the days of the week:

A) Monday; B) lunes; C) LOO-ness; A) Tuesday; B) martes; C) MAR-tess; A) Wednesday; B) miercoles; C) me-AIR-coless.

A) Thursday; B) jueves; C) WAY-vess; A) Friday; B) viernes; C) ve-AIR-ness; A) Saturday; B) sabado; C) SAH-bah-doe; A) Sunday; B) domingo; C) doe-MING-go.

NOTE: In Spanish the days of the week, months of the year and seasons are not capitalized.

The seasons of the year are:

A) Spring; B) primavera; C) pre-mah-VAIR-ah; A) Summer; B) verano; C) vay-RAH-no.

A) Autumn; B) otono; C) oh-TONE-yo; A) Winter; B) invierno; C) een-ve-AIR-no.

Be sure that you put these words to memory by using them in sentences, such as:

A) Monday is the day to work; B) Lunes es el dia para trabajar; C) LOO-ness/s/1/DE-ah/-Par-Ah/trah-bah-HAHR.

A) In the summer we are going to play; B) En el varano vamos a jugar; C) en/1/vay-RAH-no/-VAH-mos/ah/who-GAR.

A) Saturday I am going to play golf; B) El sabado yo voy a jugar golf; C) 1/SAH/bah-doe/-yo/voy/ah/who-GAR/golf.

A) Sunday we are going to church; B) El domingo vamos a la iglesia; C) 1/doe-MING-go/-VAH - mos /ah/lah/e -GLAY-see-ah.

A) Tuesday I am going to rent a house; B) El martes yo voy a rentar una casa; C) 1/MAR-tess/ yo/ voy/ah/rain-TAR/-OON-ah/CAH-sah.

Now look at these words:

programa, epigrama, monograma, telegrama, cablegrama, problema, diagrama, idioma, emblema.

No one has to tell you what these Spanish words are. You already know them. The "key" is: If the English word ends in 'AM' or 'EM', just add the letter 'A', use the Spanish vowel sounds; and you have increased your vocabulary tremendously.

Tomorrow we will give you the months of the year and another word "key".

FAMILY FOOTNOTE

As the family was getting ready to drive to church for Confession, I went upstairs to see what was detaining our small son Robert. Puzzled, I stopped to listen to a mumbling which came from his room.

Suddenly he put his head out the door and said, "Be right with you, mom! I was just rehearsing my sins." — Olive Johnson

Spring Marks Opening Of Home Buying Season

By Dan Whittle

Spring is traditionally the big home buying season, and this spring is no different. In selecting homes, people and their ideas vary as much as daylight and dark.

Some want on a hill, some want wide-open spaces, some want small closed-in quarters, but all want all that can be had for the least amount of expense.

With the thought in mind about making, usually the largest investment of your life, just what do you look for to insure that you are getting the most for your dollars? And how do you go about financing your dwelling?

In looking at a possible selection, the location is a prime factor. It's for sure that you do not want to purchase a home that is a lot more expensive than the surrounding dwellings. Also, look at the proximity of schools, churches, and shopping centers. They can play a very important part as to the value of your selection, presently, and often times more important, future value. Naturally, the structure is checked over, as to the wiring facilities, plumbing, termites, etc.

Too, you have to take into consideration the conveniences, such as to the second largest investment of your life, the automobile. If no port or garage is available, can one be added, or is there convenient parking on hand?

Another important thing is the selection of a realtor. Although it is no must, for most of them are alright, you should know him personally and know that he is interested in you personally. In other words, can you trust him?

Last, but we all know for sure that it is not least, are the finances and arrangements that can be made. Of course it is best for an individual to pay out right cash, but how many can do that? Not many, so do the next best thing, and that is get a loan. There are several types that should be checked out one by one before purchase is made. The FHA Loan, sponsored by the Federal Government, is one that is available. They have men on the job that are specifically trained to check a man and his assets personally before the loan is put into effect. Then comes the Conventional Loan, where you do business with the loan company only. Last, but certainly a blessing for many, is the V. A. Loan for veterans.

One difference in FHA Loans and Conventional Loans is the amount of red tape. Conventional loans do not have all the red tape that the FHA Loan does.

Before you make any transaction, check each type of loan and the advantages that they offer you. They all have different advantages for different persons.

House Approving Money Bills

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The House moved briskly ahead today in approving appropriations committee money bills carrying $5583 million in general revenue and state funds.

They do not include several hundred million in federal allotments.

Republican members tried to make some changes in the bills but the lopsided Democratic majority shouted them down.

On the first four bills only one amendment was adopted and it was the only one offered by a Democrat.

Rep. Thomas A. Walsh, D-St. Louis, got an increase of $18,000 for the industrial commission on his declaration the commission needs more money to do its job of protecting the workingman.

At the outset, Rep. R. J. King, R-St. Louis County, tried in vain to amend the bills so that if the apportionment job is not done as the federal courts have ordered and there is no legislature legally authorized to act next year the same appropriations would stand enacted for the 1966-67 fiscal year.

Rep. Bernard (Doc) Simcoe, D-Callaway County, appropriations committee chairman, and other Democrats opposed the amendment as an effort to coerce the federal court into accepting any apportionment solution Missouri might come up with.

The amendment was defeated 19-126 and King decided not to try to amend any other bills.

The first bill whipped through without discussion. It provides $5,471,068 to pay interest on the state's bonded indebtedness, including the $75 million second state building bond issue for capital improvements.

The second bill, providing $7,395,444 for the Department of education for educational purposes, also went through without change.

The bill authorizes state aid to public education but does not specify the amount. The estimated cost of state aid in the coming school year will be $131 million.

Also advanced unscathed despite several amendment efforts was a bill providing $26,949,541 for operation of the big Department of Revenue.

It was the next bill, providing $171,406,875 for the elective offices, most state departments and the judiciary, on which Walsh managed to tack the successful amendment.

A bill appropriating $46,832,092 for the operations of mental hospitals and correctional institutions also got through without amendment.

King was beaten once more, this time in his effort to add $125,000 in state aid for St. Louis County hospital, at the rate of $15 a day for each severe psychiatric case it handles.

Income Tax Questions And Answers

Q- To help make ends meet, I've been adding to my regular income from wages by selling and installing storm windows. I have no shop or office. I just buy the windows and then sell and install them. Do I add what I make to my other income or must I file a Schedule "C"?

A-A Schedule "C" is required since the income from your part time job is considered self - employment income. Schedule C permits you to list whatever costs and expenses are involved in your business so that tax need be paid just on your profits.

Q-I am 57 years old, and I retired on disability last year after 30 years of employment with the U. S. government. Is my disability money taxable?

A-Under the rules that apply to U. S. Civil Service employees, you have the right to retire at age 60 with 30 years of service. Therefore, since you are under 60, your pension qualifies as sick pay and up to $100 per week may be deductible from income. The pension received after you reach 60 will be considered an annuity and will be taxed as such. Of course, different employers may have different age and length-of- service requirements for normal retirement.

Q-When will I get my refund? I filed early in January.

A-Generally, the processing of a refundable return filed early takes about six weeks if the return is in order and is not selected for audit. No inquiry should be made before 8 weeks.

Q-I went into your office last week because I was having trouble filling out my return. The person I spoke to was helpful but would not fill out the form for me. He helped me to complete it. You used to fill them out for people. Why have you changed?

A-For the past several years taxpayer assistance personnel have concentrated on helping taxpayers fill forms out themselves rather than doing it for them. We believe this is a more effective use of our manpower resources. When a taxpayer is incapable of filling out his own return then we will fill out the form.

Q-What does the term gross income mean?

A- Any income that is not specifically exempted from the income tax is gross income. Tax exempt income such as a Social Security pension is not taxable and should not be included and excluded.

Q-My 16 year old son has a job in a drug store after school. Should we include his income with ours when filing a tax return?

A-No. You should never report the income of a dependent child or other dependents on your return. If your son had $600 or more of gross income he must file his own return. If his gross income is less than $600 and tax was withheld he should file a return anyway to get a refund of the amount withheld.

Q-I have medical expenses to report. Do I have to use the expense statement you have had printed?

A-No you don't. However, Form 2948 should be most helpful to taxpayers claiming this deduction. If you don't use the form, be sure that the statement you do send in contains the necessary information for a complete accounting of your expenses.

Q-Is it permissible for business partners to file a joint return?

A-No. The partnership will have to file a partnership return Form 1065. Each partner also has to file his own individual return, Form 1040, if he meets the filing requirements.

SQUEEZE PLAY—A worm's eye camera angle gives the impression that this jockey and horse are trying to take a short cut under the railing. The bent supporting posts at New York's recently opened Aqueduct race track aid the queer illusion.

Income Tax Questions And Answers

Q- To help make ends meet, I've been adding to my regular income from wages by selling and installing storm windows. I have no shop or office. I just buy the windows and then sell and install them. Do I add what I make to my other income or must I file a Schedule "C"?

A-A Schedule "C" is required since the income from your part time job is considered self - employment income. Schedule C permits you to list whatever costs and expenses are involved in your business so that tax need be paid just on your profits.

Q-I am 57 years old, and I retired on disability last year after 30 years of employment with the U. S. government. Is my disability money taxable?

A-Under the rules that apply to U. S. Civil Service employees, you have the right to retire at age 60 with 30 years of service. Therefore, since you are under 60, your pension qualifies as sick pay and up to $100 per week may be deductible from income. The pension received after you reach 60 will be considered an annuity and will be taxed as such. Of course, different employers may have different age and length-of- service requirements for normal retirement.

Q-When will I get my refund? I filed early in January.

A-Generally, the processing of a refundable return filed early takes about six weeks if the return is in order and is not selected for audit. No inquiry should be made before 8 weeks.

Q-I went into your office last week because I was having trouble filling out my return. The person I spoke to was helpful but would not fill out the form for me. He helped me to complete it. You used to fill them out for people. Why have you changed?

A-For the past several years taxpayer assistance personnel have concentrated on helping taxpayers fill forms out themselves rather than doing it for them. We believe this is a more effective use of our manpower resources. When a taxpayer is incapable of filling out his own return then we will fill out the form.

Q-What does the term gross income mean?

A- Any income that is not specifically exempted from the income tax is gross income. Tax exempt income such as a Social Security pension is not taxable and should not be included and excluded.

Q-My 16 year old son has a job in a drug store after school. Should we include his income with ours when filing a tax return?

A-No. You should never report the income of a dependent child or other dependents on your return. If your son had $600 or more of gross income he must file his own return. If his gross income is less than $600 and tax was withheld he should file a return anyway to get a refund of the amount withheld.

Q-I have medical expenses to report. Do I have to use the expense statement you have had printed?

A-No you don't. However, Form 2948 should be most helpful to taxpayers claiming this deduction. If you don't use the form, be sure that the statement you do send in contains the necessary information for a complete accounting of your expenses.

Q-Is it permissible for business partners to file a joint return?

A-No. The partnership will have to file a partnership return Form 1065. Each partner also has to file his own individual return, Form 1040, if he meets the filing requirements.

Use Of Urea Lowers Gain Cost In Cattle Rations

COLUMBIA, Mo., Apr. 2 — In research at the University of Missouri, the cost of gain was reduced when urea, instead of soybean meal, was used to supply the protein in high energy cattle rations, G. B. Thompson said here today.

Thompson, MU associate professor of animal husbandry, speaking during Livestock Day on the University of Missouri campus, said that another part of this research compared urea and soybean meal, each fed with sudan hay that contained a high level (3.5 per cent) of potassium nitrate. Thus, the compatibility of high urea with high nitrate was tested.

He stated that during the first phase of the test, two steers in the group fed urea died from nitrate poisoning; the remaining urea-fed cattle apparently adjusted to the high nitrate feed. No losses occurred among the cattle fed soybean meal.

After the initial phase, cattle were removed from the high nitrate forage for 10 days — but remained on either high urea or the soybean supplement. All steers were then returned to high nitrate forage. In this period, slightly more evidence of nitrate toxicity was noted in cattle fed the soybean supplement than the high urea supplement; no deaths occurred.

No distinct advantage in performance was noted for either supplement, according to Thompson.

In comparing the high urea supplement containing 70 per cent non-protein nitrogen, and soybean meal supplement, beef steers on a full feed of good corn silage or ground ear corn, the supplements were equal.

However, the cost of gain was less with the urea supplement.

But, when a full feed of a lower energy ration — hybrid forage sorghum silage — was fed, the soybean supplement was superior.

When the ration fed contained sufficient energy to produce 1½ pounds or higher daily gain per head, a 40 per cent protein mixture. They were equal as measured by gains and feed efficiency of beef calves used in the research.

Results of the two feeding trials, said Thompson, indicate that the energy level of the ration is an important consideration when deciding whether or not to use a high urea supplement or a vegetable protein supplement. The energy level needs to be realtively high when urea is fed.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Tuck in those shirttails, gird that waist and swing that skirt. This, in capsule form, is the order of the day from the Paris collections for spring 1965. The overblouse is gone. Suit blouses are tucked into waistbands and the waistline leather belted. Full, swingy skirts replace the slim line of past seasons. • Everything is feminine and pretty. Hemlines still hover about the knees, with the added interest of ruffles and flounces. Neck-lines are higher than last year and there were no shockers. • The "little girl" look, pleated skirt, short jacket, large hat at the back of a fluffy hairdo and baby-heeled, one-strap shoes predominated. But there were sophisti-cated, elegant ensembles at Chanel, Dior and Molyneux that will please women of any age. There were no trouser suits. • Navy is the leading daytime color, often brightened with touches of white. Another sure hit is a new ger-anium pink. Chiffon and organdy contribute their feminine touch to the evening scene, and a new evening length by Chanel stops between the calf and ankle. • The long and short of the Paris picture this year can be summed up as an orgy of pleats, flying panels, ruffles, big hats and short skirts—everything strictly for the girls.

To Hang Kansas Most Bloody And Baffling Multiple Murders

By EDL. CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Kan. AP --On a Sunday morning in mid-November, 1959, two high school girls ran up to the home of a classmate whom they were to accompany to church. Moments later they ran screaming from the house.

They had discovered one of Kansas' most bloody and baffling multiple murders-the knife and shotgun slayings of wealthy wheat grower Herbert Wesley Clutter, his wife and their two teen-age children.

On Wednesday, April 14, two men convicted of those crimes are scheduled to hang in the Kansas prison here. It is their fifth date with the executioner and marks the end of a legal battle that has taken them three times to the Supreme Court of the United States.

The men are Perry Edward Hickock of Edgerton, Kan. They were petty crooks, serving short terms for writing bad checks, when they met in this same prison in 1959. Smith was then 28, Hickock 31. Smith was paroled that July; Hickock a month later.

Some time that fall they got together and on the night of Nov. 14, just after the Clutters had retired, they slipped into the home on the outskirts of the small community of Holcomb, seven miles west of Garden City in far western Kansas. They carried a shotgun, a hunting knife, a flashlight, lengths of nylon cord and a roll of adhesive tape. Their chief objective was a non-existent safe in which they believed Clutter kept huge sums.

But only Smith and Hickock knew those facts.

When officers arrived, all they found were four bodies. And two strange footprints. No weapons. Not even a sign of robbery although it developed the killers had stolen about $50 cash, a portable radio and a pair of binoculars-leaving behind small sums of money and some jewelry.

The 48-year-old Clutter, one-time president of the National Wheat Growers Association and a 1954-55 member of the Federal Farm Credit Board, was sprawled on a mattress in the basement, his throat slashed and a shotgun charge fired into his head. He wore pajamas. His hands were bound with cord, his mouth taped shut.

In an adjoining room, 14-year-old Kenyon Neal Clutter, also bound, gagged and shot in the head, was sprawled on a couch.

On the second floor, in separate bedrooms, were the bodies of Bonnie Mae Clutter, 45, and Nancy Mae, 15. Mrs. Clutter was bound and gagged. Nancy only bound. Each had been shot in the head.

The clues were the footprints --one of a shoe on the bloody mattress, the other of a boot on the dusty floor near the boy's body.

Church money was laid out on a bedside table. Valuable jewelry was undisturbed.

The Kansas Bureau of Investigation went to work. More than 700 "tips" were sifted. Most were useless.

Suddenly on Dec. 28 at Las Vegas, Nev., Smith and Hickock were arrested. Within a week Hickock dictated a confession and two days later Smith orally admitted his part in the crimes.

The two were returned to Garden City and brought to trial March 22, 1960. They were convicted March 29 and sentenced to hang. The hangings were first set for May 13, 1960, but defense attorneys started a series of legal battles that resulted in the executions being reset for Oct. 25, 1962; Aug. 8, 1963; Feb. 18, 1965; and then for April 14, 1965.

The Kansas Supreme Court, two U. S. district courts, the federal Circuit Court of Appeals at Denver and the Supreme Court of the United States were asked at various times to save the men. Each refused, some more than once. The nation's highest tribunal three times refused to even review the case.

The courts decided the men had received fair trials, news media coverage had not prejudiced their changes of acquittal, court - appointed lawyers had given them adequate representation. The tightly woven net of evidence upon which they were convicted was never assailted.

That net was woven by other KBI under its Director Logan Sanford with Garden City agent Al Dewey as his chief assistant. Key to it was one of the 700 tips-a strange, almost unbelievable story from inside the penitentiary.

William Floyd Wells of Oswego, Kan., serving a burglary sentence, told it to a friend; the friend told a prison official; the official relayed it to the KBI.

Wells recalled that for about a month that summer he and Hickock had been cellmates. Wells told Hickock that several years earlier, while working as a harvest hand on the Clutter farm, he had learned that Clutter was extremely wealthy and kept large sums in a safe at his home. "Why that man would handle $10,000 in one day", he said. What Wells did not know was that the Clutters had moved to a new home and it had no safe. Nor did Clutter ever carry more than $50 or $60 in cash.

Wells said Hickock displayed great interest in the story, commenting he would like to rob such a place and, if he did, would "leave no witnesses."

The KBI was skeptical. A convict's unsupported yarn is likely to be 90 per cent imagination.

But just about that time a routine Kansas City, Mo., police circular reached Sanford's desk. It reported Hickock had fallen into his old habit of writing bad checks and had passed one Nov. 21. The circular said he was accompanied by Smith.

Sanford started some checking. From Hickock's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hickock at Edgerton, he learned the men had been there early Nov. 14, picking up the shotgun and hunting knife and telling a bold story of going to collect a large sum of money.

A KBI agent was sent to Las Vegas, Reno, Elko and Carson City, Nev., and to San Francisco, all known hangouts of Smith. There he enlisted the aid of local police. Other agents, picking up the trail with the bad check in Kansas City followed the two to Mexico City from where they had mailed a bundle of clothing, addressed to themselves, to Las Vegas.

On Dec. 28, the pair picked up this bundle at the Las Vegas postoffice. Thirty minutes later they were under arrest. In the bundle were found a shoe that matched the print on the bloody mattress, a boot that matched the print in the dust. The shoe was Smith's; the boot was Hickock's.

The pair broke quickly. Hickock dictated his confession Jan. 3 and signed it. Smith told his story two days later.

The KBI went after more corroborative evidence. From a pawnshop in Mexico City it recovered the radio and binoculars. Burning away four acres of weeds and stripping the earth with a grade so it could be sifted, it found buried along a road near the Clutter home four empty shotgun shells, pieces of nylon cord and the rest of the roll of adhesive tape. The shotgun and knife were found in the Hickock home at Edgerton.

At the trial, the crime was recounted:

When Hickock and Smith entered the home late that fatal Saturday night, they searched in vain for the safe. Clutter was asleep in his first floor bedroom. They awakened him and demanded money. He gave them $40 and $50 cash and told them there was no more. They took him upstairs, aroused the other Clutters, locked all four in a bathroom while they again searched the house.

Finding nothing, they returned and removed the Clutters one by one from the bathroom.

When Mrs. Clutter protested she had been ill and was tired standing, Hickock brought her a chair. Because the basement floor was cold, Smith spread the mattress for Clutter. When the boy complained he was uncomfortable, Hickock put pillows under his head. When Hick suggested raping the girl, Smith gallantly forbade it.

Then they returned to Clutter and Smith slashed the wheat grower's throat. Hickock took the knife and stabbed the man twice. As they turned to leave, Smith said "that's a hell of a way to leave a fellow" and shot the wounded man in the head. Smith then shot the boy and gave the shotgun to Hickock, saying he could do no more.

Upstairs they entered Nancy's room. Smith held the flashlight on her and as she begged "Oh, please don't", Hickock shot her in the head. He then killed Mrs. Clutter in like manner.

The fruitless crime was over. The witnesses were dead. Hickock and Smith began to cover their trail.

When they were arrested seven weeks later they were dumbfounded. Where had they slipped up? They had followed the case in the press and on the radio. The police kept saying they had no clues. What happened?

They found out as the story was spun out to the jury that long week in March. The jury was quick to reach its decision: death by hanging.

The next five years were long. Smith staged a four months hunger strike in 1960. Both he and Hickock, impatient with their attorneys, wrote individual appeals to the courts. Various lawyers tried all legal avenues to win a reversal of the case. Nothing succeeded.

But the efforts continue. Just a week before the scheduled hangings attorneys were seeking to reopen the case in the district court at Garden City and also to obtain a clemency from Kansas Gov. William Avery. Avery refused to grant a 60-day reprieve on April 1 in order to give additional time for these moves, but will hear the clemency plea April 12. The district court has taken no action on a motion to set aside the convictions on grounds that various constitutional rights of the men were violated in the handling of their case.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (FHTNC) March 31 — Seaman Recruit James D. Morman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Morman of 1004 Fannetta St., Dexter, Mo., has begun nine weeks of Navy basic training at the U.S. Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

In the first weeks of his naval service he will study military subjects and live and work under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

In making the transition from civilian to sailor he will be taught and supervised by experienced Navy petty officers. They will teach him the basic skills of seamanship as well as survival techniques, military drill and other basic subjects.

On completion of his recruit training he will be assigned to a school, shore station or ship, according to the results of his Navy classification tests, his own desires and the needs of the Navy.

USS MARS (AFS-1) (FHTNC) April 1 — Seaman Charles D. Gaddis, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Basil S. Gaddis of 318 Kendall St., Sikeston, Mo., was awarded the Armed Forces Expeditionary Medal March 17, while serving aboard the combat stores ship USS Mars, operating out of Yokosuka, Japan.

The Mars, the Navy's first ship of its type, and the crew were awarded the decoration for "thirty days of direct logistical support of task force operations in the South China Sea."

During this period, the Mars replenished over 30 ships with 645 tons of foodstuffs, more than 200,000 gallons of fuel oil and more than 8,000 items ranging from tiny transistors to huge aircraft engines.

Leslie Douglas Ashley

LESLIE DOUGLAS ASHLEY, also known as: Douglas Ashley, Cookie Cordell, Edward Elizondo, Rose Goldberg, Ted Kipperman, C. D. LaMonte, Charles Scott, "Cookie", "Reene" and others.

FUGITIVE

UNLAWFUL INTERSTATE FLIGHT TO AVOID PROSECUTION - THEFT

Leslie Douglas Ashley, a mental hospital escapee, who may be dressed as a man or a woman and was once within hours of execution in the electric chair before reversal of his conviction for a brutal murder, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

He is currently charged in a Federal warrant with fleeing interstate to avoid prosecution for the theft of an automobile following his escape on October 6, 1964, from the maximum security ward of the Texas State Mental Hospital in San Antonio, Texas. He had been confined in this institution since being declared insane and was scheduled to remain in this hospital until such time as he could be declared mentally competent to be retried for a brutal murder that occurred in February, 1961.

Ashley and a female accomplice allegedly murdered a Houston real estate man on February 6, 1961. The victim was shot six times with a .22 caliber revolver and his body was then dragged from his office, feet first, placed in a car, driven to a field, doused with gasoline and ignited with a match to be burned to a cinder. The body was so badly burned the victim could only be identified through fingerprints.

The victim's car was transported from Houston to New York City where Ashley was apprehended by FBI Agents on February 26, 1961. At the time of this arrest, Ashley was dressed as a woman.

He was subsequently prosecuted in Houston, found guilty and sentenced to death in the electric chair, but this conviction was reversed on appeal. Ashley was later declared insane, though sane at the time of the murder, and committed to a mental institution. The female accomplice was found guilty of murder and sentenced to 6 years' confinement in Texas.

Ashley, who has worked as a female impersonator in night clubs catering to homosexuals, has a criminal record which began in 1955 when he was arrested by police in Los Angeles, California, on a sex delinquency charge.

In July, 1958, New York City police arrested him on an assault and robbery charge, and he was subsequently convicted of vagrancy while dressed as a female, fined and given a short jail sentence.

Leslie Douglas Ashley is a white American who was born at Hot Springs, Arkansas, on January 3, 1938. He is 5'9" tall, weighs 130 to 135 pounds, has a slender build, a fair, pock-marked complexion, brown eyes and reddish brown hair which may be dyed black or other colors. Asley has also worked as a photo colorer and photographic salesman. He has a scar on the inside of his right wrist, one on his left elbow and one on his right knee.

In addition to being known to closely associate with prostitutes and homosexuals, Ashley has frequently in the past dressed in women's clothing and may presently be disguished as a woman. In addition to dyed hair, Ashley may wear a wig. He is reportedly extremely effeminate in speech and actions, is a heavy smoker of cigarettes, likes to wear gaudy jewelry and is said to often carry a Bible and enjoy quoting passages from it.

Since Ashley escaped from a mental institution while awaiting retrial for a vicious murder in which the victim was shot six times and burned with gasoline, he should be considered armed and extremely dangerous.

Should you receive any information concerning the whereabouts of Leslie Douglas Ashley, you are requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be located on the first page of local telephone directories.

FINDING THE WAY

Guard the Rosebush

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Some years ago Walter Lippmann recounted the story of one of the last czars of Russia who came upon a sentry guarding a patch of weeds. He retraced his steps a few days later and spied the sentry at the same spot. The sentry did not know why he was there or what he was guarding. The captain of the guards did not know. No one knew.

Since the czar was a czar, he ordered a thorough research of the problem. Ultimately it was revealed that almost a century before, Catherine the Great had planted a rosebush at that spot. Not wanting it to be trampled she had ordered the guard. The rosebush died but no one remembered to cancel the sentry duty. History had come sweeping by. But still the sentry stood at attention by the weed patch.

Lippmann commented upon the story saying, "It is always difficult to know that a rosebush is dead and that you are guarding an empty place. This is particularly true of the hopes and fears which sweep across the modern world and for a time possess men's minds and govern their conduct."

Or change the metaphor. In a delightful little book which interprets some of the theological implications of the cartoon "Peanuts," the cartoonist, Mr. Schulz, discusses the obsession of Linus with his blanket: "Linus' affection for his blanket is a symbol of the things we cling to. What I am getting at, of course, is the adult's inability to give up habits which really should be given up.

"Not that I am completely against the idea that we have to cling to something. For once you accept Jesus, it does not mean that all your problems are automatically solved or that you will never be lonesome or unhappy again. How can you be happy all of the time if you are aware of the things that are going on around you? But some of the adult habits are ridiculous."

So the child who interprets happiness as a thumb and a blanket can become a man who still clings to an emotional satisfaction which is somewhat meaningless.

With these stories in mind, range the areas of debates in our cities and villages today. Many times the battle is over the wrong cause. Somebody is guarding the weed patch instead of the rosebush. Someone is clinging to the "thumb and blanket" when they ought to be confronting the real issues unafraid.

If we die for the wrong causes or hide behind some meaningless sentimentality, we'll fragment the forces for good instead of meeting the problems which beset us. It's no time to guard an empty place. It's no time to panic. It is a time to plant the rosebushes. It is a time to be certain that we aren't clinging to some old symbol of security instead of finding that delicious inner security of the unafraid.

The stories of the Old and New Testaments are filled with the active verbs of men and women who marched, tackled great issues and kept their eyes on the things that mattered most. In testing times someone may have to stand guard over the rosebush. Let's make certain it's there!

Farm Organizations Support 11 State Transportation Rates

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Leaders of national farm organizations say they'll support efforts by an 11-state Governor's Committee on Transportation Rates to help the grain procession industry in the Midwest.

The committee contends the industry is threatened by inequitable freight rates. It wants to restore traditional parity of rates on wheat and flour. Farm leaders gave their support after day-long discussions.

It was agreed the grain processing industry must first be in a position to tell the railroads just what it wants and needs. The job of providing this information was given to Ross L. Thorfinnson of Minneapolis, chairman of the National Grain Producers, Handlers and Processors Association.

Dr. James A. McCain, president of Kansas State University and chairman of the committee, said meetings will be held with railroads to seek a voluntary solution. Some railroads have asked to be called in.

The committee agreed removal of federal regulations of railroad rates would not be a solution. A resolution to this effect was adopted and will be sent to President Johnson.

The problem basically is that railroads are establishing freight rates on bulk grains that are lower than rates on processed products, the committee said. Gen. John P. Doyle of Texas A&M, who represents Texas on the committee, said:

"We're not about to sit idly by and watch our section of the country become a colony existing only to supply raw products to coastal areas."

Texas has lost half of its flour milling industry, he said.

John Anderson, in his last few days as Kansas governor, led the establishment of the committee to aid the flour milling industry, which has been moving from areas of wheat production to centers of flour consumption.

McCain said the committee now recognizes the problem also includes feed manufacturers, soybean processors, the malting industry and others.

Gov. William Avery of Kansas pledged his support, told of talks with the Interstate Commerce Commission and outlined procedure for a formal complaint to the ICC, if such action should be necessary.

The American Farm Bureau Federation was represented by Matt Trigg from Washington; the National Farmers Union by Charles F. Brannan, Denver; the National Grange by Charles Bolling, Washington; the National Farmers Organization by Gordon Schafer and Sam Hoffmeyer of Missouri; and Great Plains Wheat Inc. by Sam Freeman of Denver.

All 11 states—Kansas, Missouri, Colorado, Minnesota, Nebraska, Montana, Oklahoma, South Dakota, North Dakota, Iowa and Texas—were represented at the meeting.

LESSON IN NEGOTIATION

I used to be Impartial Chairman of the Pacific Coast waterfront, back when there was really class warfare. One day when I had on the docket a wage case, I asked the parties whether they had negotiated yet. I wasn't going to arbitrate an issue of this sort unless the parties had first tried to settle it themselves.

"All right," they said, somewhat reluctantly, "we'll negotiate." As I got up to leave the room, they said, "Sit down. This won't take long."

The representative of the waterfront employers' association leaned across the table to Harry Bridges and said, "Mr. Bridges, we don't know what you are going to demand but, by God, the answer is no!"

Then Harry Bridges leaned across the table and said, "To tell you the truth, we haven't made up our minds on what we're going to demand but, by God, we won't take no for an answer!"

Then they both turned to me and said, "Mr. Impartial Chairman, here is your case. We have negotiated." — Clark Kerr

NAME'S SAME — Christiane Schmidtmer had no sooner arrived in Hollywood from her native Germany than she was involved in a big argument. Columbia Pictures, where she is making her American debut in "Ship of Fools," insisted that she change her name. Who can pronounce it? Arguing that Lollobrigida hasn't done badly, Schmidtmer has refused to do it.

Leslie Achieves Biggest Ambition

Joe Leslie, former student at Sikeston High School, has achieved his main ambition. And that is to write the "Varsity Show" at Ohio University next year.
He has just completed playing two roles in the production of "Lil Abner".
He has had a lead role in the Varsity Show for the past two years and was Vocal Director this year.
He also loves to sing, sometimes independently, or with the Dimensions, a group that plays for Campus parties.
He is a member of the Blue Key, an honor club, and Pi Kappa Alpha, a social fraternity.
He writes now for the Greek Columns, a campus newspaper made up by Fraternity members.
He is majoring in radio-TV.

Twelve Groups Form Council

According to the American Cancer Society, reduction of cigarette smoking offers greater possibilities than any other available public health measure for the prevention of cancer, of serious illness, of physical disability, of suffering, of premature death in this country.
Consequently the Society has joined with eleven other leading health and education organizations to form the National Interagency Council on Smoking and Health. The purpose of the Council is to save lives through education on the risks of cigarette smoking. National programs will be developed to implement for Surgeon General's 1964 report that "cigarette smoking is a health hazard of sufficient importance in the United States to warrant appropriate remedial action."
Teen-age Program
Meanwhile, the member organizations are conducting their own programs to combat cigarette smoking. The American Cancer Society puts strong emphasis on teen-age education, providing materials for school use and encouraging participation in the program by youth, parents and the community. The concept, which has proved effective, is that it is easier to persuade children not to begin smoking than it is to educate adults to stop after they have acquired the habit.
Almost 4,000,000 secondary school pupils were reached with educational materials on the relationships between smoking and health by the American Cancer Society in the past year; and over 300,000 college students received such information.

NAME'S SAME — Christiane Schmidtmer had no sooner arrived in Hollywood from her native Germany than she was involved in a big argument. Columbia Pictures, where she is making her American debut in "Ship of Fools," insisted that she change her name. Who can pronounce it? Arguing that Lollobrigida hasn't done badly, Schmidtmer has refused to do it.

Leslie Achieves Biggest Ambition

Joe Leslie, former student at Sikeston High School, has achieved his main ambition. And that is to write the "Varsity Show" at Ohio University next year.

He has just completed playing two roles in the production of "Lil Abner".

He has had a lead role in the Varsity Show for the past two years and was Vocal Director this year.

He also loves to sing, sometimes independently, or with the Dimensions, a group that plays for Campus parties.

He is a member of the Blue Key, an honor club, and Pi Kappa Alpha, a social fraternity.

He writes now for the Greek Columns, a campus newspaper made up by Fraternity members.

He is majoring in radio-TV.

Twelve Groups Form Council

According to the American Cancer Society, reduction of cigarette smoking offers greater possibilities than any other available public health measure for the prevention of cancer, of serious illness, of physical disability, of suffering, of premature death in this country.

Consequently the Society has joined with eleven other leading health and education organizations to form the National Interagency Council on Smoking and Health. The purpose of the Council is to save lives through education on the risks of cigarette smoking. National programs will be developed to implement for Surgeon General's 1964 report that "cigarette smoking is a health hazard of sufficient importance in the United States to warrant appropriate remedial action."

Teen-age Program

Meanwhile, the member organizations are conducting their own programs to combat cigarette smoking. The American Cancer Society puts strong emphasis on teen-age education, providing materials for school use and encouraging participation in the program by youth, parents and the community. The concept, which has proved effective, is that it is easier to persuade children not to begin smoking than it is to educate adults to stop after they have acquired the habit.

Almost 4,000,000 secondary school pupils were reached with educational materials on the relationships between smoking and health by the American Cancer Society in the past year; and over 300,000 college students received such information.

Senate Passes Bill To Let Government Employees Bargain

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- A bill authorizing local and state government employes to organize and bargain collectively squeaked through the Senate today.

The vote sending it to the House was 18-14, the bare minimum required.

Peace officers, National Guardsmen and all teachers would be exempt. The employes also would be barred from striking.

Sen. Early R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, said the bill was purely permissive but opponents charged it would lead to trouble.

Sen. Thomas G. Woolsey, R-Versailles, said its legislature would forfeit all control over the wages and working conditions of state employes.

Also sent to the House was a bill to increase the height and length of trucks.

The maximum height would be 13 1/2 feet instead of 12 1/2. Single truck lengths would be increased from 35 to 40 feet, tractor trailers from 50 to 55, automobile transports to 60 feet and cominations to 65 feet on designated highways.

Also passed was a bill to extend the same drug and medical care to the blind as old age assistance recipients now get. The cost is estimated at $323,000 a year.

In the first three hours the House gave final approval to 15 bills, sending 10 of them to the governor and five to the Senate.

Only one provoked any argument-a bill to set the second Sunday in July as "Fire Service Day" when firemen could show the public how they do their work and give instructions on fire safety.

Among bills sent to the governor were ones to:

Increase the pay of St. Louis policemen from the chief on down.

Increase from 13 to 15 the number of Jackson County circuit court judges.

The House passed one bill that was sponsored by the late majority floor leader, Rep. H. F. Pat Patterson, D- Boone County.

It would establish a tax study commission to check into the whole tax structure and methods collection.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has expressed his support of such legislation. The bill now goes to the Senate.

Also sent to the Senate was a bill to let voters in fire districts authorize a tax levy of up to 10 cents on $100 assessed valuation.

Economic Opportunity Act Ready For Business

The organization to approve projects under the Community action section of the Economic Opportunity Act is now ready for business, according to Chairman, Victor E. Downing.

The organization has been named the "Southeast Missouri Economic Opportunity Association, Inc." In a meeting at the Health Center in Hayti on Tuesday night, April 6th, fifty (50) persons enrolled as members. The membership fee is $1.00 per year.

Any person who is a legal voter in Pemiscot County or surrounding areas, and who is actively interested in programs to combat poverty or causes of poverty, is eligible for membership.

Projects discussed in the above-mentioned meeting included: "Pre - School Children," "Health Care," and "Homemaking".

Committees were formed in Hayti, Caruthersville, Gobler, Bragg City and Wardell to develop projects for their respective communities.

The Wardell Committee will meet at the Wardell High School on April 19th at 7:30 p.m. to write up projects for "Pre-School Children" and "Homemaking". Bob McGill and W. F. James will assist the committee.

Other committees needing assistance may contact Chairman, Victor Downing at Bragg City; Bob McGill, Community Development Agent at the University of Missouri Delta Center, Portageville; or W. F. James, County Extension Director, Caruthersville.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Why is England's famous Stonehenge Monument called "the Riddle of Salisbury Plain"?

A—This monument is a group of huge, rough-cut stones. No one knows exactly who placed them there or when. Some scholars date Stonehenge as early as 1800 B.C.

Senate Passes Bill To Let Government Employees Bargain

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- A bill authorizing local and state government employes to organize and bargain collectively squeaked through the Senate today.

The vote sending it to the House was 18-14, the bare minimum required.

Peace officers, National Guardsmen and all teachers would be exempt. The employes also would be barred from striking.

Sen. Early R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, said the bill was purely permissive but opponents charged it would lead to trouble.

Sen. Thomas G. Woolsey, R-Versailles, said its legislature would forfeit all control over the wages and working conditions of state employes.

Also sent to the House was a bill to increase the height and length of trucks.

The maximum height would be 13 1/2 feet instead of 12 1/2. Single truck lengths would be increased from 35 to 40 feet, tractor trailers from 50 to 55, automobile transports to 60 feet and cominations to 65 feet on designated highways.

Also passed was a bill to extend the same drug and medical care to the blind as old age assistance recipients now get. The cost is estimated at $323,000 a year.

In the first three hours the House gave final approval to 15 bills, sending 10 of them to the governor and five to the Senate.

Only one provoked any argument-a bill to set the second Sunday in July as "Fire Service Day" when firemen could show the public how they do their work and give instructions on fire safety.

Among bills sent to the governor were ones to:

Increase the pay of St. Louis policemen from the chief on down.

Increase from 13 to 15 the number of Jackson County circuit court judges.

The House passed one bill that was sponsored by the late majority floor leader, Rep. H. F. Pat Patterson, D- Boone County.

It would establish a tax study commission to check into the whole tax structure and methods collection.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has expressed his support of such legislation. The bill now goes to the Senate.

Also sent to the Senate was a bill to let voters in fire districts authorize a tax levy of up to 10 cents on $100 assessed valuation.

Economic Opportunity Act Ready For Business

The organization to approve projects under the Community action section of the Economic Opportunity Act is now ready for business, according to Chairman, Victor E. Downing.

The organization has been named the "Southeast Missouri Economic Opportunity Association, Inc." In a meeting at the Health Center in Hayti on Tuesday night, April 6th, fifty (50) persons enrolled as members. The membership fee is $1.00 per year.

Any person who is a legal voter in Pemiscot County or surrounding areas, and who is actively interested in programs to combat poverty or causes of poverty, is eligible for membership.

Projects discussed in the above-mentioned meeting included: "Pre - School Children," "Health Care," and "Homemaking".

Committees were formed in Hayti, Caruthersville, Gobler, Bragg City and Wardell to develop projects for their respective communities.

The Wardell Committee will meet at the Wardell High School on April 19th at 7:30 p.m. to write up projects for "Pre-School Children" and "Homemaking". Bob McGill and W. F. James will assist the committee.

Other committees needing assistance may contact Chairman, Victor Downing at Bragg City; Bob McGill, Community Development Agent at the University of Missouri Delta Center, Portageville; or W. F. James, County Extension Director, Caruthersville.

A list of those present at the Association Meeting is as follows:

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Why is England's famous Stonehenge Monument called "the Riddle of Salisbury Plain"?

A—This monument is a group of huge, rough-cut stones. No one knows exactly who placed them there or when. Some scholars date Stonehenge as early as 1800 B.C.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, April 8, the 98th day of 1965. There 267 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1952, President Harry Truman issued an executive order seizing the steel industry in an effort to avert a nationwide strike. The seizure was ruled illegal by the Supreme Court.

On this date

In 1513, Ponce de Leon took possession of Florida in the name of the king of Spain.

In 1826, Henry Clay and Sen. John Randolph of Virginia fought a duel arising from a debate in Congress; neither was hurt and they later became friends.

In 1895, the Supreme Court declared the income tax law passed in 1894 was unconstitutional; taxes collected were returned.

In 1918, the U.S. Army ordered its first air squadron to duty in World War I.

In 1944, an American aerial armade bombed Brunswick, Germany.

Ten years ago — Edward Corsi was dismissed as expediter of immigration in a dispute over his administration of the McCarran-Walter Act.

Five years ago — Moscow rejected as slanderous a West German note protesting Soviet defamation of West Germany.

Janie Albertson Wins Grand Champion Honors

COLUMBIA, Mo., Apr. 2 — Grand champion honors of the Carcass Class of the Missouri Steer and Carcass Show went to Miss Janie Albertson, Green City, it was announced this morning during Livestock Day on the University of Missouri campus.

The winning carcass came from a 940-pound Shorthorn steer which placed second in on-foot competition in the County Class here March 20. The Albertson steer represented Sullivan County.

H. B. Hedrick, MU associate professor of animal husbandry, said the champion carcass graded low prime, had a rib eye area of 12.02 square inches, and backfat thickness of 0.6 inch. Dressing percentage was 66.2.

Miss Albertson's entry and 16 others were slaughtered following on-foot judging to determine the carcass winner.
